

A Novel Wedding Scene.

Melissa Underwood, residing about eight miles from Vincennes, Ind., has been receiving attention from two young men—one P. H. Donovan, a farmer, the other Wm. Ayres, a Miller. Being uncertain which to marry him, but finally agreed with Ayres that she would marry him provided he would keep it secret from Donovan. On Wednesday they secured the services of a magistrate and went to the residence of the girl, and the justices commenced the ceremony, when Donovan, the other lover, appeared unexpectedly upon the scene having received a hint of what was going on. Then commenced a turmoil and confusion. Donovan grabbed the girl around the waist, exclaiming: "Oh, Melissa, don't you consent, for you know you promised me first." Ayres had the half-married girl around the waist, and called to the justice to go on. They pulled and hauled the poor girl about for some minutes, but she was finally released, but the justice refused to proceed further, and the two would-be bridegrooms departed, one of them half-married and the other not married at all.

Houses on Poor Foundations.

The outskirts of Scranton, in the region of the Bellevue colliery, one of the most valuable of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Company's mines, is threatened with a terrible disaster. There is little doubt that the mine is caving in. The first indication of the coming crash was felt a few days ago, in what is known among miners as a "squeeze," which caused several of the props sustaining the roof to give way. This was followed by the falling of a large area of the worked out portion of the mine. Several houses were disturbed and lost their balance badly by the shock, and a large chasm suddenly appeared in the roadway traversing the unsettled region. Wells are drying up, and great fissures continue in close proximity to many of the dwellings. The phenomenon is said to have started in a portion of the mine worked out about twenty years ago, and left without proper support of roof. It has now extended to the most valuable part of the colliery, and thrown about 200 men out of employment, in addition to creating a small panic among the miners' huts over head.

Very Cheap Furs.

A prominent dealer in Auburn, N. Y., placed a set of ladies' furs, wolf robes, and a valuable overcoat in two or three empty whisky barrels, to protect them from the ravages of the moths during the past summer. The articles were placed in the receptacles unknown to the employees of the establishment. During the past month the casks have been sold to parties from all parts of the country, for cider purposes. The other day the owner of the goods thought it would be well, now that winter was fast advancing, to remove the furs, robes, etc. He went into the storehouse, and after searching in vain for the vessels containing the valuables he called one of the men into the office, and inquired of him what disposition had been made of them. To his astonishment he learned that they were placed in the pile of barrels that were for sale and disposed of to unknown parties at $3 each.

A Beastly Parent.

Joseph M. Stambaugh, of Pike township, Stark co., O., was arrested Friday upon the affidavit of his eighteen year old daughter, charging him with raping her person on the afternoon of Thursday last. The accused was given a preliminary hearing Saturday before Mayor Shimp, the only witness appearing against him being the victim of his beastly lust. The raping took place in a small shanty belonging to coal miners near the residence of the inhuman father. The monster accomplished his infamous purpose by drawing a revolver on the girl and threatening instant death if she did not submit to his base demands. In default of one thousand dollars bail, Stambaugh was committed to jail, to appear before the court of common pleas.

Advices to the Loudon Times say that a prolonged drouth has brought the inhabitants of the Philippine islands to a state of starvation, and their destitution has been intensified by the ravages of locusts, which have cleared off the remnants of the maize and vegetable crops. Many of the people subsist on roots, other food being unprocureable. In some districts the streams and wells have dried up under the influence of the intense heat and the want of rain. The inhabitants of the Masbate district have to go three miles in search of water. The appearance of the swarms of locusts, following here, as in India and other countries, on severe drouth, seems to bear out the theory that the existence and multiplication of the insects are favored with dry weather. It is probable that careful search at proper stations would reveal the existence of the eggs or larvae, which might then be destroyed before their campaign of destruction commenced.

THE SUN FOR 1879.

THE SUN will be printed every day during the year to come. Its purpose and aim will be to enlighten as in the past. To present all the news in a readable form, and to tell the truth though the heavens fall. THE SUN has been and will be independent of every body and everything save the truth and its own convictions of duty. That is the only principle which has won for the newspaper the confidence and friendship of a wider constituency than was ever enjoyed by any other newspaper in the world. It is not for the rich man against the poor man, or for the poor man against the rich man, but for the real interests of all interests in the community. It is not the organ of any person, class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about the matter. It is for the honest man against the rogues every time. It is for the honest Democrat as against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support to the honest man, and measures its action in agreement with the Constitution and with the principles upon which this Republic was founded for the people. Its motto is, "Truth will prevail." It speaks out for the right. That is THE SUN'S idea of independence. In this respect there will be no change in its programme for 1879.

The Sun has fairly earned the hearty hatred of rascals, frauds, humbugs of all sorts and sizes. It hopes to deserve that hatred and see it in the year 1879, 1880, 1881, or any year gone by. The Sun will continue to shine of the wicked with unmitigated brightness. While the honest man, who is constantly kept before the people, The Sun does not propose to make itself in 1879 a magazine of ancient history. It is proud of the man who has the heart to concern himself with the affairs of to-day. It has both the disposition and the ability to afford its readers the prompt, fullest and most accurate intelligence of whatever in the wide world is worth attention. To this end the resources belonging to well-established prosperity will be liberally employed.

The present disjunct condition of parties in this country and the uncertainty of the future, lend an extraordinary significance to the events of the coming year. The discussions of the press, the debates and acts of Congress, and the movements of the leaders in every section of the Republic will have a direct bearing on the Presidential election of 1880—an event which every patriotic American whatever his political ideas or allegiance. To these elements of interest may be added the propriety of the increasing selfishness of the houses of Congress, the increasing feebleness of the fraudulent Administration and the spread and strengthening every where of a mean and grasping spirit in the exact situation in each of its varying phases, and to expound, according to the facts, the true nature of the claims that should guide us through the labyrinth, will be an important part of The Sun's work for 1879.

We have the means of making The Sun, as a political, literary and general newspaper, more entertaining and more useful than ever before; and we mean to apply them freely. Our rates of subscription remain unchanged. For the Daily Sun, a four page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, postpaid, is 55 cents a month or $6.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight-page sheet or fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid. The Sunday edition of The Sun is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid. The price of The Weekly Sun, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free. Address J. W. ENGLAND, Publisher of The Sun, New York City.
