Mayor McDevitt of Marietta thanks all who cooperated in preparations against the flood

This letter is from Marietta Mayor McDevitt, Council President Parker, Police Chief Millar, all Borough officials, and Mr. Breckline and Mr. McDowell, Civil Defense officials to thank everyone who helped us in our hour of need.

Special thanks are due to all borough residents for their help and cooperation, proving that when the chips are down, Americans can do what has to be done. We wish to extend our thanks to: the National Guard who supplied us with six trucks and 30 men, moving residents as soon as calls came to our headquarters; the Red Cross, which supplied food and lodging in our elementary school, that was set up and ready within two hours notice; the Sheriff's office and men, who set up our security; the excellent communications system set up within minutes;

the local and neighboring fire companies and fire police; and the many, many more organizations that helped and offered help. We thank you all from the bottom of our hearts.

Please remember when visiting our town in the future that you should feel free to visit our office for any help or assistance we can offer.

Gratefully,
B. R. McDevitt
Mayor of Marietta
