HOUSE, FARM AND GARDEN.

We invite communications from all persons who are interested in matters properly belonging to this department.

Cleanliness and Light.

Cleanliness is not at all to be feared for the sick mother, but is greatly to be desired. There are at this day old-fashioned nurses, who keep a baby's mother's sick-room so foul with bad air, from lack of cleanliness about the patient, that few can bear to enter it. They refuse to change the bedding or the patient's clothes for at least a week—most barbarous treatment of mother and babe, and all the friends. There is no danger from changes of clothes, if the fresh clothing be well aired, and put on without chilling or fatiguing the patient. And washing of the whole body is not at all perilous, if the water used be of comfortable temperature, and the air of the room quite warm. Thousands of women every year have sitz baths before their babes are a week old, and recommend the practice; but though I know by experience that it is safe and comfortable rightly administered, I will not recommend it to any one who has not a nurse or physician accustomed to such baths, and ready to superintend them. Very serious disease sometimes results from lack of proper washing in sickness of this kind, in hot weather. Every sick-room should be kept as light as the patient's comfort will allow—not darkened at all, unless the light hurts her eyes. All reasonable effort must be made to keep the air pure without chilliness or draughts.

What a Plant Did.

A little plant was given to a sick girl. In trying to take care of it the family made changes in their way of living. First they cleaned the window, that more light might come to its leaves; then when not too cold they would open the window, that fresh air might help the plant to grow. Next, the clean window made the rest of the room look so untidy that they used to wash the floors and walls and arrange the furniture more neatly. This led the father of the family to mend a broken chair or two, which kept him at home several evenings. After the work was done he stayed home, instead of spending his leisure hours at a tavern, and the money thus saved went to buy comforts for them all. And then, as the home grew attractive, the whole family loved it better than ever before, and grew healthier and happier with their flowers. Thus the little plant brought a moral as well as a physical blessing.—The Sanitarian.

White Specks in Butter.

The white specks found in butter may be due to several causes. One is an acid condition of the milk, which causes a deposit of small curdy particles that are mixed with the cream, and when it is churned these can not be separated from the butter. Another is the presence of lime in the salt; this forms an insoluble soap with the butter, which exists in small nodules wherever there is a particle of lime. Another cause is the cow itself. Some cows always yield specky butter from some constitutional peculiarity. Again, it may be that the air of the milk-room is impure, and conveys some germs of decomposition into the milk, and produce this effect. A possible remedy, if the cause is acidity of the milk, is to put a teaspoonful of carbonate of soda in the cream pot, and stir it thoroughly.

Treatment for Ringbone.

This disease, which consists of inflammation of the membrane covering the bones of the pastern joint, followed by a deposit of bony matter, which in time causes the bones to unite and make a stiff joint, requires, different treatment in young horses from that necessary with old ones. Young horses frequently recover quickly, while old ones are sometimes treated without effect. The proper course consists of rest and cooling applications until the inflammation is subdued; then apply a blister, such as 20 grains each corrosive sublimate and camphor, 10 drops of hydrochloric acid, and one ounce of turpentine. Watch the blister, and wash off when the effect is sufficient.

Standing Water.

Water is life-giving so long as it is in motion, its presence is fatal to vegetation when it is stagnant. Provision for the rapid removal of water that may come upon the fields, should not be neglected before the ground freezes, or is covered with snow. This is peremptory for the growing crops, and advisable for stubble land, for water left to percolate slowly through the soil, will dissolve out from it, and carry off, much soluble fertilizing matter; all the nitrates, which are so valuable, being the first matter that is thus lost.
