

Amusing Lawsuit.

The Baltimore News says: One of the most amusing cases ever brought before a magistrate has just been tried by Justice Flaherty, of East Baltimore. The parties to the suit were a committee of Monumental Lodge No. 24, I. O. M., vs. Henry Henning, saloon keeper. It appears from the evidence that a grand picnic, for the benefit of the Southern relief fund, took place at Harewood on the 12th of September last. Among other amusements on the grounds was the time-honored sport of catching or missing a greased pig by the tail.

After a lively scrambling, Mr. James Collins, of East Baltimore, carried off the prize, amounting to $100, he having secured a good hold on the narrative of the squealer either with his hands or his teeth. In doing this he (Collins) skinned his forehead and right elbow besides having the gable end of his nose slightly reduced. The captor generously dropped the reward of his labor into the charity box and received the congratulations of his friends.

The pig was then let loose for another race, but refused to run again, and there being no fire-crackers on the ground, the second trip proved a failure. After considerable talk his porkship was offered for sale at public auction by Constable Kitz of the Sixth ward. The bids ran up to $275, and the pig was knocked down to Mr. Henning. The purchaser, who was clad in a fine broadcloth suit, was handed his bargain and requested to pay cash for it and carry it away.

Mr. Henning, who valued his clothing more than the greased pig, declined taking the animal under his arm, but gave the committee his address, stating that when the pig was delivered at his residence he would pay $275 and any other expense. After these arrangements were agreed to, some one stole the pig and Henning was sued for its value. Judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiffs, but the defendant states that he will appeal the case to a higher court before he pays for the greased pig that he did not get.

Why Don't You Eat.

How often does the anxious relative ask the invalid "Why don't you eat; if you don't eat, you will die." The poor man cannot; he loathes the sight of food for he has no appetite, and the little he forces down his throat seems to do no good. Tonic upon tonic has been tried upon him vainly, and yet he cannot eat what he should to restore his health. There is one remedy which seldom fails—it is PERUVIAN SYRUP. It infuses the proper kind of stimulation to the digestive organs, turns the glands which secrete to their normal work, removes the fecal matter which clogs the passages, and infuses health and hope into the invalid. When the system is run down there is no preparation more effective in renewing the impaired powers; and this Peruvian Syrup is recommended in all confidence, from its inherent virtues and its accomplished victories, to all who feel their native powers of body and mind weakening by the stress of over-work. All druggists keep it.

The Bravery of a Western Girl.

George H. Dyring, who lives about six miles out from Detroit, on the Grand river road, tells the following story of Miss Anna Brown, his niece, who is but ten years old. Saturday night Miss Brown with her father left Detroit to drive home in a light wagon drawn by one horse. Mr. Brown has been an invalid for two or three years, and of course, is very weak and unable successfully to resist any assault.

They had driven about a mile beyond the toll gate, the father holding the reins, when suddenly two men jumped to the head of the horse and stopped him, after which one of them stepped back and informed Mr. Brown that if he had any money or other valuables he would do well to produce it. Mr. Brown explained that he was a poor man and had no money, and begged them to let him proceed unharmed. By this time the second highwayman had left the head of the horse and joined his companion, and both were badgering Mr. Brown, telling him that it was useless to affect great physical weakness and poverty, for he must "shell out."

Meanwhile the girl had gained possession of the whip, and at this point she suddenly seized the reins and, with the heavy butt end of the whip, knocked one of the robbers down, while she dealt the other one a severe blow. Then giving the whip to the horse she succeeded in driving herself and father out of the reach of the robbers and beyond danger, although one of the highwaymen discharged a pistol at the flying couple.

Lady Beautifiers.

Ladies, you cannot make fair skin, rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes with all the cosmetics of France, or beautifiers in the world, while in poor health, and nothing will give you such good health, strength and beauty as Hop Bitters. A trial is certain proof. See other column. 42

Charles P. Wood, a prominent banker, of Auburn, N. Y., was found dead in his carriage last week. It is thought that death was caused by heart disease.

Manhood! How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the medical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Retention of Urine, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c. Price, in a sealed envelope, only six cents. The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
