An Irishman called on a lady and gentleman, in whose employ he was, for the purpose of getting some tea and tobacco.

"I had a drama last night, yer honor!" said he to the gentleman.

"What was it, Pat?"

"Why, I dreamed that yer honor made me a present of a pound of tobacco, and her ladyship—heaven bless her!—gave me some tay."

"Ah! Pat, dreams go by contraries you know," said the gentleman.

"Faith! an' they may that," said Pat.
"So her ladyship is to give me the tobacco an' yer honor the tay!"

"Pa, what does Mr. Perkins and Julia find to talk about in the parlor by themselves, four hours every night in the week?" The old gentleman pulled a splint out of the broom, and slowly prodding his teeth with it, replied:—"I got a bunk of meat, yesterday, an' we had it boiled for dinner, didn't we?"

"Yes," "An' had it cold for supper?"

"Yes," "An' your ma hashed it up for breakfast this morning, didn't she?"

"Yes," "An' to-day I got another hunk, which is on the same road, ain't it?"

"Yes," "Well, that's the way with Perkins an' your sister Julia."

Said a Main street man to a German friend, who was complaining of not having anything to do: "Why don't you form a class and teach German?"

Your friend Schmidt has a night class, and he manages to make a few dollars in that way." "Vat I dot leetle Schmidt vot writes at de Gorthouse?" "Yes, the same." "Vy, he don't can shpeak dot English language like me. Ven he say moole, he say moole; he don't can say moole like; and when he says blay he says blay; he don't can say blay like me."

Mrs. Partington insults the doctor —"Yes, doctor, and a few days previous feeling somewhat predisposed, and having a grooping pain in the abdomen, I took some patient medicine, and I feel convicted that it seriously repaired my constituent. I suppose I'm of an execrable temperature, for I'm always a-worrying ever since Betsy Smith had congregation of the lungs, or some tonsorial affection; but, to tell the truth, I've always dreaded an infernal rumor."

A buxom looking woman entered a dry goods store not long since, and asked the "gentlemanly" clerk to look at his calicoes. "What prints will you look at?" inquired the clerk. "I don't want to look at no prince," said the young lady. "I had rather see a freeborn American citizen than all the foreign princes you can bring out."

The "gentlemanly" clerk looked red in the face, choked a little, and apologetically asked what kind of calico he should show her.

Mamma—"Now, Jack, there are ten commandments you have to keep.
If you took a thing that wasn't yours, you'd break a commandment!" Jack—(remembering something about some little niggers)—"And then there'd be nine!"

"I say, boy, is there anything to shoot about here?" inquired a sportsman of a boy he met. "Well," was the reply, "nothing just about here; but the schoolmaster is down the hill yonder—you can pop him over."

"Handsome is that handsome does," quoted a Chicago man to his wife, the other day. "Yes replied she, in a winning tone, as she held out her hand. "For instance a husband who is always ready to hand some money to his wife."

"We find," said a coroner's jury out West, "that Bill Thompson came to his death by holding five aces when Jake Smith held four. And we find that nine aces are five too many in any pack."

It is useless for physicians to argue against short sleeved dresses. The constitution of the United States says "that the right to bear arms shall not be interfered with."

"Gracious me!" yelled a lady in a witness box, "how should I know anything about anything I don't know anything about?"

A little girl was suffering from the mumps, and declared that she "felt as though a headache had slipped down into her neck."

A South Carolina debating society has been considering the question:
"Which is the most beneficial to the country, the lawyer or the buzzard?"
