A SINGULAR CHURCH SCENE.

A Pittsburgh dispatch dated 93nd inst., says :- The people of this city are in a fever of excitement to-day, owing to a fisticuff fight which took place in the First Reformed Presbyterian church last night .--Some weeks ago the congregation voted for a pastor, Rev. Nevin Woodside being chosen. A majority of trustees charged that his selection was the result of illegal votes. A majority of the congregation were determined that Woodside should be cetained. Last night the quarrel culminated in a free fight. Both factions were present in full force. Woodside wanted to preach, but his opponents had another clergyman whom they wished to preach. Both parsons waxed hot, and a scrimmage occurred for possession of the pulpit. A general fight, which was thickest around the altar, then took place, and lasted a quarter of an hour. The police finally quelled the riot, but not before a number of people had their arms broken and heads gracked. The church presents a sorry appearance to-day. Pews are broken, remnants of broken glass, hymn books, bibles, hair pins and bangs are strewn over the floor. Great indignation prevails in church circles.

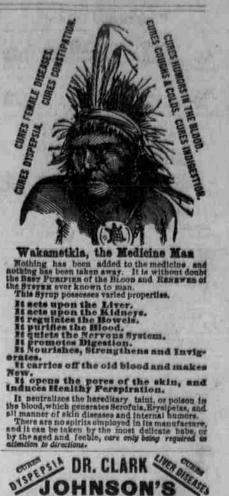

The Rev. Nevin Woodside was, until he removed to Pittsburgh, the pastor of the First Reformed Presbyterian Church in Duffield street, Brooklyn. He had about two hundred members in his church and he preached to small congregations. His ministry was satisfactory, and his church reluctantly consented to his going away .--One of the elders said last night that they had given him a letter strongly recommending to the love and affection of his new charge. He added, in a dry and humorous way, that the letter did not seem to have had much effect. The Brooklyn church, he said, would gladly receive bim back. The story which kept the Brooklyn gossips busy about five years ago, at the time of Mr. Woodside's marriage, has entered into the trouble in the Pittsburgh church.

The story, as investigated at the time, developed into a very curious romance, in which a young lady, with whom the preacher was iu love, married a man nearer her own age, who, soon after their marriage, died. When Mr. Woodside learned that she was a widow he pressed his snit, and soon made her his wife. Afterward it was alleged that her first husband was not dead at all, but that Mr. Woodside had induced him to leave the country. The elders of the church investigated the different stories, obtained documentary evidence disproving them, and were perfectly satisfied stories were started by those who were jealous of his marriage, and that they were sent to Pittsburgh to cause discord there, Mr. Woodside will be immediately recalled to Brooklyn if he is kept' out of his pulpit in Pittsburgh.

A Meteor That Killed a Man.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 18 .- The report from Nemeba county, Kap., of the death of David Meisentlater, a stockman, by being struck by a falling meteor, first ame through the Tribune published at eca, the county seat, and has since been confirmed by a gentleman from that place with whom our correspondent had an interview. The latter says there is no doubt about the meteor. Meisentlater was well known and his death is acknowledged to have been caused as stated. It took place on the morning of December 12, about eight o'clock, and the sky at that time was perfectly clear. It was very cold, and Meiseutlater had gone from his house to a pasture about five hundred yards distant to drive up some cattle. He was walking towards the barn on his return, and while standing about twenty feet from the trunk of a maple tree was killed. The aerolite which caused his death came from an easterly direction, and first struck the tree trunk, which caused it to glauce slightly, and in its flight it cut the upper branches of the maple and entered Meiscutlater's body from below the right shoulder, coming out at the left hip, and then partially burying itself in the frozen ground. Its course was undoubtedly changed by contact with the tree, as could be seen by the manner in which the latter was splintered. The deadly missile is said to be about as large as an ordinary man's head and eggshaped and rough, as if taken from a hot furnace and cooled in its flight through space. It resembled in appearance iron taken from a blast furnace and cooled by rolling in sand, and is composed of iron pyrites. It was perfectly cool when discovered, about half an hour after its fall, and lay not more than two feet below the surface of the ground.
