She Meant Business. They have some queer girls in Colorado. One of them who resided in the Cache la Poudre Valley, had been receiving the attentions of a young man for about a year, but becoming impatient of his failure to bring matters to a crisis, she resolved to ascertain his intentions.

When he next called she took him gently by the ear and led him to a seat and said: "Nobby, you've been foolin' round this claim for mighty near a year en' hev never yit shot off yer mouth on the marryin' biz. I've cottoned to yer on the square clean through, an' have stood off every other galoot that has tried to chin in, an' now I want yer to come down to business or leave the ranch. Ef yer on the marry an' want a pard that'll stick rite to ye till ye pass in yer checks, I'm the gal, but ef that ain't yer game, draw out an' give some other fellow a show for his pile. Now sing yer song or skip out." He sang.

Anything new or fresh this "morning?" a reporter asked in a railroad office.

"Yes," replied the lone occupant of the department.

"What is it?" queried the reporter, taking out his note book.

Said the railroad man, edging toward the door: "That paint you are leaning against."

Such are the loads a newspaper man must bear.

Sadly Disappointed. A dozen men were sitting in a saloon recently, when a female voice was heard from an adjacent doorstep.

Well, good morning, Mrs. Blank. If I had anything on I'd go with you." There was a mad rush for the door, an eager expectant crowd, with outstretched necks, peering over each other's shoulders in the direction from whence the voice proceeded, and then a return to the vacated chairs, "What good does it do a woman to lie in that way, anyhow?"

The other evening, when the four or five young rose buds which gallop o'er the hearthstone of a Cass avenue family became too uproarious, the mother called out:

"If I have to speak to you again, I shall punish some of you."

"The youngest of the lot slid off the lounge, reflected a moment, and then remarked:

"Well, then, I'd advise you to hold in your speak."

She did.

A blacksmith was lately summoned to a county court as a witness in a dispute between two of his workmen. The judge, after hearing the testimony, asked him why he did not advise them to settle, as the costs had already amounted to three times the amount of the sum in dispute.

He replied, "I told the fools to settle; for I said the barristers would take their coats, the lawyer their shirts, and if they got into your honor's court, you'd skin 'em!"

A sturdy vagabond, with a full black beard of unusual length, was recently brought before a London magistrate, who questioned him about his past life.

"If one can believe all that is laid to your charge," said the judge solemnly, "your conscience must be as black as your beard." "Ah," replied the wily rogue, "if a man's conscience is to be measured by his beard, than your lordship has no conscience at all."

Conundrums. When does a hen become a rooster? Usually about a sunset.

What beats a good wife? A bad husband.

If I were in the sun and you were out of it, what would the sun become? Sin.

Before beginning the second psalm for the day, a Glasgow, clergyman reached down into his pockets and took a pinch of snuff.

Even yet he cannot understand what there was in the first verse of the psalm to make the congregation laugh when he read, "My soul cleaveth to the dust."

"Augustus, my love, what are you thinking about so intently?"

"Why, Aurelia, you know when we are married we shall be made one, and I am trying to make out which of us that one would be."

A Montana justice of the peace doesn't splurge any when he marries a couple. He says: "Arise! Grab hands! Hitched! Six dollars." And that is all there is of it.
