Schenck resigns

Robert D. Schenck, Jr.

Robert D. Schenck, Jr., who has been on the staff of the Mount Joy Library since its founding, has resigned, and will be moving to Florida with his parents in the near future.

Mr. Schenck says he will miss the juvenile patrons of the library the most. A second grader made a special trip to the library to say goodbye to him when she heard he would be leaving.

Not only will he be missing the children, but also Mrs. James Heilig, who was in charge of the story hours for the children.

Schenck said he owes a debt of gratitude to Mrs. Alice Heilman, who taught him a great deal about library work, even taking him to the Millersville State College library as part of his training. Mrs. Heilman is librarian at the Manheim Township schools.

The Bulletin visited Mr. Schenck at his home. His room is filled with books, many of them on the pre-Civil War history of the United States. He is especially fond of works on the philosophy of history, on which he has some ideas of his own. He hopes one day to get some of his ideas down on paper.

He is grateful to all the people of Mount Joy who helped him. He enjoyed working with the staff, and said it was a pleasure to serve the people of Mount Joy.

He feels that perhaps his largest contribution was to show that a handicapped person can be useful and to help other people understand handicapped people.
