

Donegal Church

by Amy Biesecker

Our Church is just gray,
But it's very very gay.

But sometimes it's sorrowing inside
When someone died.

But mostly happy because
We make it that way.

Above the door there is a crack
And at the side of the slanting roof,

The birdies build their nests
In that because it's waterproof.

Outside the door
There is a strong and steady tree
With a root going down so deep
It will always grip the floor.

We call it the Witness Tree,
With a fence around it for everyone to see.

By the Spring there is a wall, with Daffodils along its side that are nice
To say you saw.

We clean the Spring
That makes our hearts ring.

Sometimes we have a wedding by the Spring.
With a groom and a bride
Which gives us great pride
Because the Spring is clean.

Come on Sunday to the Church and pray,
And then you'll feel good the rest of the day.

After Church we have Sunday School,
That ends with a bell.

And then we go home
To lunch's good smells.

Aluminum Co. asks to run shredder at night

The Marietta Zoning Hearing Board met last week to consider a request from U.S. Aluminum Co. to operate its scrap metal shredder until midnight.

Presently, the shredder is stopped at 4 p.m. The proposal to extend the shredder's operation hours was opposed by about 30 residents at the meeting on grounds that the shredder makes extensive noise.

According to zoning board chairman Jack Frey, the hearing last night was simply to gather information on the issue and a decision can be expected in several weeks.

The company is requesting a variance or relaxing of a zoning noise regulation, Frey said. The company said it had extra work and needed to use the shredder more often.

Fewer crimes in Marietta in '75

The overall crime rate in Marietta dropped this year, but juvenile and criminal offenses rose.

Statistics released by Chief James Millar show that only 145 offenses were committed in the first half of 1975. There were 174 offenses in the first half of '74.

Vehicle accidents and traffic arrests declined this year.

In the first half of this year, there were 91 criminal arrests, 68 juvenile arrests, 117 traffic arrests, 21 vehicle accidents, and 91 ordinance arrests.

In the first 6 months of last year there were 157 juvenile and criminal vehicle accidents, and 91 arrests, 60 ordinance arrests and 34 traffic accidents.

According to Chief Millar, ordinance arrests rose because of increased police action and updating of old parking tickets.
