OUR CIRCULATION.

For the information of Advertisers, and others interested in knowing, we make mention of the fact that we begin this year with a circulation of NINE-TEEN HUNDRED copies.

POPE Pius' successor is Cardinal Pecci, an Italian, who was elected by the conclave on the third ballot. He has taken the name of Leo XIII.

THE SILVER BILL as passed the Senate was agreed to by the House and thus shorn of its most objectionable features with the addition of a proviso for treasury certificates based on deposits of silver, it goes to the President to-day for his consideration.

Persons who are partial to oranges and apples should see that the surface is entirely clean before partaking of these fruits. A prominent physician has lately discovered that the little black speeks often seen on these fruits are clusters of fungi precisely similar to those to which whooping cough is attributed. In experimenting he introduced some of these specks into his lungs by inspiration, and in the course of a weeks developed an acute attack of whooping cough.

A DEPLORABLE affair took place at Princeton College last week, which was the result of the practice of hazing. The sophomores began by entering the rooms of the freshmen and inflicting upon them such indignities that if they had been shot and killed while perpetrating their villainy there is not a jury in the land that would not have acquitted the freshmen without leaving their seats .-But they have no recourse except in retaliation. They repaid the outrage in kind, the sophomores fired upon them and the freshmen returned the fire with very good effect. The freshmen did nothing to provoke the assault, but when they were attacked they turned upon their assailants, and yet it is proposed to expel them. If this is done the freshmen will have the sympathy of the public. The faculty failed to protect them. It has no right to censure them for protecting themselves. The practice of hazing will be one of the things of the past just as soon as it is distinctly understood that a freshman is perfectly right in resisting the assault of a sophomore the same as he would that of any other ruffian or blackguard.

A Fine Distinction.

The English Chancery judges have recently drawn the line between a legal nuisance and a sentimental grievance. A man in Brighton built a house so inconveniently as to deprive a neighbor the use of his best bedroom. This room had a bay window, and the indiscreet neighbor had built his house on such a plan that some of its rooms commanded a full view of this window at a distance of seventeen feet. Ladies could not use the room, and the hospitable owner of the building could not entertain his friends. He brought a suit against the owner of the new mansion as the author of a public nuisance, and the case finally was laid before the chancery judges. But the bench decided that there was only one test of a legal nuisance. Was it injurious to the health of the complainant, or did it interfere materially with the passage of light and air? If not, it was only a sentimental nuisance, and damages could not be claimed.

Hydrophobia Cured.

Mr. R. C. Shoemaker writes that he has cured many cases of hydrophobia in men and cattle by the use of elecampane. The first dose for a man is 11 ounces of elecampane root bruised, put in a pint of new milk and reduced to one half by boiling, to be taken at one dose in the morning, fasting until noon. The second dose should be two ounces of elecampane treated in a similar manner, and third dose the same as the second to be taken every other day. This remedy, Mr. Shoemaker says, has been used in and about Philadelphia for over forty years with great success.

A Wretched Family in One Cell.

In Pickens county, Ga., jail in the same cell are Mr. Robert Southern, his wife and babe a few months old. Mrs. Southern last year, at a ball at her father's house, stabbed fatally three times Miss Narcissa Cowart, who was dancing with her husband. He had been asked and begged by his young wife not to do so. Some words ensued between the young women before the deed was done

The crowd endeavored to arrest Mrs. S., but her husband with a drawn pistol led her out and they disappeared. A reward of $300 was offered for their apprehension. They were found in North Carolina and brought back to jail. The babe was born since the trouble. All seem devoted to each other.

Curious Elopements.

Some of the recent elopements are interesting. Mr. Bean took his wife to a concert in Manchester, N. H., slipped away from her, went home, packed his clothes in a trunk, stole $2,000 of her money, and ran away with a neighbor's spouse. The Rev. Jas. Deverigny abandoned his Michigan parish, leaving a large number of debts, and taking along Deacon Snell's daughter. A young couple in Danforth, Ky., on whose union parents frowned, fled together on a single horse; but the over-loaded beast was unable to outrun the one on which the girl's father pursued, and the elopement was a failure. Two lovers who eloped from Milwaukee by railroad were so closely followed that, for fear of being overtaken, they did not stop long enough at any station to get married. At length, after three days of incessant travel, they found a clergyman on the train who performed the ceremony.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 21, 1878. Scandal is never idle here. There is always more material for her to work with than she can possibly use. One of the latest pieces relates to the $1,800 that the Treasury officials have been trying so long to discover. It was paid into that Department by the Banks to pay for the extra work imposed by their careless method of putting up money. The assessment was made by Mr. New, who succeeded Spinner as U. S. Treasurer, and the $1,800 has never been accounted for. Now these are the surmises and this is the scandal: Mr. New had a newhew who was a messenger in the Treasury and a niece also an employee there. The nephew's chief business was to carry money to the desks of counters and return it to the place of deposit .-Sums of money mysteriously disappeared. A young lady turned in her account and money one night to the remittance desk .-The next day it was moved by the messenger in question, after which it was found $1000 short. The young lady was dismissed summarily. $2000 were missing but a day or two before the nephew, who was known as a frequenter of gambling houses and much addicted to chance games, was dismissed, the events coming so near together as to suggest cause and effect. Soon after this, every $900 lady clerk of the Redemption Division, excepting Mr. New's niece, were indirectly taxed $17.50. It was accomplished by forcing each one, by means of vague hints of discharge in case of refusal, to make application for seven days leave of absence without pay. $8500 were thus secured but not accounted for and rumor has it that it was either used to cover some of the nephew's irregularities or to pay the excess of appointees from Mr. New's State. The facts here given are not mere hearsays-they are facts and can be corroborated to the satisfaction of any baving interest to make inquiries concerning them.

The picture "Signing the Proclamation of Emancipation," painted in the White House by Mr. Frank Carpenter, purchased from him for $25,000 by Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, of New York, and presented by her on Tuesday of last week to the United States Government, has been the subject of much comment here for the past ten days. A steel engraving of the same was presented, by Carpenter himself, to Howard University last Thursday, and the ceremonies were as impressive in their way as those at the Capitol. Howard University is our famous colored college and is the place of all others for this picture to hang. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes lent their presence to the other attractions of the occasion and Fred. Douglass made the principal speech. Douglass speaks of his race very sensibly. In the course of the remarks referred to, he said, the greatest faults of the black people were their self-indulgence, love of ease and improvidence, and that they must learn to spend their earnings judiciously before they will prosper. President Hayes also made a short speech, from which I give an extract :

"That Emancipation has conferred infinite blessings on our country, on both races, and on the world, very few question. This estimate of the act (of emancipation) and of its results will not be changed by the good conduct or the bad conduct of either race. But it is said that the granes of the blessing conferred on the But it is said that the greatored race, depends on their conduct. What they most need is what Burns calls "the glorious privilege of being independent." What this requires is the willingness to labor and the prudence and self-denial to save the fruits of labor. My young colored friends, let this, then, be among your good resolutions. 'I will work and I will save, to the end that I may become independ-
