D. MICKEY, Prothonotary.
New Bloomfield, Nov. 17, 1877.

An attorney having died exceedingly poor, a shilling subscription was set afoot to pay the expense of his funeral. Most of the attorneys and barristers having subscribed, one of them applied to Toler, afterwards Lord Chief Justice Norbury, expressing a hope that he would also subscribe a shilling. "Only a shilling!" said Toler, "only a shilling to bury an attorney? Here is a guinea, go and bury twenty-one of them."

A lady sent a note to a newspaper to get a receipt to cure the whooping cough in a pair of twins. By mistake a receipt for pickling onions was unconsciously inserted, and her name attached, and received this answer through the "Answers to Correspondents":

"Mrs. L. H. B.—If not too young, skin them pretty closely, immerse in scalding water, sprinkle plentifully with salt, and immerse them for a week in strong brine."

The steamer had struck, and while the passengers were hurriedly making preparations for their safety, a fat old Dutchman seized a life-preserver, and began to fill it blowing till he was red in the face with his efforts. "Halloo," said a bystander, "you can't fill that thing; there's a big hole in it." A blank look came over the Dutchman's face. "Mein Gott, is dat so; den I better keep my wind in me."

Madam do you know that you possess one of the best voices in the world?" said a saucy fellow to a woman one day this week. Indeed, do you think so?" replied she, with a flush of pride at the compliment. "I do most certainly," continued the rascal, "for if you hadn't, it would have been out long ago!" For the first time in her life that woman hadn't a word to say.

The Rev. John Brown, of Haddington, was in the habit of proposing on festive occasions a certain young lady as his toast. Having abandoned the practice, he was asked for a reason. "Because," said he, "I have toasted her for sixteen years, without being able to make her brown, and so I've resolved to toast her no longer."

"Ah, I see you are one of the equestrian order," pleasantly remarked an old gentleman the other day to a bucolic chap riding a sorry mare, who nearly rode him down. "Waal," replied the countryman, viewing the speaker with strong apparent disfavor, "if I are then I are, but I suspects you ain't nothink yourself to brag on."

A youngster one day last week made a drawing of a team and wagon filled with boxes. He showed the work to his mother, who asked him what it represented. "It is a man peddling apples," said the boy. "Yes, but where is the man?" inquired his mother. "Gone to a house up the hill to see if they want any apples."

There are men," says Mr. Talmage, "who sing like angels on Sunday and lie like sin on Monday." Newspaper men never sing like angels, and if Mr. Talmage alluded to lawyers why didn't he come out like a man and say so?

An Irishman being badly hurt in a railroad accident, on being asked why he did not sue the company for damages. "Sue thim for damages?" Bedad! I've had damages enough; I'll sue them for repairs."

An Irishman that had just arrived from the old sod, was put into a bed that happened to have a wasp in it. The first time his waspish tickled Pat, he exclaimed: "Be jabbers, yes bed bugs bite purty sharp in this country."

Dean Swift said that the reason a certain university was a learned place was that most persons took some learning there, and but few brought any away with them, and so it accumulated.

The marriage of Jonas H. Lamb to Mary A. Brown is announced in an exchange. A year or two hence the favorite lullaby in that family may be "Mary had a Little Lamb."

Those young ladies at fairs who sell men five-cent pin-cushions for three dollars ought to be arrested for robbing the males.

"Foregoes" was the word put out at a written spelling exercise by one of our city teachers recently. And one little boy handed in, "Go, go, go, go."

Mrs. Shoddy puckered up her mouth genteelly and told a gentleman friend that one of her lovely daughters was a "blunet" and the other "bronzet."
