PRINTING of every description neatly executed at the Bloomfield Times Office at reasonable rates.

Too Much English.

A man with a decided Teutonic expression of countenance, stood at the bar of the court of Special Sessions recently, for having stolen two dollars.

"What have you to say in rebuttal?" asked Judge Otterbourg of the prisoner, after the complainant had given his testimony.

The man at the bar stared vacantly at the court and made no reply.

"Have you any defence to make to this allegation?" repeated the magistrate.

Another vacant look and silence.

"Here, interpreter," shouted the court, addressing that functionary, "ask the prisoner in German where he lives?"

The interpreter was about to put the question, when the prisoner spoke up in a broad Celtic dialect.

"Shure, if it's where I live yez want to know, it's New Jersey."

A broad grin settled on the faces of the spectators and the court hurriedly named the sentence—one month in the Penitentiary.

A Yankee genius out West, conceiving that a little powder thrown upon some green wood would facilitate its burning, directed a small stream upon the smoking pile; and not possessing a hand sufficiently quick to cut this off at a desirable moment, he was blown into pieces. The coroner thus reasoned out the verdict: "It can't be called suicide, because he didn't mean to kill himself; it wasn't a visitation of God, because he wasn't struck by lightning; he didn't die for the want of breath, for he didn't have anything left to breathe with. It's plain he didn't know what he was about, so I shall bring in 'Died for the want of common sense.'"

"Madam, do you know that you possess one of the best voices in the world?" said a saucy fellow to a woman. "Indeed, do you think so?" replied she, with a flush of pride at the compliment. "I do most certainly," continued the rascal; "for if you hadn't, it would have been worn out long ago." For the first time in her life she had nothing to say.

"What do you know about the prisoner?" asked the judge. "I don't know nothin' 'bout him, judge, only he's bigoted." "Bigoted," said his honor. "Yes, sah." "What do you mean by 'bigoted'?" "Well, judge," explained the witness, "he knows too much foh one niggah and not nuff foh two."

"Ah!" said a hungry man at our boarding house, grabbing the celery jar as he sat down to the table, "this celery looks handsome." "Hand some over this way then, will you?" said the other hungry man on the opposite side of the table.

"But, Paul, how can the spirit be in us and we in the spirit at the same time?" said a young man to a venerable darkey. "Oh, dar's no puzzle 'bout dat. It's like dat poker; I pute it in de fire and it gets red hot. Now, de poker's in de fire and de fire's in de poker."

"Doctor, my daughter seems to be going blind, and she's just getting ready for the wedding, too! Oh, dear, what is to be done?" "Let her go right on with the wedding, madame, by all means. If anything can open her eyes, marriage will."

"It was simply an informal affair," wrote the editor, of a little strawberry party at a neighbor's house. "It was simply an informal affair," read that editor, and that editor will never get any more invitations from that quarter.

"I told her I'd never smoke another cigar," he said, softly, "and I won't. A pipe's plenty good enough for me"—and he gracefully drew a match over the largest part of his trousers.

Sunday School teacher to astonished child: "My dear child, did you know that every hair of your head is numbered?" Scholar, hesitating, to astonished teacher: "Pull out No. 6 for me then, please!"

A bumble-bee lighting on a thermometer will raise the mercury ten degrees. But a man is more susceptible than a thermometer; a bumble-bee lighting on him will raise his temperature more than 100 degrees.
