57. An Irish Munchausen has turned up at a Boston reataurant in the humble capacity of a waiter. A guest who has capacity or a waiter. A guest who ha been served with a small lobster: "Do you call that a lobster, Mike ?" "Faix, I belleve they do be callin' him lobsters here, nur. We call 'en crabs at home."
"Oht" said the diner, "you have
"Is it lobsters? Begorra, the cree is full of 'em. Many a time I've seen em when I laped over the sthrames." land "" long do lobsters grow in Ire land " "
"Well," said Mike, thoughtfully, " to phake widn bounds, sur, ${ }^{2}$ " "What Five or six feet? How do they gel around in those creeks?
"Bedad, sur, the creeks in Ireland are ifty or sixty feet wide perturbable Mike.
"But," asked the guest, "you sald you had seen them when you leaped over the streams, and lobsters here live in the sea."
"Sure, I
"Sure, I did, sur; we're powerful lappers in Ireland. As for the say appers in Ireland. As or ve seent red wh 'em,
"But, look here, my fine fellow," Mike at last, " lobsters are not red until they are boiled."
"Doan't I know that?" sald Mike; "but there are blin' springs in the ould counthry, and they shwim through em, and come out all ready fur ye to crack open and ate 'em." Parody.
A timid girl, with her delicate hand half revenled, half concealed in a mit, came in and laid a poem on our deak, which opened as follows:
How dear to my beart is the goat of my ebildhood,
When fond r

Then brace his four legs and go it pell-mell. Oh, how he would buck it! An iron-bound He once tried to buck it, and died in the well.
5." What is your religion, my friend?" asked a clergyman of a tramp with a caleium nose. "Me?" I be longed to the Nothinarian denomina eet. What are its tenets $n>$ earnestly inquired the parson. "Why, we be lieve, ye see, thut-we believe thut-wall-we believe, that whatever hez happened waz to be whether it come to pass or not.
A pompous Scotch advocate suc by asking him whether he thought the prisoner was compos mentis. The witness could only grin and look foolish. At last the judge interposed. No, Jist tell me, do ye think there is anything in him "" "De'll a thing," burst out the him "" "De'il a thing," burst out the man, with a smile from ear to ear, what's put intim him a spune!

- A little girl who was spending her first month on a farm in the country was asked, "What do you like best in the country "" Replied the child: "I like the country because there are corners! When I am at home mother tells me not to go farther than the corner of the street ; but don't you see thereare oo corners here, and I can go any tz An Iriahman in charge of a "flag tation" stopped an express train "Where are the passengers to get in? shouted the conduetor, briskly." "There ain't any," said Pat. "Then what did you stop the train for ?" "Sure, an how did I know but what somebody how did I know but what somebody wanted to get out?" The conductor jerked the bell and the train rolled on.

5J "And now, sir, may it please your honor, I move that the charge your honor, I move that the charge rought against the prisoner for stealing the pair of pants be non-suited." "Will the counsel state the ruling ?" "Upo the ruling, sir, that a whole suit cannot be made from a pair of pants."

- When the recording angel olserve minister of the gospel holding a nail between his fingers while he misses it Till a hammer, the trustworthy scribe frown atudy and pretend not to hear anything.
Louis XVI. asked Count Mahoney it he understood flailan. "Yes, pleas your Majesty, I understand it if spoken in Irish."
