Betty Groff speaks to library group

by Susan Bowser

The Friends of the Elizabethtown Public Library is being established as a broad based community group to provide support for the library and its programs. Future social and travel activities are also planned for the Friends group.

Betty Groff, co-owner of the Groff Farm Restaurant and author of the popular "Good Earth and Country Cooking," will speak. In addition to running her nationally recognized restaurant, the Mount Joy woman has just been named to the board of directors of Nationwide Corp., a national insurance company. She also has traveled throughout the country for cooking demonstrations and speaking engagements. A country girl touring the big city can have some strange and amusing experiences and Mrs. Groff will describe hers Sunday afternoon.

The purpose of the meeting will be to elect members to the board of directors and to establish guidelines for the future functioning of the organization. Plans for future Friends activities will also be discussed. Only members may vote and serve. Refreshments will be served.
