Remember we claim it will cure a bone spavin and completely remove the bunch without blistering. Statement Made Under Oath. To Whom it May Concern:—In the year 1875 I treated with Kendall's Spavin Cure a bone spavin of several months' growth, nearly half as large as a hen's egg, and completely stopped the lameness and removed the enlargement. I have worked the horse ever since very hard, and he never has been lame, nor could I ever see any difference in the size of the hock joints since I treated him with Kendall's Spavin Cure. H. A. In these words a correspondent lately introduced a piece of poetry to the notice of the editor of a newspaper: "The following lines were written fifty years ago by one who has slept in his grave merely for his own amusement."

"I do not think, madam, that any man of the least sense would approve your conduct," said an indignant husband. "Sir," retorted his better half, "how can you judge what any man of the least sense would do?"

A child four years of age, having been told that we are all made of dust, observes a large amount flying about in whirlwind confusion. "Hallo! there is somebody being made; I wonder if it is a boy or a girl?"

A little boy (five years old) wished to pray for the brother of one of his father's servants, who had had a bad accident. "I don't know his name," he said to his nurse, "but I suppose God will know who I mean if I pray for Tom's brother."

Bertie had half a biscuit buttered, and a whole one unbuttered. He gave Grace the whole one and kept the buttered. A remark being made about his giving away the larger piece, Grace said, "Yes, he gave me the biggerest, and kept the butterest."

Tradesman (to country customer who has come to complain of the quality of his lucifer matches): "Not light? Why, I have only to draw them smartly across my cord breeches, and they blaze instantly." Customer: "Yes; but what's that to me? I can't come a matter of four miles for your old breeches every time we want a light."

A clergyman asked his Sunday school: "With what remarkable weapon did Samson at one time slay a number of Philistines?" For a while there was no answer; and the clergy to assist the children a little, commenced tapping his jaw with the tip of his finger, at the same time saying: "What's this?" Quick as thought a little fellow innocently replied, "The jaw bone of an ass, sir."

A small boy got up to read a composition on "The Tree." He got as far as "This subject has many branches," when the teacher said, "Stop! you have not made your bough yet." "If you interrupt me again," said the boy, "I'll leave."

"You give me any more impudence, and I'll take the sap out of you. Do you understand?" said the teacher. "I twig," said the boy, and then the regular order of business proceeded.

On making a pastoral visit at the house of one of his parishoners recently, a clergyman of Syracuse improved the opportunity to catechise a little boy of four years of age. "What class are you in?" said the minister. "In the interest class," replied the boy. "What have you learned?" Answer: "The commandments and the creed." What, then, is the first commandment?" "Nobody shall have any gods but me," said the lad. "What is the creed?" The little boy thought a moment, and then answered, "I believe in the Holy Catholic Church, the forgiveness of sins, and the Communion set."

"What Did Mary Say?" A lawyer is responsible for the following story: During the trial of a man named Gogzell, for kidnapping, an incident occurred which created considerable merriment at the expense of judges and counsel. A Miss Sloan was giving evidence, and was requested to state all she knew about a certain transaction.

Witness: "I was in the sitting room when Mary came in from the kitchen hurriedly and Gogzell after her. He caught hold of her at the sitting-room door and said: "Mary, you have been here long enough; come and go home now." Counsel: "What did Mary say?" Counsel for the Prosecution: "Stop there! I object to that question."

Here a heated discussion of nearly two hours took place, in which four lawyers participated, after which the learned judge gave a long and serious harangue on the subject, and finally in a very formal and pompous manner, stated that it was the opinion of the Court that the question should be answered. The Court was by this time crowded to suffocation, and the most intense interest was manifested at this stage of the proceedings. The question was then repeated amid breathless silence: "What did Mary say?" and the witness answered simply, "She didn't say a word."
