BOOKSEMILLION MARRIAGE

An amateur singer frightened a pair of canary birds to death. It was a case of killing two birds with one tone.

The young lady who married her father's coachman says she was driven

The joker who intimated that he had some "nuts to crack," must have meant jestnuts.

When his wife asks him for a dollar or two for current demands, he smiles sweetly and says, " True love. darling, never seeks no change." A Philadelphia barber refused to color Bob Ingersoll's mustache, on the plea that it never should be said of him " that he dyed an infidel." Ignorant men often make grave mistakes. The landlord of a North Carolina hotel has posted up in his diningroom a notice which says: "Members of the legislature will be scated first and gentlemen afterwards.'

That was a ghastly joke that a sinful townsman played on a stranger, whom he promised to introduce to a rich planter, and then took him around and presented him to the leading undertaker.

ear Fashionable Lady going out of church; "What a powerful sermon! I was never before so impressed with the duty and sprivilege of giving freely. I am determined to do better and to send this very week, another new slik dress to my daughter."

"Bless me Emily, you don't look as well as usual-indeed, I do not think I ever saw you looking as old as you look today."

"My dear, I never was as old as I am to-day."

Beware of small things! A black seed no larger than a pin point will grow an onion that may tint the breath enough to break up a betrothal, ruin a school and shatter the good intentions of a sewing circle.

When I was a boy," said a prosy long-winded orator to his freind, "I used to talk in my sleep." "And now," said his friend, "you sleep in your talk." But somehow that didn't seem to be just exactly the point the orator was going to make. cynic lately observed, "when you find that love, glory and happiness, are, to-gether, not worth a good cigar." "It is a sadder moment still," replied a friend, "when you find that the cigar itself is bad." "Where do all the flies come from?"

querulously demanded old Mr. Gunnybags, waving his hands frantically over his tormented head. "That isn't the question," replied his equally tormented partner, "when are they going back again, that's what I want to know." Lady E. Duncan was an heires s, and Sir W. Duncan was her physician during a severe illness. One day she told him she had made up her mind to marry, and upon asking the name of the fortunate chosen one, she bade him go home and open the Bible (giving him a chapter and verse) and he would find it out. He did so, and read what Nathan said unto David-" Thou art the man."

An Irishman was going along a road, when an angry bull rushed upon him and with his horns tossed him over fence. The Irishman recovering from his fall, upon looking up saw the bull pawing and tearing up the ground, and said: "If it was not for your bowing and scraping your apologies, you brute, faix I should think you had thrown me over this fence on purpose."

A Joke on the Lawyer.

The best lawyers always tell the best stories, and with none the less zest when at their own expense. Not long ago - was before Surrogate Counsellor C-Calvin in a case where the question involved was as to the mental condition of the testatrix. The witness under examination, herself an aged lady, had testified to finding Mrs. S-failing, childish, and that when she told her something she looked as though she didn't understand. Counsellor C----, cross examining, tried to get her to describe this look, but she didn't succeed very well in doing so. At last, getting a little impatient, heasked: "Well, how did she look? Did she look at you as I am looking at you now, for instance ?" The witness, very demurely, replied: "Well yes; kind of vacant like."
