BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troup 39 spent a week at Camp Mack, Aug. 13 to 19th. The following scouts participated: Dean Buchenauer, Dale Boyer, Tim Bair, Tom Bair, Ken Henney, Robert Fackler, Dean Chapin, Dave Chapin, Kevin Milligan, Dwight Milligan, Steve Hertz, Ted McKain, Joe Coover, Keith Schreiner, Edward Gable, Dennis Weller, John Rodgers, Ricky Kinsey and Jim Johnson. A committeeman, Dale Boyer accompanied the scouts as an adult leader.

Camp Mack scouts do not live in shelters, they sleep in tents. They all share the cooking responsibilities and meals are prepared outdoors on charcoal stoves.

They learn skills and earn merit badges. Some skills cannot be completed in a week and a special campout was held at Engle's woods Sept. 8, 9 and 10 for the scouts to complete their requirements. For this the boys back packed all their equipment from the scout house to the campsite. For scouts receiving awards, a Court of Honor is being planned for Oct. 18, at the Scout House.

The number of children under five years of age in the U. S. is presently lower than it has been at any time in the past 20 years. However, says James Van Horn, Extension family life specialist at Penn State, our population continues to increase and last year the number of births exceeded deaths by about two million.

Bike Riding and the Law

Bicycle riders and their almost flaunting violations of bicycle rules and laws have become a serious matter in the borough.

Almost any citizen can give repeated personal experience instances of "near disaster" with bicycles as they operate without lights, zip through intersections without concern for stop lights, ride in gangs which chill auto drivers and generally shun responsibility for the safety of themselves or the mental hazard of others.

At a recent meeting of the Borough Council, a citizen appeared to express his concern for the riders and the citizens of the town.

His words of warning were well placed. It is time for all persons involved—youngsters, parents, adult citizens, police, borough mayor and borough council to take appropriate action to curb the danger.

In the pages of newspapers, there is nothing sadder than the account of a child maimed or killed in a bicycle accident.

Let's straighten up this situation before we count the casualties.

In case someone does not know the bicycle rules in Mount Joy, here they are (in capsule form) as taken from the borough's own ordinance book:

No bicycle shall be ridden without effective brakes and a horn or bell. Nor shall it be ridden at night without a light on the front and reflector or light on the rear.

Bicycles shall not be ridden on the sidewalks (except newsboys with a permit from the borough) nor shall they be parked on the sidewalks except in an upright position so as not to obstruct traffic.

Bicycle riders shall observe intersection stop signs as automobiles are required to do.

It is illegal to: Ride with both hands removed from the handlebars; to hold onto or be towed by any other moving vehicle; for more than one person to ride on a bike built for one person or for more than two people to ride a bicycle built for two; to ride zig-zag or perform or attempt to perform tricks; to ride abreast of more than one bicycle, or to race with another bike or other vehicle.

Bicycles, the Police Chief, summarizes, are bound by the same traffic regulations as are autos.

SCHOOL DISCIPLINE

It is well to take stock of our local schools every so often, and the beginning of the new school year is a good time to review local conditions.

Parents of children—many of whom have been raised on progressive theories which are now largely discredited—have an obligation to cooperate with school authorities in every way possible and to make their task easier as they attempt to guide, train and educate the children of this community.

Children must be disciplined, as well as educated, for if they are not disciplined they cannot be educated. This is one point parents must keep in mind. Also, it should be remembered that proper disciplining never hurt anyone, and is a requisite in our social order.

As the school year get underway, we urge all parents to cooperate with teachers and school officials, and encourage their children to approach school with the proper attitude.

IMAGINATION

Imagination is practical and creative. Two boys, both owning bicycles, applied at the same store for a job in their small town. One was hired and the other turned down. The one who was hired had used his imagination and suggested a new type of quick delivery with his bicycle. How do you use your imagination? It is a quality that we all possess and we can enhance our life by its proper use. Consider a particular situation in your life which concerns you. Look at it imaginatively—from all angles. You will be surprised at what you discover.

AWARENESS

Have you ever known a person who seemed totally unaware of the feelings of those around him? He goes right on hurting people, one after another. To become fully aware of others, we need to focus our attention on what they are saying and try to imagine what they may be feeling. Turn your attention to your own breathing. Think about it. It is easy to see that air goes into your body while you are not conscious of it. But as you focus your entire attention on breathing, you have a keen sense of awareness. The same is true of people. We all love those who are aware of our thoughts and feelings.

STAND

In our frontyard there are many little chipmunks. They sit up by the holes they've made in the ground, and when I come too close, they take refuge in their hole. I of course have no intention of harming them, but they do not know that. Often the problems that arise in our life seem like giants stalking toward us. We may be tempted to withdraw to avoid confronting the problem. But if we have the courage to stand and face the problem, we see it is no giant, simply an opportunity to learn and grow.
