Odd-looking gentleman was seen peering from the window of Jaycee center

Boy meets vampire in Marietta Jaycee center

Andrew Zuch got a surprise when he looked in the coffin.

Andrew Zuch couldn't wait for the regular 7 to 10 p.m. nightly tours of "Scream in the Dark" at the new Jaycee center off W. Market St. and Waterford Ave. Andrew went early.

He avoided paying the 50 cent donation charged on regular tours, but met some pretty weird characters anyway.

See page 7 for details of Jaycee Halloween activities.

Dr. Landis, Jim try to take Quebec

Dr. William B. Landis, president of Donegal School Board, and his son James have just returned from a 12 day march from Pittston, Maine, to Quebec, Canada, where they helped in the re-enactment of the American siege of 1775 on the British stronghold of Quebec.

Dr. Landis served as a buck private in the expedition taking his orders from the person playing the role of Captain Hendricks.

He said that being a buck private in the Continental Army, after 20 years of medical practice, was a new experience for him. "I learned a lot," he said, including a lot of history.

Dr. Landis studied history en route to Quebec and is full of details about the original unsuccessful expedition lead by the later infamous Benedict Arnold.

As the 700 Americans moved north rumor spread in Canada that the Americans "intended to take Quebec this time."

As a result, lots of British were on hand to greet the Landises and their comrades with artillery and rifles when they got to Quebec.

The battle was spectacular. Jim, a fifer, left his father, a rifleman, in the ranks and went forward to lead the charge.

After the battle, Jim went about the battlefield administering last rites to the fallen Americans, including Captain Hendricks, who was "killed" according to the history script.

The "corpse" of Hendricks shook with laughter as young Jim Landis said final words over it.

Spanking OK, if, when, how, but

Following guidelines of the State Department of Education, Donegal School Board decided last Thursday night to permit corporal punishment in the schools under strict conditions.

Parents may request in writing that their children not be punished physically.

Corporal punishment may be administered "with discretion" by a professional staff member, if there is a witness.

If physical punishment is used the punisher must file a written report on the punishment with his/her immediate supervisor before the end of the school day when the punishment took place. Full particulars must be given in the report which must be signed by the punisher and the witness.

If family moves, seniors may finish at D.H.S.

Donegal decided to continue its general policy of not accepting students who live outside the school district but who would pay tuition.

There are two exceptions to the general policy:

Students who have attended Donegal Schools for 120 or more school days in a school year and whose families move out of the district, may finish the school year without paying tuition;

Also, students who have finished their junior year in high school and also have attended Donegal Schools for five or more consecutive previous years, may attend Donegal during their senior year, if they pay tuition.

Pupils can be expelled for 'detrimental' acts

Students may be expelled from Donegal Schools if they willfully destroy property, invade the rights of others, engage in illegal acts, fight, use or possess illegal drugs, alcohol, or narcotics.

They may also be expelled for any misconduct "detrimental to the health, safety, and welfare of the school community."

Conditions for expulsion were defined last Thursday night at the meeting of the Donegal School Board.

Harnish, Grimm, Koerner resign from schools

Samuel S. Harnish, Jr., resigned as principal of Beahm Junior High School after 40 years in education, 10 years as principal. Lily Grimm, high school guidance Counsellor, resigned after 40 years in education, 30 years in the Donegal District.

High school history and English teacher, Charles R. Koerner, also resigned.

Sites, Nissley to fill school business positions

Woodrow Sites, Jr., principal of Seiler Elementary School, was appointed to the additional post of Director of Business for Donegal School District by the Board last Thursday. He succeeds Dr. Ralph E. Coleman, who resigned last year.

Margaret Nissley was appointed District Secretary of Business. Mr. Sites and Mrs. Nissley will both be compensated $1500 annually for their additional duties.

DHS Band uniforms frayed, worn, unzippable

The Band Parents Club has requested that the School Board buy new uniforms for the band.

Patrick Kenney, Jr., told the board that 185 uniforms are needed.

Mrs. Jay Eberly said the present uniforms are worn thin by the instruments, cuffs are frayed, zippers won't work. Only 104 1/2 uniforms are useable by the 111 band members.

The present band uniforms were purchased in 1965 for $175 per student.
