A FULL ASSORTMENT OF HARDWARE, IRON & STEEL WILL BE FOUND AT OUR NEW STORE-ROOM. F. MORTIMER, New Bloomfield.

Cervantes has said, "Every one is the son of his own works." This makes the great Krupp the son of a gun.

"My brethren," said Swift, in a sermon, "there are three sorts of pride—of birth, of riches, and of talents. I shall not now speak of the latter, none of you being liable to that abominable vice."

"Why," asked a governess of her little charge, "do we pray God to give us our daily bread? Why don't we ask for four or five days, or a week?" "Because we want it fresh," replied the ingenious child.

As a party of gentlemen and ladies were climbing to the top of a high church tower one hot day a gentleman remarked, "This is rather a spiral flight of steps." To which a lady rejoined, "Yes, perspiral," and she wiped her brow as she spoke.

"And how does Charlie like going to school?" Kindly inquired a good man of the little six-year-old boy, who was waiting with a tin can in hand. "I like goin' well 'nough," replied the embryo statesman, ingenuously, "but I don't like stayin' after I git there."

An Irishman discharged an over-loaded gun at a rabbit. Having been knocked senseless, as he recovered and rose from the ground and saw the nimble rabbit making off over the hill exclaimed, "Faith an' if ye'd bin at my end of the gun, you would't be scampering about in that way, sure."

"You made a fool of me," said an irritated man to his wife, "and that's the way you got me to marry you." "My love," sweetly responded the wife, "you do yourself an injustice. Call yourself a fool if you please, but remember that you are in all respects a self-made man."

Lord North, who was not fond of scientific music, being asked to subscribe to a series of concerts refused. "But your lordship's brother, the bishop of Winchester, subscribes," urged the applicant.

"If I were as deaf as he I would subscribe too," was the reply.

An editor got shaved in a barber shop lately and offered the ducky a dime which was refused, "because," said he, "I understand you is an editor."

"Well, what of that?" "We never charge editors nuffin!" "But such liberality will ruin you." "Oh, neber mind, we make it up off of the gemmen!"

A gentleman from the provinces went into the shop of a Parisian tailor to order some clothes. While his measure was being taken, he said to the sartorial Aristarchus, "You must find that I am very badly dressed?" "Oh no," replied the artist, "you are not dressed at all; you are simply covered."

The wife of a railroad conductor who had been discharged had the lightning-rods taken off the house and sold one day during her husband's absence. "Why did you do that?" said he, when he found it out; "ain't you afraid you'll be struck with lightning?" "Not when you are around," she replied: "ain't you a non-conductor?"

The paternal author of the belle of Saratoga the other day, shortly after his return to the springs, was approached by a youth, who requested a few minutes conversation in private, and began: "I was requested to see you, Sir, by your lovely daughter. Our attachment—"

"Young man," interrupted the parent, briskly, "I don't know what that girl of mine is about. You are the fourth gentleman who has approached me this morning on the subject. I have given my consent to the others, and I give it to you. God bless you!"

A little fellow rushed into the street recently to look at a monkey that accompanied an organ-grinder who was playing in front of an adjoining block. Never having perused the "Origin of Man," he gazed in wonder and admiration for a few moments, and then rushing into the house he met his grandmother, to whom he addressed this question: "Grandmother, who made monkeys?" "God, my boy," replied the old lady in her candid way. "Well," said the excitable grandson in rejoinder, "I'll bet God laughed when he got the first monkey done."
