Bread in Five Minutes.

The last sensation occurred last Thursday (June 11) when about fifty men were present by invitation to see Jim Lawson beat his own time of two years ago, when his wife had bread baked in eight and a quarter minutes after the wheat was standing in the field. At 10 o'clock 46m., 6s., the Buckeye reaper, drawn by Cy. Burnett's dun mules, stood at the corner of the growing wheat, machine in gear ready for a start. Men were stationed along the line of grain ready to seize an armful as it fell from the reaper, and rush with it to the thrasher close by, which under the direction of veteran drivers was getting under way for business. At the mill, just sixteen rods away, Lawson stood at the window watching the moment when McCaw on the swiftest horse in the country, should start from the thrasher with the grain, while Mrs. Lawton and her niece, Miss Alice, had all the preparations made to make griddle cakes and biscuits in the shortest possible time. At the drop of the hat the dun mules sprang to the work, and in 1m. 15s. the threshed wheat, about a peck, was in the sack and on the horse, and the race commenced for the mill. There were two bridges to cross, and the excited spectators could only see a column of dust, hear a couple of taps on the plank bridge as the horse flew over them at lightning speed, and the wheat was delivered to Lawton in the mill. In 1m. and 17s. the flour was delivered to Mrs. Lawton, and in 3m. 55s. from the starting of the reaper the first griddle-cake came from the hands of Miss Alice, and was gobbled by a dozen eager hands—and that was the last of it. In 4m. 37s. from the starting of the reaper, according to the best double time stop-watch in the country, a pan of biscuits was delivered to the hungry crowd by Mrs. Lawson. Then other pans of delicious biscuits were baked more at leisure, and boiled ham and "one-minute biscuit" formed a sandwich it was right hard to beat.

Night Air.

An extraordinary fallacy is the dread of night air! What air can we breathe at night, but night air? The choice is between pure night air from without and the foul air from within. Most people prefer the latter. An unaccountable choice. What will they say, if it is proved to be true, that fully one-half of all the disease we suffer from is occasioned by sleeping with our windows shut? An open window, most nights in the year, can never hurt anyone. This is not to say that light is not necessary for recovery. In great cities night air is often the best and purest air to be had in the twenty-four hours. We could better understand shutting the windows in town during the day, for the sake of the sick. The absence of smoke, the quiet, all tend to make night the best time for airing the patient. One of our highest medical authorities on consumption and climate has told us that the air in London is never so good as after 10 o'clock at night. Always air your room then, from the outside air if possible. Windows are made to open, doors are made to shut, a truth which seems difficult of apprehension. Every room must be aired from without, every passage from within. But the fewer passages there are in a hospital the better.

Warm Water For Bruises

From times unknown bruises have been treated by cold water. Mothers in our early life used to apply it to any bruise or contusion, especially to bruises upon the forehead. Notwithstanding this illustrious example we prefer the application of very warm water. Let us see how the two operate: Cold applied to the surface has a tendency to check the flow of blood. Heat, under the same circumstances, augments it. Thus applying cold water to a bruise or contusion stops, more or less, the blood in its course through the injured part. The spot is "black and blue." Applying hot water compels the moving fluid to hasten its course and be far away from the scenes of turmoil. So the blood hastens on its way and leaves very few marks of its presence. Ordinary bruises and contusions rupture some capillary blood tubes, and allow the blood to ooze out. The thing to be done is to compel the blood to flow on its wonted way. The application of very warm water is the best treatment for contusions and bruises.

In digging a tree, always turn the side of the spade toward the stem of the tree, and lift out the earth carefully, and the small rootlets will then be loosened and preserved uninjured.

GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP.

A STERLING REMEDY FOR DISEASES AND IRRITATIONS OF THE SKIN; A HEALTHFUL BEAUTIFIER OF THE COMPLEXION; A RELIABLE MEANS OF PREVENTING AND RELIEVING RHEUMATISM AND GOUT, AND AN UNEQUALLED DISINFECTANT, DEODORIZER AND COUNTER-IRRITANT.

Glenn's Sulphur Soap, besides eradicating local diseases of the skin, banishes defects of the complexion and imparts to it gratifying clearness and smoothness.
