Manhood! How Lost, How Restored! Just published, a new edition of Dr Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Remittal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Insipiensities to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c. The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically. This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the country. Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post paid, on receipt of six cents or two postage stamps. A Girl's Composition on Boys.

Boys is strange things. Boys is of three kinds. The baby boy, the little boy and the big boy. I don't like the baby boy, because he squalls and kicks, and I have to rock him in a cradle. But if the big boy or little boy squalls and kicks, I can rock him with stones. I like the little boy best when he's got candy and gives me some. But I like the big boy best when it snows, because he can haul me on his sled. A boy is a little man if he behaves himself, and if he doesn't he's a little devil; that is what mother said brother Bob was the other day when he told Miss Smith that mother said that she was an old bore. My papa said he was a little boy once, but mother said she wasn't, and she wishes papa was a little boy once more. Sister Julia says she doesn't like boys, and when I saw her and Tom Brown a setting in the rocking chair a Sunday night, she said she was trying to squeeze the life out of him 'cause she didn't like him; but I don't think she was hurting any place, for he wouldn't let her get up. This is all I know about boys, and mother says she hopes I won't never know any more about them.

A Richmond curate was recently eloquently pleading the cause of the widow, says the Sporting and Dramatic News. He drew a touching picture of the sorrows and trials and anxieties which are the lot of women thus bereaved. "Picture her then, my brethren," he continued, "picture her day after day keeping up this weary struggle, possibly with no husband to advise her." Can this be the same curate who, when preaching on the Prodigal Son, spoke of the high honor done him in slaying the fatted calf for his repast? "No ordinary calf, my brethren, but one which had been the pet of the family for years."

"Now, boys," said a Sunday school teacher who was trying to impress the doctrine of repentance on the class; "now, boys, Judas, as I have told you, betrayed his master, and then went and hanged himself. What was the very best thing he could have done before hanging himself?" "The very best thing he could ha' done," said the very worst boy in the class, "was to change his mind."

An art critic, going into a gallery in a state of mild inebriation, to criticize some pictures, sees himself in a glass, and taking out his note-book, writes as follows: "First room; head of a drunkard, no signature; has a great deal of character; red nose remarkably truthful. Must be a portrait from life; think I've seen that face somewhere."

A little girl was visiting the country, and for the first time witnessed the operation of milking. Watching the proceeding intently for a while, she inspected the cow minutely, and then launched out the poser. "Where did they put it in?"

Two Irishmen were in prison—one for stealing a cow, the other for stealing a watch. "Hullo, Mike, and sure what o'clock is it?" said the cow stealer. "An'sure," said the watch stealer, "I've no time-piece handy, but suppose it's just about milking time."

Here's the way a New Hampshire exchange tells it: Ex-Governor Miller of Minnesota is delivering a lecture in that State which is entitled "All Men Are Liars." His tickets read, "All Men Are Liars—admit one."

A little girl asked a minister, "Do you think my father will go to heaven?" "Why, yes, my child. Why do you ask?" "Well, because, if he don't have his own way there he won't stay long."

A fashionable young lady accidentally dropped one of her false eyebrows in the opera-box the other night, and greatly frightened her beau, who, on seeing it, thought it was his mustache.

A Virginia woman refuses to marry a bald-headed man, though he is a millionaire. She explained, "We'd have a family fight some time, and he has no hair to catch hold of."

In the lobby of an Irish Inn the following inscription is printed on the wall in conspicuous letters: "No person will get credit for whiskey in this house but those who pay the money down."

"Have you ever read 'The tale of a Bumblebee'?" asked George of Sarah Jane. "No," said she, as she turned the color of red paint, "but I've felt it."

"I don't like that cat, it's got splinters in its feet," was the excuse of a five-year-old for throwing the kitten away.
