QUESTIONS PP&L CUSTOMERS ARE ASKING

Why must PP&L keep on building
new plants and lines?

Answer

The only facilities being built by PP&L are those required to adequately care for the growing power needs of its consumers. New families are being formed every day.

New homes and schools are being built every year. More and more electricity is needed to power air cleaning, sewerage and other pollution control equipment. All this means increased power demands and PP&L must have electricity ready and waiting when users want it.

PP&L can't tell people to stop using electricity. But PP&L could and did, some time ago, stop promoting greater use. In fact, present communications efforts are directed toward informing people how to get the most out of the electricity they do ask for. Conserving energy is not only essential in these days of dwindling resources but a way for consumers to hold down their electric bills.
