

A Woman's Ingenuity.

A New York lady was returning from a matinee at Wallack's, one Saturday afternoon, when she had her silk dress nearly ruined by the splatters of a street-sweeping machine. She indignantly told her friends she could invent a better street-sweeper than that herself, and in spite of their ridicule did so. She had no end of trouble getting a model made. The workmen laughed at and imposed upon her, charging her exorbitant prices for everything. She sent a pattern to a tinsmith, and he sent the duplicate an inch shorter. The second time he made it an inch longer. Then he wanted to know what the thing was for, anyway, and said he didn't suppose it would make any difference if it wasn't exactly like the pattern. The inventor told him to mind his own business; when he filled her order she would pay his bill. At the end of a year from the time of her silk-dress mishap the model was done. She has patented it, and proposes to have the lion's share in all the profits for herself. She was a mechanical enthusiast when a child, and inherited it from her father, who, she says, was constantly inventing things.

A Miser Dies of Starvation.

John B. Felly, aged 70, was found last week at his home in Spencer township, Harrison county, Ind., lying dead upon the floor, with his eyes eaten out, and one arm and one side frightfully gnawed by rats. He was quite feeble, a widower, lived alone, and had been dead a week when his body was discovered. There was no food in the house, nor anything to prepare any from, and the conclusion is irresistible that the old man died of starvation. He owned a farm of 100 acres of good land. Three weeks ago he went to Rothrock's mill, near by, and asked to purchase some flour on a short credit, but was denied; then the old man returned home to die of starvation. He was a miser and had a good deal of money hid away.

Too Much Importing.

Secretary Sherman is concerned about the accumulation of silver in the Treasury, and has called the attention of the Cabinet to it. The pile of silver is going up and the pile of gold is going down in the Treasury vaults. The immense increase in imports has caused the flow of gold to this country which was so large three and five months ago to cease almost entirely, and the tide has turned the other way. If the imports keep up until June to the amount reported in January and February the balance of trade in favor of the United States will be reduced to a very low figure for this year and the gold accumulated will be drained away. The Secretary is anxious to get the silver dollars into circulation and use them instead of gold in the markets.

An Unlucky Surrender.

A dispatch from Butler, in this State, to the New York Times says that ten years ago James McHenry, of Atlantic and Great Western Railway fame, purchased 28,000 acres of undeveloped iron land in Butler and Lawrence counties. The purchase price was $300,000, of which he paid $20,000. The lands are now being developed, and capitalists are rapidly securing property at an enormous price. The McHenry purchase is now worth more than double the price he was to pay for it.

PITTSBURG, March 1.—Quite a panic was created this morning in a small village called Temperanceville, located on the Monongahela river, about twenty-three miles from this city, by the persistent attempts to destroy the place. The village is immediately opposite Monongahela City, which is in the local option county of Washington. The liquor dealers established their headquarters at Temperanceville, to which place the tipplers, old and young, resorted.

About 2 o'clock this morning Markle's tavern was set on fire and totally destroyed, together with all its contents. A private house adjoining, owned by Frank Menown, was also consumed. While this fire was in progress a new house, occupied by Fred Anton, saloon keeper, was fired, but the flame was extinguished. The incendiary then applied the torch to the building occupied as a saloon by Fred Lamou. The first attempt failed, but two hours later a second effort was made, and the building and its contents were destroyed. No clue has been obtained of the perpetrators.

A young woman member of the Rose Tree fox hunting club of Chester county won the admiration of spectators a few days ago by driving her hunter at hot speed down a steep hill and leaping him over a stone wall and road ditch at the foot. She kept her saddle as though she had been a part of it, and when in the air looked defiantly back at some of the men, members of the club also, who had reined up and were going around the wall. She becomes the heroine of the two fox hunting counties of the state.

As Myron Cummings was driving past a place where some wood-choppers were at work, near Woodmansie, N.J., last week, a huge tree fell, killing Mr. Cummings and one of his horses.

NEW YORK'S GAS-LIT LIFE ILLUSTRATED.

The above is the title of a series of sketches of the shady side of life and character in the Great Metropolis, now being fully illustrated from authentic sketches in the National Police Gazette of New York, which are realistic and faithful portrayals from real life. The illustrations are by the best artistic talent attainable, and the descriptions are from the pen of the most gifted journalist and brilliant writer in America, who, it is conceded, has rivalled that master hand at work painting—Charles Dickens. It is sufficient to say that 'New York's Gaslit Life' will present the most striking, vivid and truthful pictures of the under-current of life in New York City that have ever been presented to the public. The National Police Gazette of New York, is for sale by all newsdealers, price 10 cents per copy, or it can be ordered direct from the publisher. Subscription price, $4.00 per year. The National Police Gazette, of New York, has no connection with any other publication of its class who for gain, as far as possible copy its title and appearance. CAUTION.—The public are cautioned against buying weak imitations of the National Police Gazette. In all cases see that the paper is dated from New York and has the publishers name printed on each copy. Remittances should be made by post office order, draft on New York, or by registered letter, to RICHARD K. FOX, Publisher, Cor. Spruce and... New York City, February 17, 1880.
