OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 30, 1877. After all the pressing business of the country—the distressing need of Congressional legislation upon matters already too long postponed, are not as important as a horse race.

A certain institution, well-known at the Capital for the last decade, is about to be closed, let us hope, forever. It is the "Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home."

Mr. Henry Adams (son of Charles Francis Adams) is about establishing himself in a home in our midst. From the foundation of Washington until 1870, some member of the Adams family resided here.

Most men like to be conspicuous in some way or another, but the Hon. Stanley Matthews can hardly be said to relish the state of notoriety into which he has fallen.

On Friday evening last, as engine 208 was about leaving Columbia, fireman S. B. Clepper, observed a man lingering around the locomotive, but paid no particular attention to him.

travagant character." Mr. Everts' bill was about $1,100 and Mr. Stoughton's the same; and the truth of the whole matter is that they all appeared before the Commission without charge, and their expenses while here were paid by the Government.

Much attention is paid the preservation of the parts of models that were burned in the recent great Patent Office fire.

All the ashes taken from the Model Room have been sifted, and every piece of metal retaining its original form, and every recognizable part or piece of models are preserved; so that, in all cases where it is possible from what is left to restore the model it will be done at the Government's expense.

Reports reach us from Nebraska that the Red, Cloud Agency of Indians have started on their move to the Missouri. They are accompanied by some of our troops and the march will be long and tedious, probably occupying a month's time.

Senator Morton still remains very low.—He is said to have eaten almost nothing for the last month and his physicians have now decided to turn their attention toward infusing nourishment into his system.

Every rumor seems in place in connection with that strong, bold, outspoken man, Ben. Butler. The latest is to the effect that he offered his heart and hand to Anna Dickinson during the last summer.

ADAMS.

Reported by C. H. Swisher, Esq.

Court Proceedings.—When the crowd gathered in the Court Room at the ringing of the bell on Monday afternoon, it found all the Judges present, and the various officers of the Court at their posts.

The list of Constables was called and after being sworn, their returns were received and filed. A larger number of Grand Jurors than usual responded and expressed a willingness to serve, when the roll was called.

The first case in which a jury was called was that of Geo. Zinn, Adm. of Amelia Hilbish, dec'd, vs. Jno. A. Hilbish.

The first case in which a jury was called was that of Geo. Zinn, Adm. of Amelia Hilbish, dec'd, vs. Jno. A. Hilbish. This was an action to test the validity of a judgment note given by deft. to his mother, Mrs. Amelia Hilbish for the sum of $5-.

Lewis W. Beach vs. Jacob Stouffer was an action brought by pif. to recover a bill of $50 for services rendered to the wife of deft. Pif. is a physician who had lost his diploma, but gave satisfactory evidence of his professional training.

The next case was M. B. Spahr vs. Barbara E. Baker and John D. Baker.—Deft. gave to pif. a mortgage to secure the price of a bill of store goods, and afterwards denied liability on grounds that were technical rather than upon the merits of the case.

Jacob Brandt vs. Daniel Power was next on the list. Here deft. claimed two credits upon a judgment that pif. held against him. Before a jury was called pif. conceded the credits claimed and by consent judgment was to be extended for the balance to be liquidated by the Prothonotary.

not carry out the instructions. The man is evidently of unsound mind but too dangerous a character to be at large. Under the instructions of counsel he pleaded guilty, and appealed to the mercy of the Court.

In the case of the Commonwealth vs. John Snyder, it appeared that Deft. met one Alonzo Roller some weeks since on the road leading from Juniata Bridge to Duncannon, and without much preliminary work set about the task of spilling Mr. Roller's countenance.

The case of Com. vs. Dr. Michael Price was next called, and defendant plead not guilty to a charge of assault and battery on Westly Morrison. The deft. appears to be a kind of universal genius who has figured as a physician, lawyer, teacher, patent-right man, labor reform advocate, horticulturist, &c.

The case of the Com. vs. Lucian Page and Sarah Jane Page, charge felonious assault, was called. It seems that as the prosecutrix, Mrs. Matilda J. Peck, was passing through a lane belonging to deft., on an expedition for huckleberries, they set upon her, and Mrs. Page seizing her violently by the capillary growth upon the summit of her cranium, pulled her to the ground, and then and there disarranged certain portions of the feminine toilet.

Com. vs. Bernard Graeffe, was a charge of surety of the peace on oath of Solomon Gusler. The Court seemed to think that if Barney had sinned he also had been sinned against, and the complaint was dismissed, and the county directed to pay costs.

The following bills were ignored by the grand jury: Com. vs. Isaac Orwan, charge assault and battery; Com. vs. J. Calvin Nipple, charge producing and attempting to produce abortion; Com. vs. David Bower, charge selling liquor to minors.

The criminal trials then being ended the civil list was resumed. The first case called on Wednesday evening was that of Anna R. Elliott vs. Dr. Wm. Cisna. This was an action for breach of promise made by deft. to marry the pif. The action was a novel one in our county, and created an unusual interest.

The case of Adam Karstetter vs. Chas. Wright and George Wright, was an action on a warranty for a horse. The horse was sold by Chas. Wright to pif. with a warranty as to soundness, but pif. alleged the horse was dumb or afflicted with a disease known as dropsy of the brain.

The next case was Fred'k K. Swartz vs. Margetta D. Penn and Theo. Penn. Mrs. Penn who was a married woman, gave a mortgage to pif. upon her separate real estate for the purpose of getting money to pay certain debts of her son Jas. V. Penn.

The next case was Fred'k K. Swartz vs. Margetta D. Penn and Theo. Penn. Mrs. Penn who was a married woman, gave a mortgage to pif. upon her separate real estate for the purpose of getting money to pay certain debts of her son Jas. V. Penn.

School District of Greenwood twp. vs. Alum W. Long co-obligor, &c. This was an action to recover amount alleged to be due from a tax collector, upon the bond he had given. Upon an examination of the matter it seemed that the twp. had no just cause of complaint, and a non suit was taken by pif.

Mrs. S. C. Kling's use vs. Abraham Fry was an action springing out of an alleged invasion of the rights of a married woman. It also collapsed by pif. taking a non suit.

Benj. C. Rheem vs. Lewis McNeil was a suit brought by pif. to recover damages from deft., who drove him from his premises after he had been regularly installed there as a tenant. Deft. alleged that he refused to work properly, left undone the things he should have done, and done the things that should have been left undone, &c.

The next case was Joseph Hays vs. W. W. Farnsworth. Deft. was a Justice of the Peace at Marysville who had made certain collections in his official capacity for pif., which he afterwards denied. Pif. proved the money to have been received by the Justice and the jury gave a verdict in favor of pif. for the amount claimed.

The last case tried was Martin Motzer vs. D. Kistler, Esq. This action was an out-growth of the county claims of Madison township. Deft. was one of a committee to raise money to pay volunteers during the war.

A Jury composed of Henry Grubb, Clarence Fry, Daniel Wentzel, John H. Briner, R. C. Boden, John S. Kerr, Josiah Swezy, Jonathan Michener, Wm. McKee, R. D. Nelson, Samuel Shearer and Thomas Clark were called, to return at the Argument Court on the 11th December and try the last two cases on the list to wit: Wertz vs. Graham, and McClintock vs. Moses Hess, administrator, &c.

Court then adjourned until 10 o'clock on Monday morning for the purpose of transacting some unfinished miscellaneous business, and after a short session was finally adjourned until the next regular Argument Court.

A Warren, R. I. girl was awakened by a burglar the other night, and, instead of fainting, she arose, and, taking a club, gave chase. The burglar ran for dear life, but the shrieking woman gained on him, though unfortunately, just as the avenging club was descending, the woman tripped and rolled into the gutter.

A dispatch from Virginia City, Nev., says: "Yesterday afternoon a number of convicts in the penitentiary at Carson attempted to break out. They seized Deputy Warden Matthewson, and holding him in front of them, to intimidate guards from firing, made a rush for the gate."

Matthewson three times called upon the guards to fire, and finally they obeyed, severely wounding Matthewson and two of the convicts, when the others surrendered and no one escaped."

Pittsburgh, October 30. — A special from East Liverpool, Ohio, says: "This morning Ralph Wintergill cut his wife's throat with a razor causing death in a few minutes, and then gashed his own throat, severing the windpipe and inflicting a wound which will probably result fatally. The husband and wife were about forty years old and have not lived together for some time past owing to jealousy on part of the husband who intimated this evening that alienation in his wife's love from him was the cause of the tragedy."
