A resident who reached home on a noon train, after an absence of two weeks, was met at the station by his eight-year-old son, who loudly welcomed him.

"And is every body well, Willie?" asked his father. "The welllest kind," replied the boy. "And nothing has happened?" "Nothing at all. I've been good, Jennie's been, and I never saw ma behave herself so well as she has this time."

A milkman was lately seeking the aid of the police to trace the whereabouts of a family who had left the neighborhood owing him eighteen dollars.

"Well, I suppose there was nine dollars' worth of water in that milk account," remarked the policeman.

"That's where it gets me—that's where it hurts," replied the dealer. "They were new customers, and I hadn't commenced to water the milk yet."

An opulent farmer applied to an attorney about a lawsuit, but was told he could not undertake it, being already on the other side; at the same time he gave him a letter of recommendation to a professional friend. The farmer, out of curiosity, opened it, and read as follows:

"Here are two fat wethers fallen out together. If you'll fleece one, I'll fleece the other. And make 'em agree like friend and brother."

The perusal of this epistle cured both parties, and terminated the dispute.

"Did I not give you a flogging the other day?" asked a school-master of a trembling boy.

"Yes, Sir," answered the boy. "Well, what do the Scriptures say upon the subject?"

"I don't know, Sir," said the boy, "except it is in that passage which says, 'It's more blessed to give than to receive.'"

One of the great features in secret orders is the number of capital letters required for initials to represent their names or the titles of their officers; but a Washington colored society lays over them all in this regard, its name being, "The Ancient Order of the Sons and Daughters of Moses of the United States and World at Large."

Hereditary. "What is the matter with you?" inquired a gentleman who had called to see his neighbor, a German, of Chicago.

"Vell, I don't know—it is de gout; but vy should I have him?"

"Perhaps," suggested his friend, "it is hereditary."

"I think it is hereditary; I remember my wife's uncle have him."

A gentleman in England committed suicide the other day, and left a paper stating that he did so because his wife was a great deal too good for him. That's why the jury returned a verdict recording their opinion that the deceased "was of an unsound state of mind."

"Have you any marble or plaster busts of Psyche?" asked a Chicago lady at an art store. "No," was the reply of the polite but rather verdant clerk, "we have busts of most all the great men, but none of Sankey." The woman did not attempt an explanation.

Honest Pride. An indigent person was perpetually boasting of his origin. A man of humble origin, who had been industrious and successful, hearing this boast, observed, "You, my friend, are proud of your descent; I am proud of my ascent."

Important Query. Mrs. Partington is anxious to know, if the compass has a needle and thirty-two points, how long it will take a woman, with such a needle, to make a shirt.

Boasting of her industrious habits, an Irish house-maid said she rose at four, made her fire, put on the kettle, prepared the breakfast, and made all the beds before any one was up in the house.

"In the sentence, 'John strikes William,'" remarked a school-teacher, "what is the object of 'strikes'?"

"Higher wages and less work," promptly replied the intelligent youth.

Somebody says every failure is a step to success. This will explain why the oftener some men fall the richer they become.

The knock-kneed man can get over the landscape more rapidly than the bow-legged man; but he cannot frame it as beautifully.
