A Poor Guesser.

"I say, Watson, why didn't you support Saunders, as you agreed to?" "Never p-p-promised to," replied

Watson. "Yes, you did," emphatically exclaimed Wilson. "Where d-did I ?"

"Why, down at Dickson's office," answered Wilson. "Th-th-think not: told you I g-g-guessed I would; but I'm the poorest g-g-guesser you ever saw-hardly ever guess right." There is a precocious six-year-old boy who is wonderful on spelling and definition. The other day his teacher asked him to spell "matrimony." "M-a-t-r-i-m-o-n-y," said the youngster, promptly. " Now define it," said the teacher.

"Well," replied the boy, "I don't exactly know what it means, but I know mother's got enough of it." A gentleman who could not pronounce the letter "R," was asked to read the following: "Robert gave Richard a rap in the ribs, for roasting the rabbit so rare." He evaded the difficulty in the following ingenious

manner: " Bobble gave Dicky a thump

in the side, for cooking bunny so little !" A gentleman named Dunlop remarked that he had never heard his name punned upon, and did not believe it could be done. " There is nothing in the world more easy, sir," remarked a punster; "just lop of half the name, and it is Dun."

Scene in an Iowa court. Judge: "That point has been decided againstyou by every court in Christendom, sir; and there is no use of further argument." Lawyer: "Very true, but your honor frequently decides against every court in Christendom."

The pupils in a school in Boston were asked to give in writing the difference between a biped and a quadruped. One boy gave the following: "A biped has two legs and a quadruped has four legs; therefore, the difference between a blped and a quadruped is two legs."

They went fishing. She looked languidly at him and said: "I wish the fish would bite at your hook. If I was a fish I would. "

A swell who stuttered horribly paid court to a pretty actress. "Ah,!" said she, "life is too short; I haven't time to listen to you."
