Preston Neys celebrate 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Ney, 228 N. Poplar Street in Elizabethtown, observed their 50th wedding anniversary with a luncheon held in their home by their sons and sons' wives.

An early celebration was held here in July when their son Jack and his wife Barbara were here from Oregon, at the home of their son Robert.

The Neys were married August 29, 1925 by Rev. Edward Ninde at his parsonage in West Chester.

The Neys are the parents of four sons: James and Robert of Elizabethtown; Jack, Hillsboro, Oregon; and Glenn, Hummelstown. They have been residents of Elizabethtown for 50 years and Mr. Ney was Superintendent of the Elizabethtown Water Co. for 25 years. He is now retired. They also have two granddaughters and three grandsons.

DID YOU HEAR....

Ben Herr (and his mother) were honored at a baby shower held recently at the home of Ben's grandparents on his father's side in Millersville. The party was attended by a multitude of friends who followed Ben's progress with great interest for months before his birth several weeks ago.

Ben is the son of Martha and Willis Herr, proprietors of Herr's Fruit Stand in Marietta. He has four brothers and sisters.

Martha and Willis were the first "Adam and Eve" ever published in the SUSQUEHANNA TIMES.

Community Action helps to winterize homes

The Lancaster Community Action Program and the Lancaster Housing Development Corporation will again offer the Winterization Program.

This program will enable low and moderate income county residents to "Winterize" this Fall and hopefully help defray the cost of heating as the cold weather approaches.

The main goal of the program is energy conservation—making improvements to seal off a house from unnecessary heat loss. For eligible people, free materials are being provided by a grant from the Pennsylvania Department of Community Affairs and free labor by the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA), giving jobs to people on unemployment.

As the program works, an experienced contractor will visit a home and make an estimate of the kind of improvements most needed, the process and the length of time needed. Winterization crews are then scheduled to do anything necessary to seal off a house; insulation, installing storm windows, caulking, reglazing windows, banking and sealing foundations, patching a roof, or repairing a chimney.

Materials and labor will be provided. In special instances, repair work will not be completed without the financial support of the owner.

For some homes, winterization is impossible without larger repair projects such as new roof or repairing a hole in a foundation. The Farmer's Home Administration is cooperating with the winterization program by making low-interest home improvement loans available to eligible families in rural areas (which includes all of Lancaster County except Lancaster City, its suburbs and Columbia). These loans can go farther because they will only be used to cover the cost of materials. Labor will be provided by the winterization crews.

The loan will have to be repaid at low interest over a length of time but the improvements are expected to reduce heating costs equal to the monthly payment required by Farmer's

Home Administration.

You may be eligible for the home winterization program if you are a homeowner, occupying your own home and have an annual income of less than $5,000. Persons with slightly higher incomes may also be eligible for Farmer's Home Administration improvements loan.

For more information call the Housing Development Corporation 397-3787, or the Community Action Program centers in Columbia, 684-8047, or Elizabethtown, 367-1909. The Office of Aging, 299-2547, can also answer further questions about the program. People in Lancaster and Columbia should call immediately since jobs there will be scheduled first.
