No, You Don't.

"Saw wood! Saw wood for my dinner!" said a tramp with a look of horror. "Not much I won't. It isn't that I object to labor. I yield to no man in this respect for the God-given privilege of earning—I mean sweating my earnings—that is to say, breading my earn by the brow of—you know what I mean. I am ready, nay, anxious to work. Give me some hay to spread, right out here in the snow. Show me where there is a stone wall to lay—behind. Anything but helping in the most distant way to devastate the mighty forests of this broad land, that the Almighty meant to gather moisture and induce the reviving rain to fall upon the parched earth. Why, do you know that this continent is doomed to become arid desert if this destruction goes on? It's a fact and I won't be a party to it. I decline the responsibility for it. Tell me you've got some coal to carry in, and I'll see if I can't send you a boy to do it, but no wood sawing for me, if you please."

The other evening a sprightly little girl about seven years old entered a store, and after considerable hesitation she whisperingly inquired of a clerk: "Do you keep nursing bottles here?" "We do," he answered, and exhibiting two or three different styles he asked which she preferred. As she was looking them over he remarked: "It's for your little brother, I suppose?" "Yes, sir, it is," she stiffly answered. "You didn't think it was for my son, did you?" Her indignant look haunts him still.

The best way to induce sleep is to shut your eyes and think of nothing. An old gentleman told this one Sunday morning while he was preaching, and that it worked admirably. The minister asked him why he did not think of the sermon, and the old man replied naively that that was just what he was thinking about, and that it was so near to nothing that the difference could not be perceived and so he dropped off into a quiet and refreshing slumber.

"An Old Maids' Show is talked of at Utica." That is right. Give the old maids a show. To be sure, many of them had a good show when they were younger, and refused to embrace the opportunity, and—and now they are old maids, and have no lazy husband to keep.

A coffin maker was asked for whom he was making a coffin, and replied: "Mr. Swift." "Why, man," replied the other, "he's not dead yet." "Don't you trouble yourself," replied the sturdy mechanic. "Dr. Coe told me to make his coffin, and I guess he knows what he gave him."

"Father, is it grammatical for you to say 'make as little noise as you can help,' or 'make as little as you can't help'?" For is it the noise I can help that you desire me to make? And—"See here, Augustus, make less noise there! keep still, or I'll grammar you."

Out in Dakota the other day a stage load of passengers were compelled to hold their hands above their heads while a gang of highwaymen robbed them. One of the victims, remarked, "This is a high-handed piece of business," was allowed to keep his watch as a reward for humor.

A girl who formerly lived in St. Louis writes from Colorado to an old friend: "This is the handsomest 200 acres I ever put my foot down on." Her father ought to get 100 acres more and have a lawn around her foot.

"I say, Jim" said one friend to another on meeting, "I hear our friend A. has been speculating heavily; has he made anything?" "Yes," said Jim "he made an assignment."

A man married Miss Take, after having courted Miss Lloyd, was told by a friend that it was reported he was married to Miss Lloyd. "It was a Miss Take, I assure you," he replied.

"Don't you think," said a husband in a mild form of rebuke to his wife "that women are possessed by the devil?" "Yes," was the answer, as soon as they are married.

An Iowa Justice refused to fine a man for kissing a girl against her consent. He thought she ought to have consented.

If a man has nothing to do, and can't get work, why not go fishing.
