New Bloomfield, August 28, 1877.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

No Cut or Stereotype will be inserted in this paper unless first face and on metal base.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Look at the figures on the label of your paper. Those figures tell you the date to which your subscription is paid.

GOVERNOR HARTMAN has called for two regiments of volunteers for three months. They are to be taken only from the National Guards to be composed of such officers and men as can abstain themselves from their business without serious loss.

TWELVE States will hold elections during the present year, to wit: Kentucky, August 6; Vermont, September 4; California, September 5; Maine, September 10; Iowa and Ohio, October 9, and Massachusetts, Mississippi, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Wisconsin, November 6.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic State Convention met in the hall of the House of Representatives, at Harrisburg, on Wednesday, the 22nd inst, and nominated the following ticket:

For Supreme Judge—Hon. John Trunkley, of Venango county. For Auditor General—Hon. Wm. P. Schell, of Bedford county. For State Treasurer—Hon. Amos C. Noyes, of Clinton county.

POSTMASTER GENERAL KEY has got himself into extremely hot water because at Bennington he referred to "our erring southern brethren." His old friends in the late rebellious States dislike the phrase. They call it "eating 'umble pie" to an unwarranted extent.

A Good Idea.

The Indianapolis News says:—There is hardly a State in the South or West that is not daily offering inducements for settlers. Even Kentucky, within a stone's throw of Indiana's idle people, wants settlers for her cheap unoccupied lands.

The Governors' Week at Philadelphia.

An invitation has been extended by the Exhibitors at the Permanent International Exhibition to Governors of all the States and Territories of the Union, to visit the Exhibition during the last week in August, for purposes of general conference.

It promises to be a notable event, and arrangements are being perfected to make the visit highly enjoyable to the participants. The programme includes a preliminary meeting at Independence Hall, on Tuesday, August 28th; a formal reception at the Exhibition by the Exhibitors and Management, on Wednesday; a grand industrial parade from the manufactories of the city, reviewed by the Governors, on Thursday; visiting leading manufactories, on Friday; a visit to Cape May over Sunday.

More Strikes.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., August 22.—The miners employed in the Westmoreland and Pennsylvania companies' mine at Irwin struck, Westmoreland county, quit work yesterday afternoon and resolved that they would not resume until their demands for an advance was completed with. These mines give employment to about 1,000 men. Last night a force of from 300 to 400 miners organized and marched to Spring Hill, a point where engines on the Pennsylvania road are coaled, and induced the miners at that place to quit work. All the mines at the Irwin district are now closed. The miners demand three cents per bushel of seventy-six pounds, their pay every two weeks, a half inch screen and a check weighman.

CUMBERLAND, Md., August 22.—Today the miners at Ocean mines consolidation company demanded the discharge of an objectionable person. The demand was refused and the men struck. The company ordered the tools to be taken out and closed the mines.

To-day drivers, who are mostly boys, demanded of the Maryland coal company an increase of wages from $1.75 to $2, and gave the superintendent time to hear from New York. The drivers say if the demand is not granted they will strike. It is not known whether the drivers at the other companies' mines will make similar demands.

SCRANTON, Pa., August 23.—The Delaware and Lackawanna railroad officials at this place to-day sent an engine to Briggs' shaft, two miles distant, to get the loaded coal cars standing there since the strike. The miners refused to let them go and cut the telegraph wires. The engine went back for assistance and returned to Briggs' shaft.

Two Men Killed.

About half-past eight o'clock yesterday morning Henry Stout, the crossing watchman for the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad at Wallace street, noticed a man standing on the track apparently intoxicated. A Germantown and Norristown passenger train was backing out of the depot at the time and the stranger did not see it, his back being to the cars. Stout shouted and motioned for him to get out of the way, but the man paid no heed. Then a scene occurred that horrified the spectators.

Stout sprang to the man's assistance, in his bravery giving no heed to his own danger, seized him and attempted to drag him from the track, but the stranger grappled with him, and being the larger and stronger of the two, held him and both fell to the ground as the cars reached them. There was a sickening sound of crushing bones and the mutilated bodies were seen covered with blood. The flagman had both legs cut off, and the stranger, who it was afterward ascertained is R. Link, of No. 6 Hunter St., had one arm severed from his body and his right leg crushed almost its entire length; his head was also badly injured. They were picked up, placed in a wagon and taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital. They were so frightfully injured they could not speak. They received every attention, but Stout, the courageous flagman, died at twenty-five minutes past ten o'clock, and at eleven o'clock Link expired. Stout, who was only twenty-seven years old, lived at 1836 Manor street, and has been in the employ of the railroad company for some time. He was considered a very reliable and worthy man, and the manner of his death shows his courage. Link's name was ascertained from a pawn ticket on his person. He is 48 years old.—Phil. North American.

Western Justice.

On Sunday evening the 19th inst., Bill Scroggs, a worthless fellow living near Oak Hills, Kas., shot and instantly killed Mr. J. Olyphant, an old and prominent citizen. Three years ago Scroggs eloped with and married a daughter of Olyphant, and subsequently abused her. She left him, returning to her father's house, where she has since lived. Sunday evening Scroggs asked to see his wife, but was refused, when he drew a pistol and shot Olyphant. The assailant started to Oak Hills, but was overtaken by a party of four men who attempted to arrest him. He fired on the party, a ball striking John Grogg, killing him instantly. The murderer then went to the residence of a justice of the peace and surrendered himself. The next day a mob of men went to Waddell's where Scroggs was confined, took him out among the hills and hanged him.

An Awkward Position.

The wife of a saloonist on Girard avenue, in the vicinity of the College, on Sunday evening, tried to convert a flour barrel into a seat. It however gave way beneath her avoirdupois and she was precipitated into the barrel, leaving her head and heels alone exposed to view.—Her awkward position and cries for assistance attracted a sympathizing crowd. It was with considerable difficulty that she was rescued from her unpleasant position.—Phil. North American.

One Less Distillery.

NEW YORK, August 22.—The chemical works on Flushing, near Central avenue, Brooklyn, were blown up at a late hour last night. Jacob Benz, a government official, narrowly escaped death. The marshal had seized the building on suspicion that an illicit distiller was at work there, and Benz had been placed in charge of it. Last night the latter struck a light to see that all was right, when a terrific explosion occurred. Benz ran away a few paces, when another fearful explosion followed and the building was blown skyward and Benz was buried in the ruins. He was extricated, having sustained but little injury. The loss on the building is about $500.

Latest name for a bachelor—A sir-single.—Inter-Ocean. Yes, sir; that's so. But when once he gets the bridal halter there isn't a trace of it left.—New York Commercial Advertiser. There should be a check to this sort of thing.—Rochester Express. What a choice bit of sarcasm! We hold back from further comment lest we stir up the wrong man.—Canadaigua Journal. Poor chance to saddle this with another joke.—The Graphic. Still, we shall harness to it and try.—Detroit Free Press. You all deserve an attack of the croup.—Phil. Press. If these fellows don't soon reign up, the Mayors of the cities should take them by the collars and pommel them.

The Skeleton of a Famous Mare.

President Garrett, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, has given the Peabody Museum, at New Haven, the skeleton of the famous Arabian mare Esna, imported along with Sadia. When he bought her he had to outbid Louis Napoleon, and the Arab keeper to whom she was accustomed in Syria accompanied her to this country. She died a few months ago of a lung fever, when 27 years old, her offspring numbering 40.

Singular If True.

The Millford News says a colored woman near Wyoming is gradually turning white. The change commenced two or three years ago, white spots coming all over her which gradually grew larger until she is now more white than black, and it is believed that in a year or two she will be completely white, with a skin as delicate as a child's.

Miscellaneous News Items.

Isaac J. Wilkinson, of Cotesville, tried to shuffle off the mortal coil with a dose of Paris green, but being green in the business he took an overdose and will recover.

New Castle will hold a baby show in connection with the fair to be held in that city the latter part of September. We do not envy the judges who award the premiums.

The Smith sisters of Glastonbury, Conn., live in a house 130 years old; sit under a tree 101 years old, and are the possessors of the Gov. Saltonstall china, which is 200 years old.

John Russel, a miser who died near Wellsville, Ohio, recently, had $60,000 in the vault of the Safe deposit company at Pittsburgh. He leaves an estate of about $200,000.

Dr. Theodore Soistman, of Bridgeville, committed suicide in Pittsburgh last week. His passbook contained a statement in German, written in pencil, setting forth the reason for the deed, that he was too dumb to remain in this world and he feared too dumb for the world to come.

A rural horse was hitched at Parsonsburg, Somerset county, a few days ago, when an excursion train from Wilmington to Ocean City passed by. The unwanted sight was too much for the horse. He reared up, fell down, and incontinently died, being actually scared to death.

Barney J. Donahue, the Hornellville striker, was discharged from Ludlow-street jail, New York, last week, by order of the sheriff, his term of sentence for contempt having expired. He was at once re-arrested by Sheriff Sherwood, of Steuben county, who was present with a warrant charging him with conspiracy.

In the last four weeks John Link, who lives about Herring run, near Belair road, Baltimore county, several miles from the city, has lost six of his nine children by diphtheria and scarlet fever. Their ages are from 10 to 3 years. The first died July 10; two on July 22; the oldest son, aged 19 years, on the 26th; another on the 30th, and the 6th, aged 4 years, on August 1st.

One of the officers of the defunct First National Bank of Allentown, was awakened the other night at his residence by a woman who had lost some money by the closing of the bank, and who said she wanted the amount deposited. Sticking his head out of the window he replied that it was after banking hours and he couldn't pay.

Last week twelve conductors on the Second Avenue Passenger Railway line, New York, were arrested for conspiracy to defraud the company in "beating" the bell-punch used in registering fares, and stealing cash. These men discovered the mechanism of the punch and used it to their advantage. Warrants were also issued for about fifty other conductors of the same line who are in the conspiracy.

The abduction of women at midnight seems to be a growing pastime in the country towns of Connecticut. At Durham the other night, a woman, whose husband is at sea, found herself suddenly snatched out of bed by the side of an unmarried sister, and in process of being carried off by a strange man. But she soon made such vigorous resistance that the fellow was glad to drop her and run.

Burr Cox was one of the wickedest men in Elliston, Ohio. He was a drunkard, a gambler, and a fighter, but he had a respectable family, whom he abused. A few days ago he went home half drunk and maddened by gambling losses, and declared that he would kill his wife. He ground a hatchet for the purpose, he said, of chopping her head off, but when he made the attempt his son, aged fifteen, bravely grappled with him. The woman fainted from fright, but the boy fought desperately, and finally killed his father by stabbing him with a knife.

The State Treasurer of Georgia, under the decision of the Attorney General, refused to advance to the Constitutional Convention more money than was appropriated by the Legislature. The Convention passed an ordinance authorizing the President to borrow money to defray expenses, to be repaid by the next General Assembly. General Toombs has loaned the Convention $25,000.
