moved preparatory to further operation. Means were at once taken to secure the chaps, and perhaps they will have a chance for a trip East, to a place where bolts are more secure.

Bold Robbery.—A man from Perry co., by the name of Henderson, returning home from the Carlisle market on Wednesday, was waylaid by two well dressed men who came out of a cornfield on Col. William Henderson's farm. The robbery took place a short distance north of town on the Carlisle Springs road. Mr. Henderson immediately returned to town and Constable Wetzel started in pursuit, but failed to overtake them—the thieves escaping over the Cove hill.

Since writing the above we have learned the following particulars in regard to the robbery of Mr. H. Two young, well dressed men have been noticed lounging about town for several days having in their possession a small tin box. On the morning of the robbery a man, carrying a small tin box, asked permission of Mr. Henderson to ride in his wagon. This took place at the fair grounds, they had proceeded but a short distance when the fellow asked Mr. H., to look at the contents of the box. The wagon was stopped for this purpose, when the fellow grasped Mr. H., around both arms. At the same time his accomplice, who was concealed in the corn-field, came to the rescue, and thrusting his hand into Mr. Henderson's pocket, secured a pocket-book containing the twenty-five dollars. The thieves then departed in the direction named above. Fortunately for Mr. H., the thieves missed eighty dollars which he had in another pocket.—Sentinel.

Cumberland County.—We copy the following from the Cumberland county papers of last week:

On the farm of John Shoop, near Shiremanstown Cumberland co., while Daniel Straming, the tenant, was hauling grain a few days ago the front horse in stepping upon the barn floor tramped on matches, which were lying there igniting the matches and setting fire to loose wheat lying on the floor. The fire was at once discovered and the horses removed and after a considerable effort the fire was put under control and the burning wheat pushed into the barn yard. A few seconds more and the fire would have been beyond control of the persons present; and a well filled barn destroyed. The matches were supposed to have been dropped by two boy tramps who had lodged there the night before.

On Saturday afternoon last the residence of William Weary, on the Baltimore turnpike, was visited by two tramps who succeeded in forcing an entrance into the house, the family being absent. The robbers carried away a lot of clothing and a small sum of money. The tramps were followed by Officer Hays, of Carlisle, who succeeded in arresting them at Shiremanstown on Sunday afternoon. They acknowledged their guilt, and are now in the county jail awaiting trial at the August Sessions.

We are informed by a subscriber that the grave of George Lucas in the yard of the Mennonite church, on the Lisburn road below Carlisle was found strangely disturbed a few weeks ago. The clay was found cleanly cut down to the rough box by hands unknown. On the afternoon of the 23rd inst., a company of about twenty five persons repaired to the graveyard and opened the rough box and coffin. The investigation showed that the corpse had not been removed, but the coffin had not been split, one hinge broken and one screw lost by the would-be robbers. The graveyard is very much isolated and as there is a dense wood of thirty acres near at hand the place is favorably situated for body-stealing and the neighbors have strong suspicions that that kind of work has been going on. The body being so decomposed is thought to be the reason why it was not disturbed.—Newville Star.

"Above All Navy Tobacco."—Caution.—Every 5c. and 10c. plug of this Celebrated Tobacco is labelled "Wardle's Above All." None is genuine without.

Junata County.—We copy the following from the Junata county papers of last week.

During the prevalence of the thunder storm on Friday evening last, a very valuable cow and two calves belonging to B. F. Schwel, Esq., editor of the Sentinel, were killed by lightning. They were standing under an apple tree at the time.

Messrs. Showers & Scholl, a few days before the recent strike, shipped eleven new top buggies to Warren, Indiana, since which time nothing can be heard about them. There seems to be no doubt that they were burned in the wholesale destruction of freight trains at Pittsburgh. If so, it is quite a serious loss, about $1,500, to these gentlemen, particularly in times like these. We hope the buggies may yet turn up all right.

Two very fine young horses belonging to Mr. Jeremiah Loudenslager, of Delaware township this county were killed by lightning on Friday evening of last week. The horses were under a large chestnut tree during the storm. The lightning struck the tree shattering it considerably and killing both horses. The one was found after the storm lying against the tree and the other against the fence close by. There were no visible marks of violence to be seen upon them except that blood was oozing from the ears of the one.

On Saturday evening William McManigle and James Koons engaged in an altercation, resulting in McManigle striking Koons over the head, as Koons alleges, with an iron poker, cutting an ugly gash two inches in length. Dr. Shelley dressed the wound. McManigle was arrested and taken before Esquire Stimmler and gave bail for his appearance.—Port Royal Times.

Last Saturday evening Nathan Bell, a young man, hired with William Kauffman, residing a short distance above Port Royal, was injured by the discharge of a pistol, which he was playing with, tearing the flesh off the third finger of the right hand, causing a very painful wound.

For The Times.

BLAIN, Pa., July 23rd.

MR. EDITOR:—Saturday, July 23rd, the picnic season was duly inaugurated with much eclat, in this part of the county.

Early in the morning, notwithstanding the lowering clouds, the excursionists began to arrive from the surrounding county and neighboring villages.

A large group of young men gathering on prominent corners, began discussing the weather probabilities, interspersing their conversations with such mysterious but harmless terms as "mountains," "rocks," "rattlesnakes," "buckberries," etc., of course, when this language was overheard and noised abroad, it had quite a soothing effect on the nerves of some of our more timid citizens; whose fears had become aroused at the number of young men continually arriving and who were dressing a Rail Road "strike;" and what was worse the consequent visitation of Phil Sheridan and the Ickesburg cavalry.

At 10 o'clock the procession formed, "took in" provision, and what was of infinitely more importance to the blushing swains—charming young ladies—then toward the mountain south of Centre, over hills and through hollows, echoed the merry laugh of the joyous party, the prof of trucks proceeded. The top of the mountain was reached at last, when the fun began in earnest. Song and shout, tender glances (7) bon-mots puns, falling over rocks, killing snakes, holding inquests over the remains by an improvised jury, hearing of the verdict; varied by gathering fern and festooning the party until each fair damsel looked not unlike the wood nymph of the poet's fancy.

How quickly the day sped away, and the time for return came around. Forward, once more! Down the mountain, with now and then a glimpse of the quiet valleys lying below. These panoramic views were highly appreciated, and caused many bursts of admiration for the hills and vales of "Little Perry."

A moonlight drive home. The mountains dark and weird, casting their shadows across the valley. The spires of the village were soon visible, assuring us that our journey was almost over. Home, happy good nights, and the party disbanded.

"It was a splendid day, splendid party, and I am well satisfied," was the verdict of all.

Yours, Truly, JUNES.

TRUCKEE, Cal., July 5th, 1877.

DEAR FATHER:—I have been at this place nearly two months spending the hot season in a very nice cool place, in the heart of the Sierra Nevada mountain, surrounded by lofty peaks covered with perpetual snow. The place is named after an Indian, is situated on the banks of a river of the same name, has a population of 1,500 (5/8 Chinese) who are occupied in the lumber trade. Sawmills, cash factories, and flumes abound, which float down the river, and are the life of the place. The Truckee river is 3/4 as large as Sherman's creek, is a rushing mountain torrent, clear as crystal and is fed by melting snows of the mountains. It contains a large species of trout, the largest of which are about 2 1/2 feet in length. Three miles from here, surrounded by rugged mountains, quietly sleeps the beautiful blue "Donner Lake," seemingly conscious of its own surpassing beauty and its security afforded by the lofty snow-covered mountains, in whose loving embrace it is held, it smiles in the sunlight and reflects back their marvelous grandeur. Could its waters speak they would relate a tragic tale, or on its banks is "starvation camp" where the Donner Lake party of 82 emigrants camped one evening late in the fall of 1847 to rest preparatory to crossing the summit of the Sierras 8 miles above them, little thinking when they turned their animals loose to the feed that they would never see them again; but in the night a terrific storm arose, and the merciless snow came whirling down and in the morning lay 5 feet deep and still snowing. Their animals were all driven off by the storm, and lost, the snow continued fall to until July 20th feet deep, and as they could not proceed, they built a sort of cabin and remained there during the winter. The remains of this cabin can be seen as also the stumps of the trees which they chopped for firewood are from 15 to 20 feet high, for want of food they were reduced to the terrible extremity of eating each other, exposure and disease carried them off one after another, and as one died the rest ate him, and when spring came, 56 of the party had perished, 10 of whom were females.—The heroic Mrs. Donner, wife of the chief of the party when the alternative was presented early in March, 1847 of leaving her emaciated husband and saving her own life, refused to abandon him, and when in April the place was visited, his body was found carefully dressed and laid out by her. How long she survived is not known.

Yesterday was our national day July 4th, it was ushered in by the firing of cannons and ringing of bells, and all day long the beautiful flag of our country waived in the breeze. There was a picnic at Donner Lake, and hundreds of happy people were dancing, frolicking and playing on lawns; dozens of sail boats gallily skimming its glossy surface; bands playing sweet music, which was wafted from shore to shore, and reverberated from the mountains.

California is not a good country for a poor man to come to at present, labor is overdone. There are 4,000 Chinamen arriving per month, and they bring no money with them to make their labor productive. There are 125,000 of them working on American capital, underbidding American labor. They carry 3/4 of a million dollars gold back to China monthly, so that affairs are gradually growing worse. They are a grasping people who do not wish to become citizens or affiliate with us, and who we cannot assimilate, no matter how much we might desire. They bring with them their idols, their laws, and their customs; and carry back their bones and our gold. They are talking about sending missionaries among us to convert us to their religion. If we allow them to continue coming they will shortly outnumber us, and instead of us elevating them to our level they will draw us down to theirs. The white people are leaving the State on account of them, and unless our lawmakers avert it at next Congress, the country will have to be cleared by the fires of revolution before the car of progress can roll on. Other causes why we have hard times are crops are a failure on account of dry weather. Stocks have gone down, and thousands have been left penniless. Should fortune change, Coe's emigration stop, and plenty of rain fall next year, this will be the best State in the Union.

Most affectionately your Son, JOHN W. MAGRE.
