PENNSYLVANIA R. R.—MIDDLE DIVISION.

On and after June 11th, Trains run as follows:

Table with columns for WESTWARD and EASTWARD, listing stations like Harrisburg, Lockville, and Middletown with arrival and departure times.

Brief Items.

Duncannon proposes to have a celebration on the fourth of July, and a parade of the O. U. A. M. The wealthy editors of the State went on an excursion last week to Water Gap. We didn't go.

Fred Foose of Spring twp., was arrested on Tuesday for disorderly conduct at a singing on Saturday night.

A daughter of Mr. John Rice, got her front finger badly mashed by getting it into the cogs of a cider mill one day last week.

A young son of Mr. David Tressler, of Centre twp., fell from a cherry tree on Sunday morning last, and was considerably stunned.

The burgess of this borough gives notice that the ordinance prohibiting the use of fireworks and fire-crackers within the borough limits will be enforced.

On Sunday a week a swarm of bees came to the premises of Mr. Daniel Swartz, in Juniata twp., and after trying in vain to get into his chimney and then into his hives, went to a tree where they were afterward secured.

Mr. John Bessler, of Tuscarora twp., complains of the Sunday trespassing of would be ladies and gentlemen. He wants them to read and pay attention to a notice he gives to such Christians and the public generally.

The Democratic County Committee held a meeting on Monday of last week. J. J. Sporenberger was elected delegate to the Democratic State Convention and R. H. Wingert and H. C. Hoffman were elected senatorial conferees.

The other night when Rev. A. W. Decker was passing along Seventh street, in Huntingdon, a big black ferocious dog ran out and seized his pants and made a rent as large as a Dutch baby's face. The dog was not mad but it is safe to say Mr. Decker was.

A resident of Buffalo twp., was confident the other night that the Devil was in his garden. He heard the chains clank and next morning found the prints of the cloven foot. His "garden sass" was mostly destroyed too. Some people do not believe as he does, and think the trouble was caused by a cow with a chain on her neck.

As conductor John Craig was passing through one of the sleeping cars on the Pacific west, Sunday morning a week, he picked up two $100 bills and a fifty. No one on first inquiry claimed the money, but subsequently a passenger said he had lost the money, described it, and it was turned over to him at Altoona.

A meeting of quite a number of the victims of the "over-issue-stolen-money-swindle," and some of the "speculators" was held at Newport on Friday night. The intention was to try and compromise the matter and keep the restive victims from laying such information as will give the District Attorney a chance to commence proceedings. No agreement was arrived at, but it is probable another meeting will be held. Both parties had their lawyers present, and every exertion is being made to keep the matter from coming before the Court.

Church Notices.

Union service in the Presbyterian Church next Sunday evening. Presbyterian Service next Sunday morning at 10 1/2 o'clock. Sabbath School at 9 1/2 a. m. Prayer meeting next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Musical College at Freeburg, Pa., commences its Summer Session of six weeks, July 31st. Send for circular. F. C. MOYER, Director. 31

No Paper Next Week.—In consequence of having to send a portion of our press to New York for repairs, we shall not be able to issue any paper next week.

More Stealing in Buffalo Twp.—On the night of the 19th inst., some person entered the hotel kept by Adam Fortney at Montgomery's Ferry, and carried off a quantity of liquor and other articles. They also turned the spigots of the vessels and let what liquor they did not steal run out on the cellar bottom. Entrance was effected by cutting out the cellar window.

A Startled Household.—On Friday night a week the persons in the house of Mr. W. Burn, of this place were startled by a piercing scream which came from the room occupied by his daughter Ella, and a Miss Long. It seems that after the young ladies had retired and after Miss Long had fallen asleep, Miss Ella saw some man moving around in the room. He examined the dresses in the closet and other articles in the room, she being too frightened to move or speak, though she tried to wake Miss L., by pinching her. After a while the man went out towards the room occupied by Mr. Burn when Ella gave the alarm. Mr. B. was awakened by her screams, and before he was thoroughly aroused he saw some person pass out of his room in the direction of a window in the rear of the house from which he made his escape. Who was the visitor or what his object is not known.

Barn Burned.—On the afternoon of Thursday last, the bank barn on the farm of William A. Shields, situated in Toboyne twp., near New Germantown, was destroyed by fire, together with its contents, including a buggy.—It is alleged that the fire was caused by lightning, during the progress of the heavy thunder storm which visited portions of our county on the afternoon in question. The structure and contents were insured in the Farmers' Fire Insurance Company, of York, Pa., as follows: Barn, $800; hay and grain in barn, $300; buggy, $75; harness and farming implements, $125.

Is it So?—The Harrisburg Patriot says: Grangerism is said to be on the decline in different sections of the State. The rise and spread of the "Patrons of Husbandry" was really wonderful. In a very short time thousands of granges were organized throughout the Union and the membership aggregated hundreds of thousands. It was a power in the north-west, where it carried all before it. Candidates for office were swept along with the tide, and even governors connived at questionable legislation to gain its influence. All this is over.—Starting out as an organization entirely freed from politics, it was nevertheless captured by the politicians; in fact, too much politics did the work, and the grange is only another instance of an untimely death at the hands of the politicians.

Sudden Death.—The citizens of Carlisle were deeply shocked on Monday morning at the announcement that William H. Miller, a leading attorney of the Carlisle bar, had been smitten suddenly with paralysis. The circumstances were substantially as follows: Mr. Miller had been in the full enjoyment of his usual health for considerable time past, and had spent the Sabbath in his accustomed manner. He gave no evidence of sickness or prostration when he retired to rest on Sabbath evening. But upon waking this (Monday) morning, about half past five o'clock, he at once complained of feeling sick, and was induced to remain in bed. About six o'clock he attempted to rise and was immediately smitten down with paralysis of the brain and remained in an utterly helpless and unconscious condition until his death, which occurred at eleven o'clock and forty-five minutes—a little more than six hours after the stroke.

Mr. Miller has left the partner of his laborious but prosperous life, to mourn his sudden and untimely death. But he has left her not only an ample competence for life, but what is of inestimable more value, the record of a blameless and honorable career.—Carlisle Volunteer.

The Cabbage Butterfly.—Few persons are aware that one butterfly will lay hundreds of eggs, and the following facts and incident regarding this pest will, we think, be of interest to our readers.

There are several insects known to entomologists by this name, three of which—the large white—the smaller white—and the green veined white are common to Great Britain and a fourth more common in many parts of New England and introduced from Europe is yellow with two black spots on the forward wings and one on the hinder wings.

The one more common to this region and so hurtful to our cabbages is probably the small white British with expanse of wings about 2 inches, while the large white British has expanse of wings 2 1/2 or 3 inches. The wings of both are spotted with black. The female of the large white lays cone-shaped eggs 20 or 30 in a cluster, and the caterpillars coming forth are very voracious eating twice their weight of cabbage leaf in 24 hours. They however only strip the leaves, while the one troubling us brings forth from its circular eggs caterpillars which make straight for the heart of the cabbage and thus ruin the whole head. In addition to this our now acclimatized butterfly lays large quantities of eggs, the general plan being as with the others to lay them on the leaves of cabbages. One was however observed by a lady in town here last week laying eggs on a twig and it kept on till dark before stopping. The twig was then examined and found to have 5 inches covered with 4 rows of eggs 30 to the inch in each row or 600 in all and then nearly 1/2 of this space doubled over as the end of the twig was reached, so that about 1000 eggs had been laid. The best way to fight the pests is to let small birds stay in the garden in spite of a little destruction to other useful vegetables.

We have the stiek covered with the eggs referred to above and it is a curiosity worth examination.

Sad Drowning Case.—On Saturday morning a little son of B. M. Eby and Frank, a little son of Rev. Kretzing, aged about 8 years, got on a small raft at Cook's saw mill at Newport, and while playing the son of Mr. Kretzing reached for a twig that came floating down the canal and lost his balance. The other lad did not give the alarm till his playmate had sunk several times and then finding he did not get out, ran to the mill and told the men. They at once went to his assistance but he had sunk and it was fifteen or twenty minutes before the body was found. Mr. Kretzing and his wife were both absent at the time, but Mr. K. reached home about the time the corpse of his little son was brought in.

Fun in Newport.—On Saturday afternoon, two chaps drove into the square at Newport, and calling a small party around them, began business by one stating that he was there for the purpose of "skinning" that crowd. He then offered for sale a two bill for $1.25, and as the bill was good that was a clear profit to the purchaser of 75 cents. He then sold the $1.25 for $1; the $1 for 75cts. and so on, till he sold the last quarter for ten cents, which he threw into the crowd. He then offered sleeve buttons for sale at a dollar a pair, saying they were worth $1 per dozen, but as he was going to give the money back, it made no difference. He sold some, and then put up chains, selling a few and giving the money back each time. He then took up another lot and said, now the price this time is $2 and the man who is the most liberal will fare the best. The stamps were passed up to him till he had nearly $40, some having given over $2 to show their "liberality" or greenness.

The man then held up the money, said it was not much of a pile, but still it was better than nothing, and he thought he would keep it, and shoving it in his pocket he drove out of town. Some of investors will in future think that tobacco selling, insurance business, and hotel keeping are really more profitable than dealing in jewelry. The chaps afterwards came to this town, but must have thought the crowd on the square was too sharp to get bit, and drove toward Carlisle.

Government Signal Stations.—B. F. Warren, civil engineer, of Philadelphia, is traversing the high mountains above Millerstown, Perry county, for the purpose of establishing a signal station in that neighborhood, to form the last one of a triangle of signals; the other two are on the top of the mountain below Dauphin, nine miles north of this city, and at Doubling Gap, Perry county. After climbing the summits of Slaughterbeck and Auber's hills, above Millerstown, they were not satisfied with either one, and on Saturday crossed the Juniata and traveled over the Tuscarora until they reached a high bluff, about four miles from the river, on which they have partially concluded to fix a signal. From this point the other stations mentioned can be seen, as well as one on a very high mountain in Adams county. The gentlemen are sent out by the United States coast survey, and are under the direction of the United States government. The object is to secure data from which the geological survey being made in this state can complete their labors. From these stations it is intended to get accurate air line measurements, and thereby assist in making up an accurate map of the state.—Patriot.

Cumberland County.—We copy the following from the Cumberland county papers of last week:

A two-year old son of Mr. James M. Smith, of the Second ward, was badly scalded on Sunday morning last. The little fellow, during the temporary absence of the mother, unfortunately upset a cup of hot tea over his face and breast. The little fellow suffered considerable pain for a few days, but is now out of danger.

On Friday morning last Miss Emma Cornman, daughter of our North Hanover street furniture dealer, visited the farm of Mr. Benj. Peffer, on the Walnut Bottom road for the purpose of procuring cream for the use of the Reformed Mite Society at their festival. Upon entering Mr. Peffer's premises three dogs attacked her, one biting her on the foot and causing an ugly wound while the others tore her clothing. Prompt assistance saved the young lady serious injuries. As it was her foot was badly torn, but fortunately no serious consequences are likely to result.—Mirror.

Greenburg Hopkins, a colored man in the employ of Charles Meek, of Carlisle, made a marvelous escape from a fatal accident on Saturday evening last. Hopkins was driving a two-horse team in the lower end of town, and was about crossing the railroad track at the Gas House, as the 5:30 train was rapidly approaching. Hopkins noticed the train coming, but thought he could get over the crossing before the train could get there. In this he was badly sold, for, just as the hind wheels of the wagon were leaving the track, they were struck by the locomotive, and as might be expected, the wagon was knocked into kindling wood. Hopkins who was driving, was thrown a distance of ten feet, but was not injured. The horses escaped unhurt. The engineer of the train, Mr. John Roney, is not to be censured, for he gave the signal whistle before the train was near the crossing.

Juniata County.—We copy the following from the Juniata county papers of last week.

On Tuesday afternoon a house and barn belonging to Mr. C. R. Richards, situated in Turbett township, were totally destroyed by fire. The fire originated in the barn, and a strong west wind prevailing at the time, drove the flames toward the house, which was only a short distance away. Sparks entered the house through an open window, setting fire to a bed, on which two children were sleeping, and it was with great difficulty that they were rescued by the mother. Only a few minutes elapsed after the house was discovered to be on fire until it was wrapped in flames, and but few things were saved, the inmates only saving the wearing apparel which they had on at the time. A Mr. Trego, brother of Mrs. Richards, who was visiting there, lost all his clothing and $25 in money. Two hogs perished in the fire, together with all his household furniture. Mr. Richards is absent from home, and we have not learned the extent of his loss, but he had his property insured to the amount of $600. It is not known how the fire originated.—Times.
