As the remonetization of the silver dollar in some form is attracting so large a share of public attention it will be of interest to know, just what the silver coinage of the country has been and now is.

In January, 1837, the law was so changed that the silver dollar weighed 412 grains 900 fine, and parts in same proportion.

In March, 1836, a law was passed which did not touch the silver bill itself but reduced the weight of the half dollar and smaller silver to proportionate parts of 384 grains 900 fine to the dollar.

The law of February, 1873, established the weight of the half dollar, quarter, dimes and half dimes at 385.8 grains 900 fine.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 29, 1877.

We talk and hear and read of nothing in these last few days, but the freshest from which this and surrounding vicinities are suffering. The rain was not violent in this District, although it fell during most of the last three days of the week past.

I should not have said that we are thinking of nothing but the freshest, for there are one or two other subjects that can but interest us. Washington has reason for great concern regarding the recent marine disaster—I refer to the loss of the Huron off the North Carolina coast last Saturday.

There are more interesting events transpiring at the Capital too, in the last few days, than has been the case before during the present session. The Senate remained in session all Monday night, struggling over the seating of Butler of South Carolina.

It is no wonder the members get hardened to it and come to care very little what is said or thought of their private lives. Apropos of this I quote the following telegraph from the pen of a conscientious Washington correspondent to a leading paper, which, although I consider it a little exaggerated, certainly contains much truth and faithfully portrays some women and some men who may be seen almost any day: "You can see flirtations too disgraceful to report. Not only are the entrances to the Capital thronged by brazen creatures who have lost all womanly modesty, but there are girls, scarcely past childhood, leaving on Senator's arms, listening with glowing cheeks to compliments paid them by the great men in the corners of the corridors, eating with them in the restaurant, and unsuspectingly being the subjects of winks between Congressmen."

Deacon Smith, whose committal for trial in Middlebury, Vt., on a charge of murder, has been announced by telegraph, was a pillar of the Baptist church in that village, and for many years was looked up to as an exemplar of piety.

is always so when the six thousand Government clerks employed here are given a play-day.

Miscellaneous News Items.

The total number of hogs killed by the packers of Louisville from the 1st to the 24th of November was 49,532, against 46,900 for the same period in 1876.

The three men recently indicted for tarring and feathering a woman at Waterford, Pa., have all been sentenced to the Penitentiary for from one to ten years.

A tramp who sought to get warm by sitting on the top of a lime kiln, near Maggetown, Montgomery county, was suffocated and burned to death.

On Wednesday next Georgia votes on the new Constitution. The prospect now is that the Constitution will be adopted, and that Atlanta will be made the capital of the State.

Wilmington courts have decided that cider is an intoxicating liquor, the sale of which without a license subjects the persons selling it to the penalties of the law regulating the sale of liquor.

A Columbia, Tenn., dispatch states that George Roper, alias Frank McGhee, the negro who attempted to commit an assault upon Miss Bettie Templeton, was taken from jail a few mornings since, by a mob and lynched at the Court House, in the presence of about 200 persons.

A Liverpool man, after lighting his cigar on the street, dropped the burning match through a sewer grating. Instantly a deafening explosion ensued, the pavement was torn to pieces and flames burst out. He had ignited a quantity of sewer gas, which continued burning for a long time.

A Piute recently killed his squaw, and the Winnemucca Silver State says: "Indian custom makes the squaw property, as much as a pony or a blanket, and the right of the husband to kill his wife is never disputed. As the authorities never interfere with the tribal customs and regulations of the Piutes, no official notice has been taken of the act."

Mrs. Stidler washed the shelves in her husband's Philadelphia drug store, and did not replace the bottles exactly as they were before. A girl came in to buy a mixture of castor oil and peppermint. Mr. Stidler took a bottle from the place where peppermint had been, and mixed the castor oil with muriatic acid by mistake. The consequence was the death of a child.

A Muscatine, Ia., farmer a few days ago set up a heating stove, at the time forgetting to remove a powder horn filled with powder which he had put therein the summer, and made a fire therein. In a few minutes there was a tremendous explosion, which tore the top of the stove off, demolished windows, plastering, etc. The inmates of the room escaped with a few slight burns and bruises.

There was a wedding of the most public sort at Coventry, Conn., the other day of a 65-years-old man and a 25-year-old widow. The man got his license in Coventry, but had arranged to be married in Mansfield. When the knot was about being tied the mistake was noticed, but the expectant couple, determined to go off on their wedding trip as planned, took the parson to the bridge over the river dividing Coventry and Mansfield, and were married there in full view of a factory, whose every window was filled with interested witnesses, having just time to catch the train.

McParlan, the Mollie Maguire detective is accompanied by a brother detective who "shadows" him and acts as a body-guard of one. Before entering railway cars the "shadow" makes a reconnaissance to look out for dangerous characters. These precautions are necessary in order to guard McParlan against assassination by those who fear his evidence or seek revenge for the Mollies' deaths.

Deacon Smith, whose committal for trial in Middlebury, Vt., on a charge of murder, has been announced by telegraph, was a pillar of the Baptist church in that village, and for many years was looked up to as an exemplar of piety. The preliminary examination in the case showed that, if not a murderer, he is at least a hypocrite. His wife died, and poison was found in her stomach. He tried to hire the chemist for $250 to report to the contrary. Long before this the villagers noticed that he often walked home from religious meetings with Mrs. Champlin, a pretty milliner, whose husband seems to have been very blind to her conduct.

From B. Fellows, M. D., Hill, N. H.

Although I have generally a great objection to patent medicines, I can but say in justice to Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry that it is a remedy of superior value for Pulmonary Diseases.

I have made use of this preparation for several years, and it has proved to be very reliable and efficacious in the treatment of severe and long-standing coughs. I know of one patient, now in comfortable health, who has taken this remedy, and who but for its use, I consider, would not now be living.

B. FELLOWS, M. D. 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

ONE CENT A DAY!

Economy is the order of the hour, and every expenditure, however small, is expected to give a return in full value. Every family requires one good, reliable newspaper. If such an article can be procured for less than one cent for each working day of the year, we are not aware of it. A Family Newspaper should contain a carefully-prepared summary of all the news of the day, both Religious and Secular; and be arranged so that the two departments may be separated and read by two individuals at the same time, so much the better. The Family Newspaper should have attractive reading for the various members of a household.—Some portion of the paper should be devoted, every week, to religious and moral improvement, to current secular news, to agriculture, commerce, markets, finance, to general literature, &c., with a special department to the young. Above all, the Family Newspaper should be perfectly pure, and free from any contaminating influences in its reading matter or in its advertisements. Too much attention cannot be paid to this feature, when the press is flooding the country with so much that is vile and pernicious. To crown all, the Family Newspaper should be untrammelled by any affiliation with sect or party, and should be free to give all the good news from and about all the world. If such a Family Newspaper can be had for one cent a day, it should be taken by every family in the land.

Such a Family Newspaper, in every respect, we find in the NEW YORK OBSERVER, now commencing its 55th volume. Progressive, comprehensive, sound, reliable, pure. It is just what is needed in your household. Send $3.15 for a year to the NEW YORK OBSERVER, 37 Park Row, New York. Sample copies are sent free.

A Fine Microscope For a Few Cents.

A well made, genuine Microscope—not a bit of moulded glass in a paper or metal ring, or tube—but one with triple Lenses, Diaphragm, Stand, etc., is not only useful in every family, but is very interesting. Such instruments have hitherto been too costly for the general public. The Editors of the "American Agriculturist," in connection with an Optical Manufacturing Company, have, after many experiments and much invention, succeeded in producing a genuine Microscope, with three fine Lenses, Stand, etc., which, by use of machinery, and very large manufacture, is now made at far less cost than has ever before been done. Scientific men, and others, say it is decidedly superior to anything ever before offered so low as $2.50; but this one is sold at $1.50. But one is given to every Subscriber to the "American Agriculturist," who simply adds 40 cents to the regular subscription price—that is, the paper is sent one year, with the $1.50 Microscope, for only $2.00. If to be delivered free to any part of the country, 15 cents extra is to be added. A full description and all particulars can be had by sending your address on a Postal Card to Orange Judd Company, New York; or better still, send them 10 cents (Cash price) for a post-paid sample copy of the paper,—which will give a full description of the Microscope, and also much valuable reading and engravings, etc., and be richly worth far more than its cost.

The Illustrated Christian Weekly.

For the last 7 years the "Illustrated Christian Weekly" has steadily pursued its course, making each year increased numbers of friends, until it has become a household necessity. Its marked features have been its excellent pictures, its freedom from sectarianism, in which it differs so markedly from other religious weeklies, its timely articles on current events, its interesting and instructive stories and sketches, and the remarkably low price, only $2.50 a year, postage paid, at which it is published.

We note that persons subscribing now will receive the remaining numbers for the present year, without extra cost. Don't fail to remit $2.50 to the publishers at 150 Nassau street, New York.
