THE President has approved the act to prohibit the further retirement of United States legal-tender notes.

HON. ANDREW H. DILL, the Democratic candidate for Governor, has sent to Lieutenant Governor Latta his resignation as State Senator for the Twenty-seventh district. The vacancy will be filled at the general election in November.

THE Governor has signed the fish bill as amended by the last Legislature, and it is therefore now the law of the land. By its provisions the season for catching black bass commences on the first day of June instead of the first of July. The Governor also approved the bill making an appropriation to the Fish Commissioners for the propagation of fish.

THE house in which Dr. Burdell was murdered, on the 31st of January, 1867, No. 31 Bond street, New York, was sold at auction the other day. Most of our older readers are familiar with the circumstances of that fatal tragedy. The house has had an unlucky experience since then. In October, 1869, John R. Felton dropped dead in the house, and for years after it was no uncommon thing to see timid folks carefully take the other side of the street when compelled to traverse Bond street and at night the quiet thoroughfare has to this day but few travelers.

At the time when the murder referred to above was committed, we lived opposite, and well remember the excitement of that Sabbath morning.

SENATOR STANLEY MATTHEWS of Ohio who is charged by Anderson with knowing of the alleged frauds in Louisiana, denies the charge, and asks that the Senate investigate the matter. He accordingly offers the following resolution:

Resolved, that a committee of seven Senators be appointed to inquire into and consider all things touching the matters stated and referred to by the Senator from Ohio (Matthews,) and the events connected thereunto, and particularly what connection, if any, that Senator had with any real or pretended frauds or other wrongs committed in the conduct and returns of the election in the State of Louisiana in 1876, and with any promise of protection or reward, if any, made by any one to Jas. E. Anderson, or others, in consideration of or connection with any official conduct by Anderson or others in relation to said elections or returns, and into all the circumstances of any recommendation by the Senator, of said Anderson, for appointment to office, and that said committee have power to send for persons and to employ a clerk and stenographer, and have leave to sit during the recess.

Agreed to unanimously.

Low Prices of Grain.

Our Philadelphia Market report of last week makes the following remarks:—On the first of the month No. 2 red Western wheat sold in this market at $1.30 per bushel, and sail mixed corn at 52½ cents, in the elevators. Yesterday the same grade and delivery of wheat sold at $1.10 and of corn at 45½ cents—a decline of 20 cents per bushel in wheat and 6½ in corn. Corn is lower now than it has been for thirty years past, and, from present indications, has not yet reached bottom. The decline is attributable to the depression in the foreign and home markets, low rates of freight from the West, an abundant supply, present and prospective, and to the pressure for sale of reserve stocks, held off the market in the hope of higher prices in the now improbable event of further war in Europe.

Oregon State Election.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—A Portland dispatch says additional election returns indicate that Whitaker (Dem.) is elected Congressman by a small majority. It is conceded that the Legislature will have a Democratic majority on joint ballot variously estimated at from 4 to 12. It is generally conceded that but for the efforts to force the election of Mitchell, the Legislature would have been Republican. The Republicans undoubtedly elect the Secretary of State and Treasurer. It is believed that Beckman (Rep.) is elected Governor by a small majority.

Terrible Loss of Life.

LONDON, June 7.—An explosion of fire-damp occurred at the Wood Pit colliery in Wigan to-day, causing serious loss of life. Two hundred miners are buried in the ruins. The work of exploration has been commenced, but it is difficult and attended with great danger.

The first explorer descended the shaft five minutes after the explosion and others followed. Ten men were rescued alive, and were sent to the surface, where one died almost immediately and the others suffered much. Eight other men are alive and have taken refuge in a working of the mine. Two hundred and thirty-two men are dead.—The explorers state that they have found bodies decapitated, reduced to shapeless masses, and some of them blown to pieces. It is expected that the corpses will be brought up by midnight. A large crowd of men, women and children surrounded the pit. The cause of the explosion is unknown, as blasting with naked lights is prohibited.

Miss Bruhneil's Infatuation.

WALHALLA C. H., S. C., May 22.—Col. Budd, once a conspicuous politician in Alabama, now over 70 years of age, had for some time paid devoted attention to Miss Ida Bruhneil, the beautiful daughter of a well-to-do farmer; but her father opposed the match; not so much because of the difference between her age and that of her aged lover—she is only twenty—as on account of Budd's political faith.

Night before last the lovers determined consummate their happiness by immediate marriage. Budd proposed an elopement and the girl assented. That night two saddled horses were waiting at the Bruhneil mansion, and at midnight Budd and his bride eloped, accompanied by a male friend, were galloping away at break-neck speed in the direction of the Tennessee line, in which State the ceremony was to be performed. All might have gone well but for the perfidy of the girl's waiting maid, to whom she confided her plans. As soon as the eloping couple were on their way this negro girl told her master what had taken place. Bruhneil had a horse saddled, and armed himself with a double-barreled shotgun, and went in hot pursuit.

At about 1 o'clock yesterday morning he overtook them near Fordham Crossing, and halted Budd, warning him that if he did not stop and give up his daughter he would kill him. But Budd pressed on, and when the party attempted to cross Fordham creek the father reached the brow of the hill, and fired at Budd, killing him instantly.

The girl was taken by her father back to her home. Miss Bruhneil had only lately graduated from a Northern seminary.

Costly Courtesy.

From private sources it is learned that the United States steamer Essex was seriously injured recently by the side-wheel man-of-war Amazon, of Dom Pedro's navy, while attempting to exchange naval courtesies at the port of Montevideo. It appears that the Brazilian frigate was about to proceed homeward, and in leaving the harbor the Admiral determined to take leave of the Essex in a royal manner. The officers and men lined the upper decks, the band played the "Star-Spangled Banner," and the Brazilian crew cheered the ship. In attempting to come as close as possible to the American vessel they did not allow for the strong wind and tide, and came down on the Essex with a shock that jarred her from stem to stern, carrying away the jib-boom and the fore-top-gallant-mast. The Amazon lost her small boats and had her paddle-box torn all to pieces by the cat-head of the Essex. The greatest excitement prevailed at the time, but fortunately no lives were lost. The damage done to the Essex will probably cost Dom Pedro about $1,500. Both ships put into Montevideo and repaired damages.

A Plucky Girl.

While a colored girl, named Hettie Hug, employed at 228 South Thirty-eighth street, a few mornings since, was standing at the window, she observed a man walk up to the window of Mr. Lawrence Myers' house, directly opposite, and with a jimmy force the front parlor window shutter.

He then climbed in, and she ran over and rang the door bell, and the man opened the door and tried to escape.

She caught him and held on to him, although he pulled her nearly a square, when a policeman came to sight and arrested the man.

He is a Frenchman and gives the name of Charles Lieubaux, and he says he is without a home. Magistrate Smith committed him, and at the same time complimented the courage of the young woman.—Philadelphia Star.

Train Robbers Captured.

SALT LAKE, Utah, June 3.—A party of eleven men from Rawlins, Wyoming, captured the train robbers and returned to Rawlins. They overhauled them night before last forty-five miles north of St. Mary's station. They offered little resistance, as their only arms were revolvers, while the pursuers were armed with long range rifles. Three shots only were fired. They denied the crime at first, but by threats and the application of a rope one confessed and piloted the party to where the watches and money were concealed. The one, since turned State's evidence, says that he and one other came from Cheyenne, and the other two from Kansas, where they lately committed a bank robbery.

A Singular Case.

Several months ago Miss Ida Wickert, now residing on Vine street, near River avenue, had one of her ankles badly sprained, from the effects as she supposed of working at one of the machines in the State bindery. For three or four months she suffered the most excruciating pain and her ankle was much swollen. The other day while the attending physician was examining and dressing the ankle he discovered a portion of a lath nail, nearly one-half an inch long, protruding from the opening and removed it without much difficulty. The young lady, who is now in a fair way of recovery, cannot account for its presence, or at what particular time it entered the ankle.—Harrisburg Patriot.

A Cool Horse Thief.

A Detroit item says: Albert Jachenke, an honest old farmer, from Taylor, was returning home yesterday afternoon, when his wagon broke down, and he proceeded toward home riding one of the horses and leading the other. A young fellow met him and asked to ride the other horse. Permission being granted, the stranger mounted, but suddenly turned about and rode rapidly toward the city. The nag Jachenke was mounted on could not catch up with the bold horse thief, and he escaped.

Bank Robbery at Canton.

CANTON, Pa., June 4.—The banking house of Samuel Doane & Son was entered by three burglars this morning. Mr. Doane, who slept in the bank, was seized and compelled to open the vault, and was then gagged. The robbers only secured $2,500 worth of registered bonds, being driven off by men who, living close by, heard the noise and came to Mr. Doane's assistance. One of the burglars was severely hurt about the head with a club, but managed to make his escape with the others.

The Huntingdon Journal says: A friend informs us that on Saturday night last, between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock, the barn on the farm of J. M. Patterson, at Yellow Springs, was fired in three places and burned to the ground, together with all its contents. Two horses, one cow and calf, hay, harness and all his farming implements were burned. The fiend who fired the building opened the doors in order that a current of air could pass through to fan the flames and thus insure the success of their hellish work. The incendiaries are supposed to be four tramps who robbed a store in Martinsburg a few days ago. Mr. Patterson's loss is heavy, and at present writing we have not learned whether he was insured or not.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 6, 1878.

The greatest social event of the season since Lent has been the Sherman-Cameron wedding; for, although neither party are Washingtonians and the wedding did not take place here, yet Senator Don and Secretary Sherman's niece were both too well known to receive merely passing notice or excite but transient interest in any of their doings; and besides, coming here soon after their marriage they were the recipient of complimentary breakfasts, lunches, dinner-parties and other gatherings. Much curiosity was felt concerning the Senatorial gift to the bride—for it is made a point of etiquette that in case of a Senator's marriage during a session his lady shall be presented with a bridal present by his brother Senators. Mrs. Cameron received a pair of large wine coolers, silver embossed with gold, for the purchasing of which each Senator contributed $10. Last year a Representative was presented by the Members with the entire furnishings of an extensive conservatory. The plants were of the rarest species obtainable, being taken from the National Botanical gardens and green houses upon which each Congressman has a small yearly claim.

As propos to weddings and bridal gifts, entertainments, &c., in case of the other great marriage in which Washington's social world has been vastly interested of late, that of Baron Blanc—Italian Minister—and Miss Terry, the bride's present to each of her attendants was a heavy finger ring set with a black and a white pearl; and at the breakfast she gave to them she wore a white brocaded silk morning dress with Valenciennes lace trimmings. Her feet, which are tiny, were shod in white silk slippers of the same brocade as the dress, and white silk lace stockings.

Vinnie Ream, the famous sculptress, was married last Tuesday evening to Lieutenant Hoxie, U. S. A.

Notwithstanding the various reports that are continually reaching us concerning the insignificance of the United States exhibit at the Paris Exposition, better substantiated ones are to a different effect—namely, that the American section at the great fair will do our country credit. Tiffany's silver ware (of which he has sent a rare display) is said by competent and reliable judges to be incontestably the finest, in point of design and workmanship, in the whole exhibition.

The Waltham Watch Co. has also a magnificent collection of time-pieces there, and the axes and other edged tools of the Douglass Company, of Boston, is arranged similarly to that in the U. S. Patent Office in this city, upon a screen background of dark blue velvet, the whole enclosed in a heavy walnut frame.

Gen. Grant with his wife and daughter Nellie visited the fair one day last week, and the occasion was made the most of in the American section. Although thoroughly "doing" that portion of the Exhibition, the distinguished visitors partook of a collation prepared for them, consisting wholly of American viands—potted meats, pickled oysters, canned fruit, crackers, American wine and the like—a repast peculiarly grateful to those long absent from home and consequently long without home delicacies. After eating, Gen. Grant averred that he had enjoyed no repast so much for months.

The talk connecting the name of Grant with the 1880 Presidential nomination is spreading far and wide. Many notable men in Washington who were not admirers of him during his second term of office express themselves now as decidedly in favor of nominating him again to the Chief Magistrate's chair; and a prominent New Yorker said recently that he was confident, if an election was to be held now for President with Grant for the Republican candidate, he would sweep New York State by from 30,000 to 40,000 majority.

Miscellaneous News Items.

LEBANON, June 5.—A young lady named Keller fell into lock No. 1 of the Union canal at Heilmantale last night and was drowned.

A three-story brick building, under construction on Fremont street, Baltimore, fell in Tuesday, burying ten men in the ruins. One of them died shortly after being extricated from the debris, and the remainder were seriously injured.

Near Americus, Va., on Monday a week, a man named Caldwell killed his wife, three children and his wife's sister with a smoothing iron. He then made three attempts to destroy himself, the last one, a leap from the top of a lofty building, fortunately proving successful.

Captain McCammar, of Chillicothe, Ohio, whose failure was announced recently, was yesterday discovered to have committed forgeries to the amount of $30,000. He had been missing from home, and was found in a stable insensible from the effects of laudanum, having suicided.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The house of Isaiah Hanscom, ex-chief naval constructor, in this city, was robbed sometime between Saturday night and this morning of $75,000 in money. The amount was drawn on Saturday from the bank and was to have been used for some purpose to-day.

At a recent wedding the "best man" handed to the clergyman at the close of the service a counterfeit $5 note instead of the ten gold eagles that had been placed in a richly knit silk purse by the groom, and left in his friend's keeping. Had the note been genuine the fraud never would have been discovered.

A St. Louis woman has the odd fancy that her daughter would instantly die if exposed to the sun or the open air, and therefore keeps her in a close room, heavily swathed in flannels, and most of the time in bed. The daughter is as insane on the subject as her mother. She has been secluded since her ninth year, and is now seventeen. Her health is really as good as could be expected under the circumstances.

Love, which laughs at locksmiths, turns out to be no respecter of creed or race in Cincinnati. The handsome daughter of Rabbi Wise fell in love with a young Irish attorney, and they were secretly engaged to be married. The rabbi had forbidden him to enter the house; but the couple were made man and wife by a Unitarian preacher. The rabbi, who has now disowned his daughter, is one of the best-known Israelites in the United States.

SARATOGA, June 5.—The wife of Jesse Billings, Jr., of Bacon Hill, near Schuylerville, was fatally shot in the head last night, the shot being fired through a window. Mrs. Billings has for a long period been jealous of her husband, and there has been much trouble between them in consequence. Recently a woman living over Mr. Billings' commenced a slander suit against Mrs. Billings for certain alleged slanderous words spoken.

READING, Pa., June 3.—Three men were instantly killed to-day at the iron ore mines about three miles from Topton by the sudden caving in of an embankment about 50 feet high. Two others received slight injuries and barely escaped with their lives. The names of the killed are Jacob Fryer, who leaves a wife and several small children; Wm. Reinert, who leaves a wife and five children, and Jos. Schenck, who leaves a wife and four children. The mines are known as the Plane mines and are worked by the Thomas iron company.

At Sensinger's tannery, near Bear-town, Lancaster county, on Monday a week, Henry Sycer, a respectable citizen and employee at the tannery, while close to the bark mill, was caught by the sweep and drawn into the mill used for grinding bark, where he was literally ground to pieces, causing death almost instantaneously. While passing through the cogs he was heard to remark, "I must die!" and before he could be extricated death had cased him of his sufferings. He leaves a wife and children.

Report says that Miss Coffey was one of the most modest and sweet-tempered young women in Lawrence, Kan., and that Mr. Leeper was a worthless, bullying fellow; yet, when they married, it was his parents who objected to the union. He lived with his wife only two weeks, and then it was mutually agreed that they should separate. The bride assented quietly, saying that she was pleased to be rid of her husband. He subsequently spoke disrespectfully about her to his friends. One evening he stood jauntily in the door of the Post Office, smoking. She came along in her customary diffident manner, handed her parasol to a by-stander, took off her gloves, drew a cowhide from her pocket, and slashed Leeper across the face until he was terribly disfigured. Then she took back her parasol, put on her gloves, and walked demurely on.

FACTORY FACTS.

Close confinement, careful attention to all factory work, gives the operatives pallid faces, poor appetite, languid, miserable feeling, poor blood, inactive liver, kidneys and urinary troubles, and all the physicians and medicine in the world cannot help them unless they get out of doors or use Hop Bitters, made of the purest and best of remedies, and especially for such cases, having abundance of health, sunshine and rosy cheeks in them. None need suffer if they will use them freely. They cost but a trifle. See another column.

A Wise Deacon.

"Deacon Wilder, I want you to tell me how you kept yourself and family so well the past season, when all the rest of us have been sick so much, and have had the doctors running to us so long?"

"Bro Taylor, the answer is very easy. I used Hop Bitters in time and kept my family well and saved large doctor bills. Three dollars' worth of it kept us all well and able to work all the time, and I will warrant it has cost you and most of the neighbors one to two hundred dollars apiece to keep sick the same time. I guess you'll take my medicine hereafter." See another column.
