A LECTURE To Young Men! Just Published, in a Sealed Envelope, Price, 5 cts.

A Lecture on the Nature, Treatment and Radical Cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhea, induced by Self-Abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage, generally; Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c.—By ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M.D., author of the "Green Book," &c.

The world-renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings, or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands. Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, on receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps.

Address the Publishers, THE CULVERWELL MEDICAL CO., 41 Ann St., New York; Post Office Box, 4388

PROF. HARRIS' RADICAL CURE FOR SPERMATORRHEA. "SEMINAL PASTILLE" A Valuable Diuretic and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions & Impotency by the only true way, viz: Application to the principal seat of the Disease, acting by the direct influence on the Seminal Vesicles, Seminal Ducts, Prostate Gland and Urethra. This use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience. It is quickly dissolved and exerts its effect upon the seminal and nervous organs, weakens, weakens, weakens, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this disease. Druggists are too much prescribed in this country, and, as a remedy, can bear witness to, with but little if any improvement. There is no nonsense about this preparation. It is a radical cure, and is positively guaranteed. During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now considered by the Medical Profession to be the most rational and effective remedy for the disease, and is the only one that is well known to be the cause of the disease. It is a radical cure, and is positively guaranteed. It is a radical cure, and is positively guaranteed. It is a radical cure, and is positively guaranteed.

BLOOMFIELD ACADEMY.

THE REGULAR SPRING TERM will open, MONDAY, March 31st, 1879, and continue twelve weeks.

In connection with the regular Academic course of this Institution a TEACHERS COURSE will be organized in accordance with the improved theories of instruction. While pursuing this course of study, students will be allowed to select one or two of the higher branches without extra charge, thus enabling them to fit themselves for the most advanced common schools. The following are studies from which a selection may be made: Latin, Greek, Algebra, Geometry, Philosophy, Physiology and Zoology.

Instruction is also given in Music, Drawing and Painting. A daily record is made of the progress and conduct of students which is forwarded to their parents or guardians, during the term. Special attention is given for preparation for college. For circulars, etc., address, J. H. FLICKINGER, A. M., Principal, or WM. GRUBB, Proprietor, New Bloomfield, Pa. March 11, 1879.

A Model Essay.

When young Alme Maillard was at college the professor of rhetoric gave the class as a subject, "A Eulogy of Indolence."

On the given day the compositions were handed in, and the professor, after casting his eye over the papers, remarked:

"M. Maillard, where is your essay? I don't see it among these."

"Didn't I hand it to you? I beg your pardon," said the student, and passed up a neatly folded package of manuscript.

The professor opened it, turned over the pages, got very red and exclaimed: "Sirrah, this is a miserable joke. This paper is blank—not a word in eulogy of indolence anywhere on it."

"O, I thought that the highest eulogy of indolence I could give," replied the student, "would be not to write anything."

A ruralist seated himself at a restaurant table yesterday, and began upon the bill of fare. After keeping three waiters nearly an hour employed in bringing dishes to him, he called one of them to him, heaved a sigh and whispered as he spread the bill of fare before him and pointed with his finger.

"Mister, I've et to thar, and"—moving his finger down to the bottom of the page—"ef it aint agin the rule, I'd like to skip from thar to thar."

This naval joke is going the rounds in England. A middy who had recently joined his ship was interviewed by the captain, who made the trite remark: "Wall, I suppose, as of old, they have sent us the biggest fool of the family." "No, sir," replied the modern Percival Keen, "the fashion has changed since your day."

At a Methodist conference meeting in New York a man got up and said that he had long wished to speak, but his wife wouldn't let him. His wife had died, however, and having his liberty at last, he proposed to exercise it. In about two minutes the entire conference wept over the death of the lady as over the death of a personal friend.

Scene at a wedding breakfast—company all seated about the table. A pause in the general conversation. Happy husband to his wife's little sister at the other end of the room: "Well, Julia, you have a new brother now."—Julia—"Yes; but mother said to papa the other day that she was afraid you would never amount to much, but it seemed to be Sarah's last chance."

A new recipient of judicial honors in Alabama was reminded, after the argument in a case that was being tried before him was closed, that he should charge the jury, and rose and said:—"Gentlemen of de jury, I charge you half a dollar a piece, and I say you must pay it before de case goes on."

In a primary school not long ago the teacher undertook to convey to her pupils an idea of the uses of the hyphen. She wrote on the blackboard "Bird-nests," and pointing to the hyphen asked the school, "What is that for?"

After a short pause a little Fenian piped out, "Plaze, ma'am, that's for the bird to roost on."

"Darn a fool," says Harkins, who was vexed to his wife. "So mote it be," said Mrs. H., flourishing a darning needle, "whereabouts are you worn out?" Harkins said some people were too smart to live long, and was too awfully angry when his wife congratulated him on his prospects.

"I shall not go to the masquerade unless I'm masked," said a young man to his companion, as they were promenading up Main street, Monday evening. "I shall not unless I'm asked, either," she replied. He took the hint and invited her on the spot.

The lady who did not think it respectable to bring her children up to work has lately heard from her two sons. One of them is conductor of a swill-cart in New York, and the other is runner for a beer-garden in St. Louis.

A Kentuckian married a girl without previously telling her that one of his legs was built of oak wood, and now she wain't live with him. He pinea and sings "Oak gum back to me," but she won't go.

"With all thy false I love thee still," murmured a young man as he calmly handed his girl the artificial teeth that she had sneezed into his lap.
