

Eloped on the Morning Previous.

An affecting story comes from Oakland, Cal. A wealthy, middle-aged Englishman had become somewhat jealous of his pretty wife. A young New Yorker, with engaging manners and a cutaway coat, was the cause of his disquietude. The disturbed Benedict concluded to try the threepenny trick of ostensibly going up to Sacramento for a week. The second day, however, he returned and let himself quietly into the house. In the library were several coats of mail brought over from England, and in one of these he hid. Then he awaited developments. To his great astonishment, at 9 o'clock passed without any one calling for his wife coming down stairs. At about 1 A. M. he fell asleep through fatigue, and began snoring. The butler thought he heard burglars about, so he came down stairs in his nightgown, with a double barreled gun under his arm. The jealous gentleman had just begun to dream he was an ironclad, when a handful of quail shot took him in the breast-plate, and, amid his terrific shrieks, the butler promptly put the other load into the pier glass under the impression that another burglar was drawing a bead on him. After the whole neighborhood had been aroused, the mistake was discovered. Amid the snickers of the entire assembly the chagrined man crawled up stairs to his bedroom. A small note was sticking on the cushion. His wife had eloped the morning before.

Foot Hunters Again at Work.

Reed & Co., of 79 Nassau street are sending out by mail circulars advertising the "Cheyenne State Lottery," enclosing six tickets and the following explanation: "Enclosed we send six tickets in the drawing of Feb. 15. By remitting $5 we will leave the balance of $5 due on them to be deducted from the prizes after the drawing, as we guarantee them to draw the balance due without any further payment from you. We will allow you one ticket free for every five tickets you sell. If you remit $10 we will send you by return of mail five more tickets, and also one of the agent's special prize tickets free of cost. Remember, every ticket wins a prize. Being only agents for these State drawings, it is our interest to have you draw a large prize. Give us one trial." The anxiety of Reed & Co., to protect their correspondence from the eyes of the Post Office authorities is shown by this injunction: "In remitting money for tickets do not send Post Office money orders nor registered letters. Fold the money carefully in your letter, direct plainly, and it will come safe. No notice will be taken of postal cards."

Jealousy and Murder in a Ballroom.

At a country ball about eight miles from Jasper, Pickens county, Ga., on Friday night a week were Mrs. Cowart, daughter of William Fowler, about 26 years of age, and Mrs. Suthard, daughter of J. Hambrick, about 18 years of age. The former had for some time been divorced, and the latter had been married only about a year.

Mrs. Cowart accepted the tender of Mr. Suthard to be her partner in the dance, and as the two went on the floor Mrs. Suthard approached Mrs. Cowart and objected. Mrs. Cowart, however, refused to yield the company of Mr. Suthard for the dance.

Thereupon Mrs. Suthard became enraged, and in a moment the infuriated women clenched each other by the hair, and after a struggle fell to the floor, fighting like enraged tigresses. Mrs. Suthard, with an open knife, cut Mrs. Cowart's throat from ear to ear, killing her almost instantly.

Whooping Cough.

Middletown, Pa., April 24. Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Co. About seven months since I was severely afflicted with whooping cough, and had almost given up the hope of recovery. It was a most violent attack of this destructive and dangerous disease. I had tried every remedy which I had heard recommended, but they all failed entirely until a trial of Dr. WISTERS BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY was commenced, the use of which gave immediate relief. Under similar circumstances, rather than be without the Balsam, I would pay fifty dollars for a bottle of it, believing that it is the only certain antidote for the disease. I most cheerfully recommend this invaluable remedy to the public. GEO. W. ETTER. 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

An Alabama Jury's Astonishing Verdict.

A jury in Alabama had been impelled in the case of a Mr. Johnson, charged with killing his wife. The evidence was positive and conclusive, leaving no doubt of his speedy conviction. To the amazement of all, the jury, after a short absence, returned a verdict finding the man guilty of horse stealing. The Judge asked an explanation, stating that the indictment was not for horse stealing, but for manslaughter. The foreman, with his hand upon a huge law book, and with an amusingly dignified air, informed the court that "it was not a case of manslaughter, but woman-slaughter, for which the law made no provision; but being satisfied the man deserved to be hanged, they had brought in a verdict of horse stealing, which, in that country would be sure to swing him."

"The Christian at Work."

Evangelical, Non-Sectarian, Independent.

Wide-Awake, Spicy and Entertaining. REV. WM. M. TAYLOR, D. D., Editor in Chief. M. H. BRIGHT, Managing Editor. TERMS: $3 A YEAR, POSTAGE PAID. In securing the services of Rev. William M. Taylor, D. D., as Editor in Chief.

The Christian at Work

Takes a decided step in advance. Infelixible in its allegiance to Scripture authority, it will combine the dignity of the scholar, the courtesy of the gentleman and the lover of the Christian. It will not be a personal organ, nor will it be subject to impulse nor governed by caprice. Believing that Christian truth should be declared with simplicity and earnestness, it will be direct without being dull, and versatile without being trivial. A paper for all, and one that all should take because they cannot afford to do without it. Send for sample copy. J. N. HALLOCK, Publisher, 102 Chambers Street, N. Y.
