IDEALISM

Someone said, "We must not teach people the way things should be, but the way things are." Many of us start life with certain ideals and become disillusioned when we find that life does not live up to our ideals. The important question is, then, "What will become of us? What shall we do about it? Shall we give up our ideals and look only at what is called reality?" It seems to me that the strongest person is the one who sees life as it is—and then moves forward with the best that is in him to fulfill his idealism.
