

A Great Engineering Work

SUTRO, Nev., June 30. — To-night the mountain tops overlooking the Washoe silver region and the Carson Valley are ablaze with bonfires, and the echoes of cannon and discharge of giant powder are heard in every direction. The event which is being celebrated is the final completion of the Sutro tunnel for the reception of the water from the Comstock mines. After ten years of ceaseless labor day and night, and the expenditure of six millions of dollars, the powerful engine of the combination shaft of the Hale & Norcross and Savage mines was started up this morning at precisely 6 o'clock, discharging the water into the Sutro tunnel, at the mouth of which it made its appearance in one hour and twenty minutes, showing a temperature at first of 101 degrees, which gradually increased to 108 degrees in eight hours. The water in the long drowned-out mines was lowered 100 feet. Everything worked well. The wooden boxes, constructed of Nevada pine, did not show a leak. No steam escaped from them, so that the tunnel showed barely an increase of temperature after the hot water was turned on. The water from the Sierra Nevada, Union, Ophir, the Bonanza mines, Best and Belcher, and Gould and Curry will not be turned on for a couple of weeks, and after all finds its way into the tunnel, it is expected that one of the double line of boxes will have ample capacity to carry off all the water. The success of the great engineering work surpasses all expectations.

A Savage Rooster Attacks a Child.

In Johnstown on Wednesday, as the 14 months old daughter of Samuel Miller, of that place, while playing in an alley that runs by her father's residence, was attacked by a large rooster belonging to another citizen of Johnstown. She instinctively threw herself face downward on the ground, when the rooster jumped on her body, striking his sharp spurs into her neck and pecking at the exposed flesh with his bill. Little Anthony Wayne, aged 8 years, was playing in the vicinity, and hearing the child's screams he bravely went to her rescue. Taking the child in his arms the little fellow carried her toward her father's house, the rooster following close behind and occasionally giving a spring and digging its spurs into the boy's clothing. The attention of a female member of the family was soon attracted, and she went out and drove the rooster away, and then carried the affrighted child into the house. It was discovered that there was quite a deep hole behind one of the child's ears and another near the temple, both of which wounds bled freely.

In a Predicament.

The Bethlehem News says: Workmen are now engaged in repairing the roof of McShane bell foundry, on North street, and use boiled pitch in their operations. Last night a half barrel of this material in a hard state was left on the sidewalk, and about 10 or 11 o'clock an individual, supposed to be slightly inebriated, took a seat on it and went fast asleep.

His nap lasted for several hours, but about three o'clock this morning the watchman at Adams' Express Company's freight depot, on the other side of the street, heard the fellow cry for assistance, and upon crossing the street found him stuck fast to the pitch and unable to move. The watchman used all his endeavors to release him, but, like Aunt Jemima's plaster, "the more he tried to pull him off the more he stuck the faster." Finally, after every expedient was exhausted, the watchman cut the man loose by means of a sharp knife.

Shocking Sight for a Father.

The remains of the two young girls burned to death near Jonesboro, Ga., Sunday night, were carried to Covington for interment. Mr. Reynolds is almost a maniac. It required four men to hold him. A new piano made the family unusually gleeful that night, and the last song was "In the Sweet Bye and Bye." The two girls, one nine and the other sixteen, went to bed up stairs. Mr. Reynolds, his wife and two small children slept below. The frantic father, unable to render other aid, stood outside and shouted to his daughter, as she leaned in the window enveloped in flames, to jump out. They burned to death before his eyes.

READING, April 25.—The Miller sensation has ended in peace and reconciliation between the parties concerned. The friends who went to Saratoga for Miller returned here this afternoon, excepting the Rev. Henry A. Neitz, who went to his home at Germantown, accompanied by Miller, where Miss Neitz will join him in a few days, when the marriage ceremony will take place. The pair will make an extensive wedding trip, not returning here until the excitement has died out. No reason has as yet been assigned for Miller's sudden departure.

A lot of thirty bushels new wheat, in good order, was sold in Baltimore, June 16, the first sale of the season. It brought $1.25 a bushel. The wheat was raised by J. Q. Robertson, of Northumberland Co., Va. The first new wheat was received last year June 13, and sold for $2.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

PLAIN INVITE ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING

STATEMENT OF FACTS.

A FEW PLAIN WORDS TO ALL BUYERS OF DRY GOODS. WE DEAL IN DRY GOODS EXCLUSIVELY.

The results of a lifetime experience in this special line of business; the concentration of all our time and personal attention upon it; the facilities afforded by ample capital invested in DRY GOODS ALONE; a thorough knowledge of all markets, European and American; constant personal supervision of every detail of the business—all these advantages combined enable us to constantly unfold opportunities to our patrons which can scarcely be found elsewhere. Other houses may lead in other special lines of business, or even attempt to do a little in all branches of merchandise; we prefer to DO ONE THING WELL, and

TO LEAD IN THE

DRY GOODS BUSINESS.

Owning the largest retail stock of Dry Goods in Philadelphia (having six floors of our large building packed with goods) all purchased EXCLUSIVELY FOR CASH in the best markets of the world, we submit that we are in a position to offer unequalled inducements to all buyers of Dry Goods. In addition, our store, built by ourselves, for our own business, is conceded to be the most conveniently appointed and the best lighted business establishment in the United States. To be able to examine goods under a perfect light is no small advantage to every prudent buyer. Consumers everywhere within reach of Philadelphia cannot fail to see the advantage of obtaining their supplies where not only the heaviest Dry Goods stock is carried, but where the largest business admits of the smallest profits.
