A Town In Two States.

Bristol, which straddles the Tennessee and Virginia State line, has two systems, of local government and belongs about equally to two States. The line between Tennessee and Virginia is the center of Main street, and it gives rise to many funny scenes, as, for example, the runaway couple need no coach and four, but, arm in arm, step across Main street and are wedded. The fugitive commits a crime in Virginia, goes to the pavement on the other side of the street and talks deflantly to the officer on the opposite side who has a warrant for his arrest. A misstep or too bold disposition will sometimes, however, bring him to grief. Several instances have occurred of a fugitive being hustled across the line by a party prepared while in the act of holding such a conversation, and they tell of a man who defiantly perched himself on a pile of store boxes within six feet of the line, jeering the officers on the other side, but, unfortuately for him, some law-abiding citizens tilted the boxes, and when he reached the ground he was in the other State.

A Couple Made Speechless.

Peter Lavelle and wife, waiters in a Cincinnati dining-room, retired to rest, a few nights since, in good health. Next morning Mrs. Lavelle awoke and attemptod to speak to her husband, when she found herself totally deprived of the power of speech ; all efforts to articulate were unavailing, and a physician was sent for.

The only symptoms of disease apparent were a thick dark coating on the tongue and a hollow appearance of the eyer. On the same afternoon Lavelle, while sitting in front of his employer's establishment, was observed to fall back in his chair; another waiter undertook to arouse him, when it was found that he was unable to speak a word. Since that time neither man nor wife have spoken, and the physicians are unable to account for the loss of speech.

Drowned by his Dog.

The Terre Haute "Express" says :-Michael McCormick, express driver, rode his horse to the bar in the bend of the river, above the railroad bridge, a few days ago. After taking the animal into the water and washing it, he hitched it to a bush on the bank and went swimming. He was with Mr. Baldwin and his son, who remained near the shore. They observed that McCormick's large bulldog, which was bathing with his master, kept sportively climbing upon him as he swam, thus pushing him under the water. They started toward him, but he threw the dog off, and when they called to know whether he wanted help he shook his head. They then started to swim back, but when they looked soon afterward the dog was on Mc-Cormick again, and before they could assist him he sank and was drowned.

Lions About.

It is a dangerous thing to trifle with a cold. A darkey preacher once told his hearers that he thanked God "that the devil went about as a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour. He might catch a poor fellow who didn't know he was near him; but when he heard the roar he could get out of the way ; if he didn't he deserved to die." So when one hears the wheeze of the cough which tells of the old lion, Consumption, lurking around, he should fly to Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, and get out of the way of danger. This preparation is well known, has been tried nearly fifty years, and is acknowledged by all who use it to be unsurpassed in its soothing and healing properties. 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Verdant Indeed.

Last week three verdant looking individuals entered the City Hall and inquired of a member of the Third House, "Say, stranger, whereabouts 'ere is the Rogues' Gallery?" "Right at the head of the stairs, on the second floor," remarked the local statesman, pointing to the Governor's room. The three inquisitive sightseers hurried at once to the Governor's room, where they wonderingly examined the full length portraits of Horatio Seymour, Wm. H. Seward, Reuben E. Fenton, George Opdyke, Henry Clay and several others as specimens of New York thieves .- N. Y. Herald.

Wicked for Clergymen.

"I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors, or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article is made up of common valuable remedies known to all, and that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."
