REPUBLICANS in the Virginia Legislature are ready to vote for a compromise bill regulating the State debt, which is acceptable to the refunders. There is great consternation in the ranks of the readjustors in consequence.

THROUGH the agitation recently inaugurated at San Francisco, many persons who were opposed to the Chinese have now become disgusted with the talk by Kearney and his followers, and have withdrawn their support from

THAT the number of defaced coins is very large and seems to be increasing is probably observed by every person handling much money. The government in order to abate the nuisance, has directed its agents not to receive any clipped or mutilated coins, and if every one will follow this course they will soon be crowded out of circulation and the petty swindlers will be forced to turning their attention into some other direction.

SENATOR BAYARD on a recent visit to Virginia was invited to visit the Legislature, which was in session at the time. He flatly refused, and emphatically stated that he had no desire to associate with debt repudiators. He had nothing but contempt for them. If all persons who refused to pay their honest debts were treated in such an unceremonious manner it would have good effect on mankind in general.

Presidential Prospects.

The State Convention of New York was held last week and a resolution was passed by a large majority declaring Grant the first choice of that State.

Vermont presents Senator Edmunds as their first choice of their State, with an apparent decided preference for Blaine as second choice.

Indianapolis, Feb., 25.—Delegates to the Republican Convention to be held at Chicago were elected in all the Congressional districts to-day. The majority of them were uninstructed, but twelve of them are known to favor Blaine, two favor Sherman, and several Washburne for second choice.

What They Say in Their Sleep.

Don Cameron: If Grant will not accept, I will take it myself, by gracious. Secretary Sherman: I am undoubtedly the greatest person this century has produced.

Ex-Gov. Seymour : Gentlemen, your-(snores calmly, but firmly.

Senator Conkling: What a rebuke my election would be to that plebian Senator Blaine: Mr. Ingersoll is right. I am indeed, a plumed knight, I am also a sea horse on wheels. General Grant: Do I look like a person who would decline a thing after going around the world to obtain it?

Senator Sharon: I am the rose of myself; I am the lily of the valley. I am for a fact.

Hendricks: Once for all I will play second fiddle to nobody. (kicks Mrs. H. out of bed.)

Colonel Lugersoll: I am sure Blaine would do the handsome thing by me .-I am strongly in favor of that excellent person.

Mr. Tilden : It is not good for man to be alone. If I cannot find a wife, I will at least buy a dog .- Cincinnati Inquirer.

A Deliberate Murder.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.-A bold murder was committed this afternoon on Tunnel street. The murdered person was a young man, apparently 25 or 80 years of age, and the murderer, an old drunken scrap-iron and rag dealer, who is seen daily in the village of Old avenue, but nobody seems to know his name. Two boys, each about 15 years of age, were eye-witnesses to the murder. They were on their way to school, and had stopped on the sidewalk just above Fifth avenue, when they noticed two men turn the corner. The young man, William Penn, was carrying a dinner bucket and a bridle, while the other man wore a long, brown overcoat, was short and heavy, had a reddish moustache and whiskers, and in general was very ragged and drunken in appearance. He was a man much older than his companion, perhaps fifty or fifty-five years of age, and the two seemed to be quarreling. Hot words were passing between them. They had not gone more than twentyfive or thirty steps from Fifth avenue when the old man, who was next to the sidewalk, gave the other a push into an alley, and at the same time drew a large butcher knife from under his overcoat and stabbed him in the left side. The wounded man fell with a groan. The man who stabbed him stood and looked at him for a short time, and when the wounded man called "police," he replied, "Police | call the police, d-n you. I don't care," and turning around coolly, walked down the street. The two boys followed him, but it does not seem that they gave the alarm. A crowd soon gathered around the injured man. He didn't seem to be bleeding at all, and the people were in doubt for a while whether he really had been cut. The man was breathing very heavily and was utterly unable to speak. He was unconscious, and died within five minutes after he was hurt. Kelley, the murderer was arrested the next day.

Selling Chickens in Broad Street.

A crowd of some 4,000 people gathered at 11 A. M. Wednesday around the Sheriff's auctioneer, Thomas Sullivan, in front of the Stock Exchange to buy some Brahma fowls and in an indirect way to subscribe generally to the Irish relief fund. Two large drays were drawn up in the middle of the street and on one of these improvised platforms Cornetist Levy tooted the "Irlsh Washerwoman," "The Harp that Once Through Tara Halls," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," and "St. Patrick's Day." Several stump orators volunteered their services, Captain Rynders monopolized the business. While his speech was contending with the shouts of the multitude the following subscription were received: Wm. Traphagen, $100; Nash & Crook, $125; Henry Hughes, $250; James O'Brien, $300; George Canfield, $350, and Sheriff Bowe, $125. The three Brahmas, which were the gift of Mr. Ruckholdt, of New Haven, were monstrous birds, the cock weighing seventeen pounds and the hens twelve pounds each. After some competition they were knocked down to Andrew Martin for $35. Three Plymouth Rocks were sold to the same bidder for $15, and a lot of pasteboard eggs, or "persuaders," to the truckman, Mr. Taggart, for $4. Several smaller contributions were received, swelling the total amount to $1,200, and then Levy blew "Garryowen." A gang of pickpockets made merry with the purse of the philanthrophists during the proceedings. The police were powerless, for it took over half an hour to clear the sidewalks.-N. Y. World.

The Sand Lot Gang and the Chinese.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb., 24.-At the sand lot yesterday, Gannon the leader of the unemployed, intimated that they would finish their rounds among the employers of Chinese this week, after which there would be less noise made, but their meetings would be secret and dangerous to those who refused to comply with their demands. The Board of Supervisors, the Chief of Police, and a number of prominent citizens held a private consultation yesterday, which is believed to have reference to the threat made on Sunday by Kearney to erect a gallows on the sand lot this week. Among the business classes the revival of a committee of safety is talk-

Western Storm.

A Bismarck special dated Feb. 24th says: The worst snow storm ever known in the northwest raged here for two days. For two months a succession of storms has interrupted travel on the Northern Pacific, causing a very large loss to the roads and to the Black Hills Stage Company. But three trains have arrived from the East since February 1,. All extensions, improvements and repairs are suspended.

A Strange Mother.

The story comes from Easton that a mother tried to have her son sent to the House of Correction that she might get rid of him. His case was dismissed, when the Judge ascertained that he was her fourth child, and she wanted to get rid of him on account of her husband's having insisted that she should bear only three children;

Was John Book, a colored woman of Lancaster, on Monday gave birth to her twenty-second child and died about two bours afterward. Mrs. Book was an industrious, hardworking woman. She had been married about twenty-four years, and within that time gave birth to twenty-two children, fourteen of whom are living. They are of course of all ages -from 23 years down to one day old. At the time of her death Mrs. Book was about 42 years old. Her husband is a hardworking laboring man, usually engaged in carrying the

A widow met a certain gentleman in Pittsburgh on Wednesday for the first time. It turned out to be love at first sight; he proposed, was accepted, and the pair were married on Friday night. No long court-ship for them.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 25, 1880. The calling of the Democratic Convention at Cincinnati two weeks later than the Republican Convention at Chicago has an unmistakable significance. Ohio they intend to make one of the debatable grounds of the campaign, and if the Republicans make a blunder in their nomination Pennsylvania will also be doubtful. The blunder which the Democrats are hoping their enemies will make is the enforcement of the third term idea in the nomination of Grant. In that case the Democrats would nominate Haucock, who, with the present dissatisfaction with the Grant-Cameron management in Pennsylvania, would probably carry that State. The Democrats think that this would justly give them a fine chance. But will the Republicans make this mistake? I don't believe they will. They are beginning to be fearful of the third term themselves, and it looks as though Blaine would break that boom in Illinois. They may blunder, but it looks as though they would not so completely put themselves into the hands of their opponents as to nominate Grant.

It is probable that the deficiency bill for the Star Mail service will be adopted, because it will be disastrous to cut down that service now. But it will be so qualified that the extravagance of its administration cannot be continued.

The Ute prisoners will be here in a few days, and shortly we shall know what their fate shall be and whether peace or war will be the condition of the "Indian question" for the season.

Under the bill, giving the State five per cent. of the value at one dollar and a quarter per sore, of lands granted by the General government on military land warrants, the following states will be benefited, and 12 Maine lawyers are beginning to think they are smart. One of them went to consult another on a perplexing point of law. The visited man stiffly remarked that he usually received pay for his advice. The other handed him fifty cents, and said "Then tell me all you know and give me back the change."

13 Mrs. Harriet Hink was found brutally murdered in her house in Paterson, N. J., on Saturday. She was a widow, and the motive of the assassin was robbery, as her person was robbed of a valuable gold watch, some fewelery and a considerable sum of money she had just received. No arrests have been made.

12 Upon unlooking a car filled with guano, last Tuesday, at Hogansville, the agent found two tramps inside who had managed to get locked up in the car at Altoona and had stolen a ride to Hogausville. They had been in the car twelve or fifteen hours, and were glad to be released from the enjoyment of the strong smelling fertilizer. The guano had saturated their clothes and bodies.

A letter from Crescent, Iroquois county, Ill., say : Two of our young ladies made arrangements to take two of our young gentlemen to church last Thursday evening, gathered courage and popped the question to the chaps, got their consent, but, lo and behold, before the time came one of the chaps gathered himself up and left the neighborhood. The joke is on the leap-year girls this time.

Three young men cutered the lager beer saloon of Charles Gehring, of Reading, and demanded drinks late on Saturday night. They undertook to leave without paying, and Gebring soized the hat of one of the party, and they then began destroying his furniture and stoning him. Gehring then seized a gun and shot one of the party, named Henry Trump, in the head. The shot took effect in his eyes, face and neck. He was carried home in a dying condition. The saloon keeper gave himself up.

A tramp met a sad fate in the woods near La Harpe, Hancock county, Ill., the other night. He built a fire around him and went to sleep, but was awakened by his clothing taking fire, and tried to subdue the flames by rolling on the ground. Not succeeding, he ran to a slough, where he put out the fire, but not before his clothes were burnt off him and his flesh crisped in a frightful manner. In this terrible condition he walked to the town of Disco, two miles distant. He will most likely die.

& A little girl named Annie Gemmill, ten years of age, whose residence is in Harrisburg, took, by mistake, on Monday evening a spoonful of carbolic acid, instead of medicine she had been using. The intense pain produced and the disagreeable smell and taste soon convinced her what she had swallowed, and she immediately acquainted her mother with the fact. The latter quickly procured the nearest remedy at hand (a bottle of machine oil) and gave her a large dose, which had the effect to neutralize the effects of the soid. The little girl was taken to the hospital for treatment, and save a very sore mouth, where the soid took effect, she was doing as well as could be expected.

Shrewdness and Ability.

Hop Bitters so freely advertised in all the papers, secular and religious, are having a large sale, and are supplanting all other medicines. There is no denying the virtues of the Hop plant, and the proprietors of these Bitters have shown great shrewdness and ability in compounding a Bitters, whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation.-Exchange. 10 2t
