Manhood! How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Involuntary Spermotorrhoea or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Leases, Itmotemy, Mental and Physicia Incapacity, Impediments to Marriare, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy and Fits, induced by self-indimence or sexual extravagance, &c.

EF Price, in a sealed envelope, only six cents.
The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful gractice, that the aismuns consequences of self-aines may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectional, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheapity, privately and radically.

EF This Lecture should be in the lands of every youth and every man in the rountry.

How he Cured a Smoky Chimney.

Yesterday as a citizen of Woodward avenue was helping a tinsmith to elevate a smoke jack to the goof of an addition on the windy side of the house, preparatory to hoisting it on top of a smoking chimney, an old man came along, halted, and soon became inter-

"That chimney smokes, don't it?" he finally inquired.

"It's the worst one in town," replied the citizen.

"And you want to stop the nulsance,

eh y "Yes, I do."

"And you think the smoke jack will do it ?" "I hope so." "Well, now, I kin stop that smoking in ten minits, and I won't hurt the chimbly nor put up any smoke jacks," continued the old man as he laid down hisbundle. "If you'll do it I'll give you five dollars," rejoined the citizen who disliked the idea of disfiguring his chimney with the clumsy jack.

"Kin I have the kitchen for five minutes?" asked the man.

The cook was instructed to vacate and the old man took possession. Removing the top of the stove he poured in enough water to put out every spark of fire. Then going out he called to the citizen on the roof.

"Has she stopped smoking?" "Well, I don't see any smoke at all," was the reply; "what have you done?"

While he was coming down the ladder the old man made off, eating a ple he had taken from the oven. The last half of it he had to bolt down while on the run, but at no time in the race did the citizen, tinsmith or servant girl get within twenty rods of him.

What Shall I Call Him.

"Stop that tram!" cried old Mr. Nosengale, chasing a flying tram-car up the street, the car fresh as a daisy and Mr. Nosengale badly blown. "stop that tram!" he shouted to a distant but fleetlimbed boy : "Certainy," shrieked back the obliging boy: "what shall I stop it with ?" "Tell it to hold on!" shouted the abandoned passenger. "Hold on to what?" yelled the boy. "Make it wait for me!" puffed Mr. Nosengale. "You got too much weight now," said the boy; "that's what's the trouble with you!" "Call the driver!" gasped the perspiring citizen, and as the tram car rounded the corner and passed out of sight, the mocking echoes of the obliging answer came floating cheerily back. "All right! What shall I call him?"

A Farmer's wife, in speaking of the smartness, aptness and intelligence of her son, a lad of six years, to a lady acquaintance, said: He can read fluently in any part of the Bible, repeat the whole catechism, and well as his father." "Yes, mother," added the hopeful, "and yesterday I licked Ned Rawson, threw the cat into the well, and stole old Hickey's gimlet."

At a country preaching appointment, Rev. J. L. M——met with a lady whom he did not immediately recognize. " Brother, Jones' daughter ?" said he, inquiringly.

"Oh, no," replied she; "I used to be his daughter, but I am married now!" A Seymore, Indiana man, picked up a stick of cordwood the other night, and chased a cat across the back yard. He didn't catch the cat, but he caught the clothes line between his teeth and now when he smiles the corners of his mouth pass each other at the back of his neck.

He took her fancy when he came, he took her hand, he took a kiss; he took no notice of the shame that glowed her happy cheek at this. He took to coming afternoons; he took an oath he'd never deceive; he took her father's silver spoons, and after that he took his
