Court convenes to-day (Monday); full report of proceedings will be given in our next issue.

From the numerous marriage notices now in our exchanges we should judge that winter pairs are now ripe.

Joseph Watts, Esq., of New Buffalo, has been appointed Mercantile Ap-praiser for this year.

The Editorial Association of Penn-sylvania will meet at Harrisburg on Wednesday, January 22nd, 1879.

Mr. George Lackey of Altoona, a former resident of this place, dropped in to see us on Monday. George is looking well.

D. M. Rickabaugh, Esq., of Millers-town, has presented the Presbyterian congregation of that place with a handsome clock for their church.

Rabbits have been remarkably plenty this season. On Friday last 20 boys were in town trying to sell those they had caught, and several boys had half a dozen each.

ty Poor House for lodging without the heretofore commitment from a Justice of the Peace, commonly called a "per-mit." We are requested to inform the Justices of the county that in the futures they should not issue commitments to vagrants requesting lodging at our insti-tution at Loysville, as it is now un-necessary.

Mr. John Weaver has discovered upon his farm, near Millbach Centre, a large quarry of black and variegated marble of exceedingly fine quality. He has had specimens cut and pollshed and they have excited the admiration of all who beheld them. They resemble very much the Tennessee marble found near Knoxville, in that state.- Lebanon Courier.

King Frost .-- As evidence of Friday and Saturday last, we note that apples in our cellar froze solid, which is the first time that frost ever effected anything in it during the fourteen years we have used it.

We know of several others whose apples and potatoes were frozen in cellars heretofore considered as frost proof.

A Narrow Escape. - On Wednesday evening as the Day Express was going through town at the rate of about fifty miles an hour, Mr. James Willis undertook to cross over he road ahead of it with a horse and sleigh, well we are glad to say he got over, but as near as it could be measured by the eye the distance between him and the engine was three inches. A dog close behind the sleigh departed this life very sudden .-Duncannon Record.

A Comical Situation.-A man named Samuel Yeager, residing at Black's Gap, Franklin county, while on the mountain the other day, saw a white oak tree with a hole in the trunk. Thinking there might be a coon or 'possum inside he inserted his head in the opening and halloed. Hearing nothing he attempted to withdraw his head, when to his surprise and horror it stuck fast. In this ludicrous predicament he was discovered a half hour later, when he was released.

Bruce, a little son of Mr. Geo. Bridges, had the end of his thumb cut off on Monday. The little fellow got his thumb in the cog wheels of a clothes wringer while it was being used.

A colored man named Nelson Cooly, while helping to thresh, on the farm of Mr. John H. Woodburn, on the Balti-more pike, fell to the barn floor in a dying condition, and died shortly after being removed to the house. Heart dis-ease was supposed to have caused his death death.

On Saturday Samuel Clark, a young man of about nineteen years, while skating, with others, on the Conedoguinet creek, near Bucher's mill, in Sil-yer Spring township, skated into an air hole and was drowned. When going down he caught upon the edge of the ice and for some time sustained himself above water, but as the boys who were with him was much to result in the source of the ice with him were unable to rescue him his hold finally gave way and he sank be-neath the ice. His body was recovered about an hour and a half afterwards, but too late for resuscitation.

Mr. Amos Mumma, who lives at a little place known as Milltown, in Up-per Allen township, must have been the mark of some one's malice. One night last week his horse was taken from his stable and shorn very close, and then put back again, where he had left him the evening before. Such a trick deserves the asverset punishment of the deserves the severest punishment of the law.

A young man by the name of Horace M'Curdy, a son of Hon. John M'Curdy, aged about twenty-two years. fell- dead on Saturday. He lived in Shippensburg and was in his usual health. He had been in a store talking to the proprietor and heft. While walking along the and left. While walking along the street he suddenly reeled and fell to the ground. People passing ran to him, but his spirit had fled. The disease was pronounced apoplexy.

On Saturday morning last Mr. George Koser, an old citizen of Mechanicsburg, fell to the pavement and was carried into the store of Mr. J. C. Bowman, Medical aid was immediately summoned Medical aid was immediately summoned and every attention given him. He was afterwards removed to his home where he lingered until Sunday morn-ing. Apoplexy was supposed to be the cause of his death.

A Singular Case .- Miss Emma Roat, residing near Camp Hill, Cumberland county, who has been suffering from an attack of malarial fever, on Thursday morning, while convalescing, was suddenly seized with a peculiar pain in her right hand and forearm. Becoming alarmed, a physician was summoned who, upon his arrival, found the hand and arm up as far as the elbow entirely dead. In a short time the surface had become black, cold, dry and insensible. On Friday, these symptoms having manifested themselves in an unmistakable degree, it was decided that nothing but amputation of the dead member would save the young lady's life. On Sunday Dr. J. T. Crisswell, of Camp Hill, assisted by Drs. M. B. Mosser and N. E. Mosser, of Mechanicsburg, and Drs. E. H. Coover and S. L. Gorgas of this city, amputated the diseased arm about two inches above the elbow. Since then the young lady has been doing ex-stealing copper from the powder mill at that place did not confine their operations solely to thefts of metal. In all they stole about $2,000 worth of copper, which they were unable to dispose of, but it was in a powder speculation that they made a net gain. Coble and Gebhart, the two thieves, were employed at the powder mill, and when the works shut down for lack of orders these two fellows, aided by another who has been arrested, went into the powder business on a large scale. They robbed the mill of one hundred kegs of powder, and then went through York and Cumberland counties selling it in small lots to dealers. The latter purchased at a low figure, asking no questions, but some of them while visiting Harrisburg, where they usually purchased the combustible material, mentioned the fact of their buying powder so cheaply and ordered no more from the Harrisburg merchants. The discovery that the powder had been stolen only came to light a day or two ngo, and as powder bonanza it was certainly rich- and dangerous .- Harrisburg Telegraph.
