Some one has discovered that there is actually a law in force which permits money to be carried as baggage. Since this is the case we may travel considera-bly this year. It was the supposed ab-sence of such a law that kept us at home so much.

Samuel Hoffman, Lewis Gilfillen and Perry Kremer, Visitors to the Poor House, for the year 1877, report favora-bly of the institution. James M. White, Joseph T. Steel and Samuel Shull, of Penn township, have been appointed visitors to the institution for 1878.

On Friday, May 3rd, Mrs. James Potter, of Wheatfield twp., was considerably frightened by a hawk flying into the kitchen where she was working, and taking up its roost on the sink. Mrs. P. caught the bird and ended its earthly career. The same pest had been feasting on Mrs. Potter's fowls for some time.— Record.

Three little girls, (two of Mr. Hollen-baugh's and one of Mr. Rice's) whilst riding a horse from a field to the barn of Mr. G. I. Rice, near Sandy Hill, on Friday last, were thrown off, by the horse starting to run. Emma, the youngest, got her right forearm broken at the wrist. Both bones were fractured.—
Drs. Rodgers and Sunday were summond and and adjusted the broken beauty. ed and adjusted the broken bones. The child is doing as well as can be expected.

Leg Broken .- On Friday last Mr. Rufus Potter, while working at a bank barn for Mr. Jacob Burkepile had a stone ro!l agains his leg, breaking one of the bones near the ankle, The fracture was adjusted by Dr. Eby.

Ceased Operations .- The Germany Coal Company have ceased operations in their mine, and some of the stock holders are desirous of selling out. At last report there was no money in the treasury. Several individuals are making arrangements to secure the services of two miners from Shamokin to prospect for coal on the lands that have been leased by the company. These miners have said that they will find coal in three days. Although many attempts have been made to find coal in that locality, vet the indications for that mineral does not seem to be better now than they were 35 years ago.

Curious Potatoes .- Wm. Watson, of the South Ward, planted his potatoes as usual this spring. He waited long and patiently but only a few came up. He finally dug down to see what was the matter and was surprised to find that all those hills which did not come to the surface were producing independent of the tops. Some of the potatoes found were nearly the size of hen's eggs, and were connected with the seed potato by stems one and two inches long. He got enough of these curiously-grown potatoes to make a mess for his family. He cannot account for the freak, unless his potatoes desired to cheat the potato bug this year,-Newville Star.

Assaulted by Tramps .- On Tuesday afternoon two daughters of Mr. Daniel Palm who lives near Stoufferstown left Chambersburg for their home. When they were opposite Messersmith's woods they were accosted by two tramps who wanted their money. One of the young ladies ran away but the other was unable to make her escape. One of the tramps ordered her to give up her money which she would not do; he then asked for her watch and when she refused him he made a dash at her. She, in no wise daunted, picked up a piece of limestone and with a true country girl's muscle let him have it fair and square between the eyes. The secundrel immediately bit the dust when the intrepid girl ran one way and the other dirty blackguard tramp in another direction. These scoundrels have not as yet been arrested.

Sharp Dodge.-Last Wednesday a Cumberland county farmer living a short distance east of this place, attended the morning market at Harrisburg. Shortly after the opening of market, a well dressed lady stepped up to the farmer's stand and desired to inspect his butter. A nice four pound roll was shown her and it suited her. Picking it up she placed it carefully into a crock she carried in a basket, and as carefully tied a cloth ever the crock. Going down into her pocket, she discovered she had no small change, but said she would step into a store near by and get her big bills made smaller. However she would just leave the butter in the crock stand there until she returned. She walked rapidly off, and the market hour wore rapidly away, but she returned not. Waiting a short time after market closed for his customer, the farmer concluded that she had failed to find her way back, and he would be compelled to take his butter along home with him. Picking up the crock, judge of his astonishment to find it without a bottom, and, of course, minus the roll of butter. Our farmer friend's faith in the honesty of all well dressed women has received a severe blow, and hereafter he will carefully examine the bottoms of crocks left in his care as security for purchases .- Independent.

Narrow Escape From Death. - On Friday of last week Mr. Geo. H. Martin, formerly a resident of Blain, this county, met with a painful accident that almost resulted in his death. The circumstances surrounding the case are as follows :-

Mr. Martin was riding in the rear end of Ephraim Jones' butcher wagon, the latter gentleman and young son, Frank, and Harvey Wingert being on their way out to the slaughter shop, at Wm. Everheart's about one mile South of Newport, on the road to Bloomfield. Just before the corner was turned at the old fair grounds, the horse cantering along at a lively rate, the wagon suddenly lurched into a rut in the road, throwing Mr. Martin, who was riding with his legs hanging out over the end gate of the wagon, with great violence to the ground, his back and head striking so hard that concussion of the brain was produced. The gentleman was lifted into the wagon and conveyed to his home on Fifth street, in this place. Immediately following the accident he was able to speak, but a few minutes afterwards he became unconsicous, in which condition he remained until some time the next morning, when he recovered his senses, and has been steadily improving ever since, Dr. Eby in the meantime administering medical comfort.-Newport

The little fellow followed his mother to the garret, and while there he took a dose of the poison unnoticed by the mother. She soon ascertained what the child had taken, and immediately gave him some raw eggs, causing ately gave him some raw eggs, causing him to vomit, and throw off the poison. Prompt action on the part of the mother saved the life of her child.

on Sunday evening of last week, a large coal oil lamp, suspended from the ceiling in the parlor of the residence of Dr. Arnold, in Mexico, fell down while lighted, setting fire to the brussels carpet. Mrs. Arnold, was near by at the time, some of the coal oil falling on her dress. Becoming paralyzed with fright, and being alone in the house, she was unable to get anything with which to subdue the flames. Remembering that her husband was attending services at the Presbyterian Church, a short distance away, she ran to the short distance away, she ran to the church, and beckoned to the doctor to church, and beckoned to the doctor to come out. Answering her call promptly he found his wife terribly frightened, and all she could do was to point to the house. They hurried home, but before reaching the house Mrs. A. was enabled to tell what was the matter. On passing a well the Dr. procured a bucket of water, and as soon as he reached the parlor dashed the water on the flames, and thus extinguished the fire before much damage was done.—Port Ronal much damage was done.-Port Royal
