Deaths at a Funeral.

A terrible accident occurred Sunday morning on the Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, division of the Long Island Railrond. A train from the Flatbush avenue depot ran into a coach that belonged to a funeral procession and killed two of its occupants, besides severely injuring the others. Early in the morning the funeral services had been held over Patrick Duff in the Catholic church at the corner of Throop avenue and McDonough street. When the services were over it was intended to take the remains to the Cemetery of the Holy Cross. There were sixteen carriages. The procession went by way of Brooklyn avenue to Atlantic avenue. The crossing at this point is not protected by gates to stop the traffic when the trains are passing. Ten of the carriages had crossed over when a Long Island train was seen approaching on the down track at full speed. In the eleventh carriage were Mrs. Stephen Mahan, of No. 66 Montague street, and her three children-Teresa, aged thirteen , Celia, aged seven, and Thomas E., aged fifteen years. Mary Redmond, a niece, aged sixteen, was also in the carriage. The driver was Patrick McNamee, of No. 138 Pearl street, Brooklyn, When he saw that the train would pass the crossing before he could get over the track he tried to bring his horses to a standstill. On second thought McNamee believed he could cross in time, and urged his horses to a gallop to escape the locomotive, which at that moment was almost upon him. Michael Dunn, the flagman stationed at that point, called to McName to stop, but the latter kept on. He had hardly got his horses moving when the locomotive dashed into the carriage, striking it squarely in the center. The engine threw the driver off the box, and the carriage was lifted off the track and pitched to the railings thirty yards beyond. McNamee landed upon the cow-catcher of the locomotive and was carried over one hundred yards before the train was stopped.

One Woman's Life.

People who cross City Hall square at night have noticed a little old woman dressed in an odd brown gown, a tight sacque, and a white frilled cap scrupulously clean. She walks the square from 9 P. M. till past midnight to and fro, scanning every man's face, and after many disapointments every night goes slowly, very late, up to her home in Mulbery street. About four years ago John Reilly, her husband, was employed in the pressroom of the Herald. About 9 o'clock every night he met his wife, who brought down his lunch and carried back the dishes. One cold dark night he did not meet her, and as she did not know the way to the press-room she waited some time and then went home. In her room she found his dead body upon the bed. He had been killed by the falling of a roll of paper. She did not die, though she was near dying, and she still waits every night to meet her husband. Winter and summer are alike to her, and no weather delays her, though she is sixty years of age.-N. Y. World.

A Murderous Fight Near Allentown.

ALLENTOWN, September 30 .-Mount Pleasant Corner, a small village in this county, fifteen miles from Allentown, there occurred yesterday a severe fight between Ellis Lentz and Jacob Kressly, neighboring farmers, which resulted in the death of the former. The fight occured in this way; Lentz's pigs broke into Kressly's cornfield, and Kressly opened up by stoning the pigs. This Lentz did not fancy and retaliated by hitting Kressly with his fist, which was returned in a like manner. The next movement was made by Lents striking Kressly with a cane, when Kressly picked up a fence rail and struck Lentz across the back of the neck, killing him instantly. Kressly was arrested and brought to this city and lodged in jail. This morning Kressly was taken to the scene of the murder, accompanied by his attorney.

"Although averse to countenancing patent medicines I cheerfully make an exception of your very excellent lung preparation-Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. This preparation I have used in my practice for more than ten years past, and have always found it to be of more effectual service than anything within my knowledge. I recommend it with the greatest confidence to those subject to coughs and pulmonary complaints."

Hydrophobia Latent for Years.

A young man named Boss Pyles, who lives at Smithland, five miles west of Shelbyville, Ind., became afflicted the other night with what is pronounced hydrophobia. He raved, barked like a dog, attempted to bite surrounding objects and showed other symptoms of that dread disease. Finally he escaped from his friends and fled to the woods. After wandering about all night he appeared at a neighbor's house, but could give no account of himself. His condition is improved. He was bitten by a dog about twelve years ago.

One dark night recently three men, who dwell near Caseyville, on the Kentucky side of the Ohio, started to go over the river in a skiff that had been lying against the bank for some days. The oarsman pulled vigorously for the other shore. When about sixty yards from the bank the man in the bow heard the hiss of a rattlesnake in the boat. In a flash the oars were stopped and all sat listening, and not a sound was heard. The skiff was pulled across to Caseyville, and there the man at the stern sprang into the water, afraid to go through the boat. Procuring a lantern at the hotel they went down to examine the boat, and found a rattlesnake with eleven rattles coiled under the oarsman's seat.

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thrist for Liquor, that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it." From a leading R. R. Official, Chicago, Illinois.
