HOUSE, FARM AND GARDEN.

We invite communications from all persons who are interested in matters properly belonging to this department.

Doing up Men's Linen.

Sometime ago my husband used to complain that his linen collars did not set nicely in front. There was always a fullness which, in the case of standing collars, was particularly trying to a man who felt a good deal of pride in the dressing of his neck, as it spoiled the effect of his cravat, and often left a gap for the display of the collar-band of the shirt, or a half-inch of bare skin. While talking to a practical shirt-maker one day, I mentioned this annoyance and inquired if there was any way of relieving it. "Yes," answered the man, "the fault is with your laundress, while doing up your collars she stretches them the wrong way. Damp linen is very pliable, and a good pull will alter a fourteen-inch into a fifteen-inch collar in the twinkling of an eye. She ought to stretch them crosswise and not lengthwise, then in straightening out shirt-bosom she makes another mistake of the same sort. They ought also to be pulled crosswise instead of lengthwise, particularly in the neighborhood of the neck. A lengthwise pull draws the front of the neckband somewhere directly under your chin, where it was never meant to go, and, of course, that spoils the set of your collar. With the front of your neck-band an inch too high, and your collar an inch too long you have a most undesirable combination."

The speaker was right. As soon as my husband ordered the necessary changes to be made in the methods of our laundry, a wonderful difference manifested itself in the appearance of that most important part of his clad anatomy, his neck. Let me recommend the shirt-maker's hint to other women.

How a Lame Horse was made Well.

Joseph Hunsicker, tenant on the farm of Edwin Oswald, above Schnecks-ville, Lehigh county, recently resorted to most singular means to make one of his horses, lamed by an accident, well. The horse had become fastened with one of his legs under the sill of the stable door, and in his efforts to extricate himself used such force that after his release he was unable to stand upon the injured limb, which was crooked and stiff, and refused to yield up its rigidity. The owner of the suffering equine finally became seized with the idea that one of the joints had become dislocated, and to reduce which he had the horse thrown and ropes and straps fastened to the injured leg, and the same hitched to another horse, which latter was then put to a pull and the crooked member given a stretching that made the very bones crack. This done the animal was raised up on all four, and actually in an improved condition.

To Prepare a Good Cup of Coffee.

Take a half cup each of best Java and Maracaibo, half an egg and shell, and a little cold water; mix well together; have coffee pot hot; pour into coffee a big quart of boiling water; beat briskly. Let it boil fifteen minutes, just so you can see it bubble in the pot. Be careful and not allow it to boil over. Set one side three minutes, and then it will be ready for the table. This makes four cups of the best coffee you ever drank. If too strong, use three-quarters of a cup.

To Kill Moths in Carpets.

A good way to kill them is to take a course towel and ring it out in clean water. Spread it smoothly on the carpet, then iron it dry with a good hot iron, repeating the operation on all suspected places, and those least used. It is not necessary to press hard, heat and steam being the agents, and they do the work effectually on worms and eggs.

A writer in the London Times, remarking upon the slipping of horses on the London pavements, recommends that horses go unshod, and says that for twenty-five years he has employed many (often 200 at a time) on all kinds of roads and in all kinds of work, without having one of them shod and without injury to their feet, being careful only not to put a newly unshod horse at once upon a bad road. Has there been any such experience here? Why do we shoe our horses?

After your crop has been raised it will be greatly to your advantage to raise any mortgage which may be resting upon the farm. This will raise a heavy load from your mind and raise your courage and spirits beyond measure.
