Dies While Repairing Mount Joy Property

A Mount Joy property owner who lives in Lancaster died here Thursday afternoon, Aug. 30, while doing repair work under his house at 205 N. Barbara.

Charles M. Strosser, 61, of 341 W. Orange street, Lancaster, was found in a crawl space in the basement of the property, known locally as the "old Orphanage." He was discovered lying on his back at about 10:15 a.m., a pair of pliers in his left hand.

At first, Deputy Coroner Dr. Thomas Conner said, it was believed Strosser touched a live wire. Dr. Conner added, however, that electricity had been turned off.

Strosser's body was taken from Mount Joy to Conestoga View where an autopsy was performed.
