53 A person being asked why he had given his daughter in marriage to a man with whom he was atenmity, answered: "I did it out of pure revenge."

##" Pants for $5 ?" said a seedy-looking man, reading the sign in the window of a clothing store he was passing-"so do I. I never panted so for five dollars in all my life."

** Marriage," says an old bachelor, . "is like putting your hand into a bag containing ninety-nine snakes and one eel. You may get the eel, but the chances are against you."

"Ma thinks a great deal of you, I guess," said a little girl to a doctor. "Why do you guess that, my child?" "Because I heard her say she thought you wasn't near as big a fool as that other old humbug."

us "Gentlemen of the jury," said an Irish barrister, "it will be for you to say whether this defendant shall be allowed to come into court with the cloak of hypocrisy in his mouth, and draw three bullocks out of my clients pocket with impunity."

A certain lawyer was compelled to apologize to the Court. With stately dignity be rose in his place and said: "Your Honor is right and I am wrong, as your Honor generally is." There was a dazed look in the Judge's eye, and he hardly knew whether to feel happy or fine the lawyer for contempt of

The Difference.

"What made you quit the East?" said a man in Nevada to a new-comer. "I got into trouble by marrying two wives," was the response "well," said the other, "I came out here because I got into trouble by marrying only one wife." "And I," added a bystander, "came here because I got into trouble simply by promising to marry one,"

A man once offered to bet that he could prove that this side of the river was the other side. His challenge was accepted, and pointing to the opposite shore of the river he asked—"Is not that one side of the river?" "Yes," said the man; "and is not this the other side?" "Certainly," said the other. "Then," said the man, "pay me the wager, for by your own confession I have proved that this side of the river is the other side." The dumb-profound logic, immediately paid the money.

How an Election Was Won.

Some years ago, Russ, our own G. W., was a Republican candidate for Sheriff in the Democratic county of Ripley and, as a matter of course, wanted all the votes he could get. Then as now he was passionately fond of gunning and always owned a fine gun and dogs. In this county was an old German, we will call Jake. He also was a hunter and a power among "the boys," He kept a country doggery and his "influence" was worth about thirty votes. In due time Russ met Jake and a talk about hunting, guns and dogs rather warmed the Dutchman towards Russ, although Jake was a Democrat, After a while Russ saw one of Jake's lank, pot-beilied pointers, and commenced to give away taffy. "Jake," said Russ, "that's a mighty fine dog. Where did you get him?" Jake replied to the effect that he raised that kind of dogs. "Well, I'll tell you," said Russ, "I am very fond of hunting, and if I am elected Sheriff this fall shall indulge myself in shooting to my hearts content. If I am not elected I will not be able to shoot much. I will give you $50 for that dog, Jake, if I want him after the election. Here's $5 to bind the bargain." Jake, tickled to death at the fine sale of his dog, which was worth about 50 cents, took the bill, and as a consequence his end of the county gave Russ a handsome majority and he was elected, barely pulling through. Time passed and Russ was duly installed in the office of Sheriff of Ripley county. Soon Jake put in an appearance, dragging the unwilling cur at his heels. "Mister Russ," said Jake, "you vos now elected Sheriff von dis gounty und here is dose dog. Gif me my vorty-vife dollars. "

"Jake," said Russ, "I find that my time will not allow me to hunt as much as I thought it would; you may keep the dog and the $5 too."

Jake studied a long time, and then took a long breath and said:

"Mister Russ, I pelieve you buy me and not my dog! Aint id?"
