Ohlo and lowa Elections.

From Ohlo the returns show the election of Foster (Republican) for Governor by about 17,000 majority. The Republicans have both branches of the legislature which insures a Republican to succeed Thurman in the U.S. Sen-

IOWA.

From Iowa, the returns show a large gain to the Republicans. The State Register now puts the majority on the State ticket at 30,000 over the other parties, with an extreme likelihood that it will reach 35,000. The Republican majority in the legislature on joint ballot will be larger than in the last. The Re-publican gain over the vote of two years ago is put down at 33,000 votes, the Republican candidate then lacking 3,000 of a majority over all.

Particulars of the White River Massacre.

NEW YORK, October 15 .- A special from Denver gives the following: "Information which comes by way of Indian runners, who are in communication with Chief Douglas in the mountains, is that when the massacre of Agent Meeker and his men took place, the white women comprising Mrs. Meeker and her daughter Josephine and their attendants, where quartered in a different building. One of the marauding Indians started to enter this building. He was shot dead upon the threshold by one of the occupants, who is believed to be Miss Josephine Meeker. This check probably saved the women from outrage. It was then that Chief Douglas, one of the agency Indians who had not participated in the hostilities. came forward and prevented any further molestation on the women's quarters .-Chief Ouray, of the Los Pinos agency, is reported as receiving a messenger every six hours from the White River Indians, but he is cautious in furnishing information, and particularly careful not to say anything that will betray the whereabouts of hostiles or assist the soldiers in their search for them. These runners do not know the name of the Indian whom Miss Meeker shot. All agree that the Indian who was shot was a tall man, with beard and black, piercing eyes. It is not supposed that it was Chief Jack, although this description tallies with that of the most notable of the outlaws.

"The greatest uneasiness is felt here concerning the situation of the miners on Gunnison and Eagle rivers, of whom there are fully a thousand scattered about the Indian reservation, poorly armed. An organization has been effected at Ruby and at Gunnison."

Wants His Wife.

NEW YORK, October 14.-A singular suit was brought before the Supreme Court here yesterday, being the attempt of a young Frenchman to secure possession of his wife, who he avers is detained by Henry B. Livingston, a wellknown gentleman. Mr. Livingston and family were traveling in France when the young woman was hired as a nurse. She obtained her husband's consent to come to America and wrote to him after her arrival here. At length the letters stopped. She wrote to her relatives that she did not care to return to her husband. Mr. Livingston's wife died, and he wrote to the young husband in France that the nurse had gone home .-Amanton, however, believed that she was yet in this country, and he came here searching for her. At the Livingston mansion he says he was bluffed off. and he sought the courts. A habeas corpus was granted, but the writ could not be served and the case was postponed. The young husband believes that his wife is detained in Livingston's house, whether by force or voluntarily he knows not.

A Weather Prophet Speaks.

William I. Pyle, of West Goshen, Chester county, predicts a mild winter. He addrees this from the manner in which the bees are conducting themselves. He says they are working now harder than they did when the white clover was in bloom, and have just begun to kill the drones off, which is a sign that they don't anticipate a very severe winter. Mr. Pyle says the bees never make a mistake in this respect, hence his confidence in his prediction.

A Terrible Record.

Fifty-four murders, over ninety murderous assaults and attempts at assassination, and 115 successful and attempted robberles constitute the record of the Mollies. McManus, who was hanged at Sunbury last Thursday a week, and O'Nelll are the last of the indicted ones, and the organization is broken, as those of the active participants who are not hanged or in prison are fugitives. It is reasonably certain that not more than 100 men were active in the murders, assaults and outrages perpetrated by this band, but it is asserted that behind them, giving aid and support, was the organization known as the Ancient Order of Hibernians, numbering in the coal regions, as estimated, from 600 to 800 members. They were repudiated by the order of the same name which extends through the United States, and the assessment of $5 on each of the 6000 divisions in the Union for the defence of the Mollies wasnot always paid.

Kept His Secret too Long.

Virgil James lay dying at Little Rock, Ark., a few days ago. It was known that he had $5,000 hidden somewhere, and he was asked to divulge the secret before it was too late. "No," said James: "I will tell my sister when she comes." When he was nearly gone an old negro man, who formerly belonged to the family, went to the dying man, and, leaning over, said; "Marse Virgil, you can't live but a few moments longer. Tell me where your money is, and I'll tell her when she comes." "No," replied James; "I'll feel better after a while. My sister will be here pretty soon." He died soon afterward, and the money will probably never be found.

The Flow of Gold From England.

LONDON, October 14. - The "Daily News" says; "If the gold continues to leave England and France as it has lately it will soon become necessary to consider the possibility of a measure to stop the outflow. It will be time for England to consider what action to take when the French authorities made a move by directly or indirectly raising the premium on gold to such a point that the whole incidence of the United States demand is thrown on this coun-

Burned From the Explosion of a Coal Oil Lamp.

About half past eleven o'clock on Thursday night there was an alarm of fire which proved to be the burning of a house occupied by Adam Brown, in North Lebanon, and late the estate of A. Treidi, deceased, about half a mile north of Seibert's brewery. The family had hardly time to escape, after becoming aware that the house was on fire. The fire was caused by the explosion of a coal oil lamp, something that those using that article are in constant danger of.-Lebanon Courier.

Didn't Know it was Loaded.

A young medical student named Nelson was shot fatally at the Front-street, Theatre, Baltimore, last week by a man on the stage who fired a musket forward that he supposed was not loaded with ball.

Curious Feed for Poultry.

At Baltimore last week a produce commission merchant found in a chicken-coop two money packages, containing $7,500, placed there by a careless express messenger, at Benwood, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 15, 1879. The politicians had possession of Washington last night with a vengeance. The elections in Ohio and Iowa were the great topics of interest and discussion. Of course Iowa was expected to go Republican, but the size of its majority was a surprise. The attention of the people was at once called to the fact that Sepator Allison had taken hold of the campaign more vigorously than usual, and that he had induced Senator Blaine and others also to take a hand. Senator Allison is a favorite here, even outside of his party, and this victory points to him as a strong man, with a national reputation that is sure to grow upon a solid foundation. It is probable that, if the Republicans found it necessary to struggle for the Iowa vote, Senator Allisof would be a formidable candidate for President on the ground of availibility as well as statesmanship.

But this is a digression, Ohlo of course is the interesting point, and that State had the attention of the Republicans, who shouted themselves hoarse all night. It is remarked that this may help the Sherman boom, but I think the more general opinion is that honors are easy in the Republican party, Foster and Garfield inside the State, and Blaine and Chandler outside, dividing with Sherman the credit of party work. But the most interesting part of the result relates to the legislature. If, as they claim, the Republicans have got possession of that, then Senator Thurman loses his place in the U.S. Scuate, if not his hold upon the Democratic party for the Presidency. He will be greatly missed by them, for he is their strongest man in Congress, and would be a formidable aspirant for promotion. Besides this, a Republican legislature will proceed to re-district the State, so as to restore their former power in the Congressional delegation. The Democrats having so changed the Districts as to give themselves a majority of the members, the Republicans have made a special point of this, and will fix it to suit themselves. The mixed campaign in Massachusetts is attracting great attention. A correspondent in Boston writes here as follows : "It is very funny to look over the morning papers and find Zach Chandler and Ben. Butler and W. A. Simmons all taking part in this mixed up fight, and the first stalwart opposing the two last stalwarts. Almost as funny must it have been to see 'Honest Ben' wipe the perspiration from his brow after his Faneul Hall speech to his Democratic supporters, and run breathlessly to Music Hall to help his friend Simmons convince the Republicans to vote for him. Zach Chandler, at Worcester, insisted that the Republicans should vote against Butler on national issues, and Butler insisted at Fancul and Music halls that the people should vote for him on State issues. The question would naturally be asked, what difference is there between Chandler and Butler on national issues? for there is really none. Butler is as good a Republican as Chandler is, especially on the issue made by the last extra session, and Genl. Collins struck the keynote of the opposition of the 'old-fashioned' Democracy when he said at the Convention the other day, O do not vote for Butler or any other Republican. But the funniest thing in this canvass is the circulation by the Butler Democrats of Dr. Bland's 'Life of Butler,' at twenty-five cents, an edition of which has been issued by the enterprising publishers, Lee and Shepard. The book is really valuable as a contribution to history, but it is full of anti-Democratic sentiments. However, Butler counts it as one of his most valuable aids."

The National Fair here, which is to open on the 28th and continue nine days, will be a pretty big thing. Washington will be in holiday attire during that time.

OLIVE.

Not Our Kind of Weather.

LONDON, Oct. 17.-A Vienna dispatch to the "Globe" this evening says :-" Snow is falling here thickly, and is now six inches deep. At Gratz the snow is several feet deep. Such weather is unprecedented at this time of the year."

VIENNA, Oct. 18.-There was a severe snow-storm yesterday. It extended throughout Galicia, Russia and the Alpine regions.

PARIS, Oct. 18.-There was a sharp frost in the Department of the Gironde yesterday, endangering the vintage.-Snow has fallen at Marseilles.

Miscellaneous News Items.

There was a novel feature in the burial of Miss Mamie Glase of Oley, Berks county, of last Friday. The pall bearers were all young lady friends of the deceased.

Emanuel Deary, aged 7 years, son of John Deary, of West Hempfield township, Laucaster county, was killed on Saturday, while leaning on his gun and having a chat with Wm. Grove, a young friend who was husking corn in a field near Silver Springs. The charge of shot passed through the lungs and entered the heart.

Sr. Louis, Oct. 15 .- A special from Independent Missouri, says: "Stevens and Campbell, two desperadoes, were arrested on Monday night on suspicion of robbing the express messenger on the Chicago and Alton train. It is believed that the whole gange live in Jackson county.

A contest between a rattlesnake and a sow and pig lately occurred in Montgomery county, Ga. The snake first bit the pig; then the old sow attacked the snake and in her turn was bitten. She succeeded in killing the snake, but when Mr. Bridges the owner of the farm, reached the spot he found the reptile and the animals side by side, dead. This would seem to contradict the opinion that the hog is proof against the bite of the rattlesnake.

At Huntingdon Monday afternoon a brakeman named Fickeus, whose residence is at Harrisburg, while making a coupling fell betwern the cars. The unfortunate man was badly squeezed by the deadwoods a car run over one foot and cut it off, and the car was thrown from the track. Fickens was seriously injured internally and was not expected to live until morning. He had been employed on the road but a short

The 8-year old daughter of Albert Terry, of Danielsville, N. Y., helped her father pull potato vines recently, and subsequently ate some bread and butter without washing her hands. Shortly after she was taken with a sharp, griping pain in the stomach and other symptoms indicating inflammation of the bowels, which increased during the night. Next morning Dr. Hutchman was called, but before he reached the house the child was dead. A possible explanation may be found in the fact that Paris green had been used to sprinkle the vines.
