

Letters to editor

The BULLETIN has adopted a new policy about letters to the editor.

In the past we have published letters without a person's name—provided we knew the identity of the writer. Our knowledge of the writer's identity was heresay for our legal protection.

In the future, we have decided to publish letters only if the writer is willing to have his name published with his or her letter.

This new policy will, we think, encourage a sense of responsibility in writing letters to the editor.

We want more letters to the editor, signed letters.

Dear Editor:

Webster simply doesn't contain enough superlatives to amply express our total satisfaction with our exemplary medical institution, the Columbia Hospital. From the moment of our son's entrance into the professionally staffed emergency unit, throughout the stages of his admission, over three weeks of concerned and dedicated care, and his subsequent recovery and release, we encountered naught but efficiency, constancy, proficiency, and immaculateness. Having experienced eleven and a half years of city hospitalization, there is no comparison to the personal, amiable, familial atmosphere of The Columbia Hospital.

May we extend our deepest appreciation to the medical staff and the board of directors for their voluntary guidance and knowledge, experience and talents to perpetuate the "consummate care facility" we are all privileged to call our own. Our gratitude is extended to the doctors and nurses on our son's case and especially to the inhalation therapy team with whom we've had our first encounter. This team has consistently produced rewarding results with their efforts.

In addition to their professionalism, they are extremely personable and helped our son through many tiresome ordeals.

Thank God for our excellent community hospital and for the personnel our hospital employs. All of us, encompassing the entire serviceable area of The Columbia Hospital, should be constantly supportive and proud of its existence and reputation.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gilmartin and Son

Dear Editor:

Enclosed is my check for a one-year renewal to the SUSQUEHANNA BULLETIN.

My husband and I enjoy the paper. We are both from the area -- I from Mount Joy and he from the Middletown area. It keeps me up-to-date on the news about friends and acquaintances, and we both enjoy the special interest stories about the citizens of the area and the new attractions in the area. We get back to the Donegal area quite frequently and have been spending our summers in that vicinity for several years; so we are kept informed of new developments through the SUSQUEHANNA BULLETIN and search out those things of interest when we return.

Sincerely
Cynthia Ann Hertzler
