TWO BRIDGES

are limited to four tons and New Haven is posted for 12-ton limit.

None of the other crossings are posted.

When further study as to the safety of the bridges can be made, is not known as of this week. But, Borough Manager George Ulrich emphasized that the borough has no expertise for making a study.

Such information, presumably, would come from the Public Utilities Commission.

School buses, one bus operator told the Bulletin recently, weigh about 10 tons, loaded. The new Hahn pumper owned by Friendship Fire company weighs about 16 tons, loaded.

Recently, while Penn Central railroad workmen were repairing the Jacob street bridge, a huge crane appeared at the scene, intending to cross to do some work on a private site south of the railroad.

Stopped by the crew foreman, the driver said that his rig weighed maybe 20 to 25 tons.

The foreman would not permit the crane to cross that bridge.

PRAYER OF THE WEEK

The prayer this week is by John Henry Newman:
"O My God, Thou and Thou alone art all-wise and all-knowing! I believe that Thou knowest just what is best for me. I believe that Thou lovest me better than I love myself, that Thou art all-wise in Thy providence and all-powerful in Thy protection. I thank Thee, with all my heart, that Thou hast taken me out of my own keeping, and hast bidden me to put myself in Thy hands. I can ask nothing better than this, to be Thy care, not my own. O my Lord, through Thy grace, I will follow Thee withersoever Thou goest, and will not lead the way. I will wait on Thee for Thy guidance, and on obtaining it, I will act in simplicity and without fear. Amen.
