She Didn't Give it up. "W——, do you know why you are like a donkey?" "Like a donkey!" echoed W——, opening his eyes wide. "No I don't!" "Do you give it up?" "I do, for I never could guess a conundrum." "Because your better half is stubbornness itself." "That's not bad. Ha! ha! I'll give that to my wife when I get home." "Mrs. W——," he asked, as he sat down to supper, "do you know why I am like a donkey?" He waited a moment, expecting his wife to give it up. But she didn't. She looked at him somewhat commiseratingly as she answered: "I suppose because you were born so."

All There, but Rather Mixed. A few weeks ago a baby was taken into a church to be baptized, and his little brother was present during that rite. On the following Sunday, when the baby was undergoing his ablutions and dressing, the little brother asked mamma if she intended to carry Willie to be christened. "Why, no," replied his mother; "don't you know, my son, that people are not baptized twice?" "What!" returned the young reasoner, with the utmost astonishment, "not if it don't take the first time!"

The hotel boy had been instructed, when he knocked at Dean Stanley's door and heard the inquiry "Who's there?" to reply, "The boy, my lord." The boy answered the first call with considerable trepidation, and surprised his dean by a loud response to his question—"The lord, my boy!"

A new boy at a boarding-school diverted the minds of the other pupils from their books by munching nuts, whereupon the teacher relieved him of his edibles and reprimanded him. Next day the master received a note from the new scholar's mother, which conveyed this information: "If mi Boy kant eat nuts out loud in Skule, I will educate him miself at home."

A Boy's Question. And were all the little birds drowned, mamma?" Mamma (who had been telling the story of the deluge—"Yes, all but those who were in the ark." Willie—"Then I do think they were stupid, why didn't they get in a row on top of the ark?"

An old farmer said of his pastor, who was rather mild in his preaching, "He's a good man, but he always rakes with the teeth up." Gentleman: "I say waiter, I've just cracked this egg. Look at it." Waiter: "Don't look very nice at that end sir, I must say. Try the other once."
